Something In My Mind Besides The Everyday Women And Literacy:

Something in My Mind Besides the Everyday Jennifer Horsman, 1990 This book grew out of a belief that the omission of studies about women and literacy is a crucial mistake If we are to challenge the myths of illiteracy we need studies that start from the standpoint of the women who are labeled illiterate or silent We need to listen to women s accounts of their own lives I m even feeling better just learning having something else in my mind besides the everyday Judy I think it s probably pretty strange to anyone that doesn t realize the kind of a life that a battered woman lives I made it my little mini war trying to win battle after battle to get my own little place my own little piece of myself I want to work I want to work at something that I can enjoy getting up in the morning where I think I m accomplishing something where I can get paid a reasonable amount to live on I m asking for the moon and the stars and everything else Alice Women and Literacy Susan Imel, 1996

Women and Literacy Beth Daniell, Peter Mortensen, 2020-08-17 Path breaking research on women and literacy in the past decade established conventions and advanced innovative methods that push the making of knowledge into new spheres of inquiry Taking these accomplishments as a point of departure this volume emphasizes the diversity of approaches and subjects that characterizes the next generation of research on women and literacy It builds on and critiques scholarship in literacy studies composition studies rhetorical theory gender studies postcolonial theory and cultural studies to open new venues for future research Contributors discuss what literacy is more precisely what literacies are but their strongest interest is in documenting and theorizing women s lived experience of these literacies with particular attention to the diversity of women s literacies within the U S including but not limited to the varying relations that exist among women literacy economic position class race sexuality and education relations among women literacy and economic contexts in the U S and abroad including but not limited to changes in women s private and domestic literacies the evolution of technologies of literacy and women s experience of the commodification of literacies and emergent roles of women and literacy in a globally interdependent world This broad significant work is a must read for researchers and graduate students across the fields of literacy studies composition studies rhetorical theory and gender studies Worlds of Literacy Mary Hamilton, David Barton, Roz Ivanič, 1994 The idea behind this book is that in complex societies like our own there are different worlds of literacy that exist side by side People belong to different cultural groups we lead different lives we read and write different things in different ways and for different purposes The idea that literacy is embedded in social context that there are different literacies is now accepted This book presents a range of case studies describing some of these worlds of literacy and is carefully organised by theme so as to bring out both the differences and connections between them It will be a source book for students on courses of literacy studies The case studies span the whole age range but the book focuses particularly on the variety of uses of literacy in adult life both inside and outside of formal education The authors argue that in order to understand literacy and help people learn to read and write we must look beyond school to the everyday uses of written communication The contributors come from diverse backgrounds they include students and teachers in adult basic education higher education and schools others are community publishers and researchers several of whom are internationally known They share a commitment to plain accessible language The book is extensively illustrated and sign posted to enable readers to move easily between case studies and themes This makes it a book to dip into which can also be enjoyed by anyone concerned with the role of written communication in education and society as a whole The themes that are dealt with include different voices literacy and identity the role of literacy in making choices and change collaborative writing and creating new forms of written expression gender and literacy bilingual literacy spoken and written language children and adult learners public and private uses of literacy and bureaucratic literacy      Talking Appalachian Amy D. Clark, Nancy M.

Hayward, 2014-08-29 Tradition community and pride are fundamental aspects of the history of Appalachia and the language of the region is a living testament to its rich heritage Despite the persistence of unflattering stereotypes and cultural discrimination associated with their style of speech Appalachians have organized to preserve regional dialects complex forms of English peppered with words phrases and pronunciations unique to the area and its people Talking Appalachian examines these distinctive speech varieties and emphasizes their role in expressing local history and promoting a shared identity Beginning with a historical and geographical overview of the region that analyzes the origins of its dialects this volume features detailed research and local case studies investigating their use The contributors explore a variety of subjects including the success of African American Appalachian English and southern Appalachian English speakers in professional and corporate positions In addition editors Amy D Clark and Nancy M Hayward provide excerpts from essays poetry short fiction and novels to illustrate usage With contributions from well known authors such as George Ella Lyon and Silas House this balanced collection is the most comprehensive accessible study of Appalachian language available today      Gender Identity and Discourse Analysis Lia Litosseliti, Jane Sunderland, 2002-05-31 Gender and discourse interface in many more epistemological sites than can be represented in one collection Gender Identity and Discourse Analysis therefore focuses on a principled diversity of key sites within four broad areas the media sexuality education and parenthood The different chapters together illustrate how taking a discourse perspective facilitates understanding of the complex and subtle ways in which gender is represented constructed and contested through language The book engages critically with long running and on going debates but also reflects and develops current understandings of gender identity and discourse particularly the shift from gender differences to the discursive shaping of gender Gender Identity and Discourse Analysis thus offers not only insights and methodologies of new empirical studies but also careful theorisations in particular of discourse text identity and gender The collection is a valuable resource for researchers postgraduates and advanced undergraduates working in the area of gender and discourse      Women, Literacy, and Development Anna Robinson-Pant, 2004 This book presents a new perspective on the assumed links between women's literacy and development and explores current innovative approaches to research and policy around women's literacy      Remnants of Nation Roxanne Rimstead, 2001-01-01 Treating poverty not simply as a theme in literature but as a force that in fact shapes the texts themselves Rimstead adopts the notion of a common culture to include ordinary voices in national culture in this case the national culture of Canada      Advocacy

Research in Literacy Education Meredith Rogers Cherland, Helen Harper, 2023-05-31 This book reviews what the authors term advocacy research in literacy education research that explicitly addresses issues of social justice equity and democracy with the distinct purpose of social transformation It surveys what educational researchers who are working for social justice have accomplished describes current challenges and outlines future possibilities The first section maps the terrain of advocacy research in literacy education The authors group this large and expanding body of research into four categories Critical Literacy ies Radical Counternarratives in Literacy Research Literacy as Social Practice and Linguistic Studies Each chapter describes the research area traces its history provides example studies and assesses the contributions of research to advocacy work now and potentially in the future The second section provides a deeper consideration of challenges to the field of advocacy research and suggests future directions for research and scholarship this section reflects the need to complicate and trouble the terms and relations between and among social justice ethics democracy freedom and literacy As a whole this book is a response to the current popular understandings of literacy education that limit the efficacy of advocacy work in these troubled times understandings that support the proliferation of standardized testing teacher testing and scripted lessons and programs along with the privileging of particular forms of research Intended for those who work or soon will work in literacy education students teacher educators researchers and practitioners this book represents the authors belief that it is time for advocacy workers to strengthen and intensify their efforts to promote the most principled effective literacy education for democratic life It is their hope that this book will contribute to such an effort      Sons of the Sierra Patrick J. McNamara, 2012-09-01 The period following Mexico's war with the United States in 1847 was characterized by violent conflicts as liberal and conservative factions battled for control of the national government The civil strife was particularly bloody in south central Mexico including the southern state of Oaxaca In Sons of the Sierra Patrick McNamara explores events in the Oaxaca district of Ixtlan where Zapotec Indians supported the liberal cause and sought to exercise influence over statewide and national politics Two Mexican presidents had direct ties to Ixtlan district Benito Juarez who served as Mexico's liberal president from 1858 to 1872 was born in the district and Porfirio Diaz president from 1876 to 1911 had led a National Guard battalion made up of Zapotec soldiers throughout the years of civil war Paying close attention to the Zapotec people as they achieved greater influence McNamara examines the political culture of Diaz's presidency and explores how Diaz who became increasingly dictatorial over the course of his time in office managed to stay in power for thirty five years McNamara reveals the weight of memory and storytelling as Ixtlan veterans and their families reminded government officials of their ties to both Juarez and Diaz While Juarez remained a hero in their minds Diaz came to represent the arrogance of Mexico City and the illegitimacy of the Porfiriato that ended with the 1910 revolution      Research on Technology Use in Multicultural Settings Tirupalavanam Ganesh, Anna W. Boriack, Jacqueline R. Stillisano, Trina J. Davis, Hersch C.

Waxman, 2014-10-01 This book is the third volume in the series on Research in Educational Diversity and Excellence The goal of this series is to bring issues of diversity and educational risk to the forefront of national attention in order to assist the nation's diverse students at risk of failure to achieve academic excellence This series focuses on critical issues in the education of linguistic and cultural minority students and those placed at risk by factors of race poverty and geographic location The purpose of the present book is to summarize and discuss recent perspectives research and practices related to the use of educational technology in multicultural settings Technology that is already ubiquitous in our daily lives brings a myriad of issues to the area of education Although educational systems should be geared to address challenges appropriately the systems should be designed and developed to provide opportunities to take advantage of technology use This book is noteworthy in that it presents a variety of theoretical and practical considerations for technology use in diverse multicultural contexts Consisting of 12 chapters the book proposes theoretical concerns for understanding technological learning environments today and envisions the potential impact of future technology use and examines technology tools and models that have been used for interventions programs and projects and measures and documents specific outcomes and challenges involving complex interactions within low income and language minority families and students      Sociolinguistics of Writing

Theresa Lillis, 2013-03-11 Brings the study of writing to the heart of sociolinguistic inquiry This book puts writing at the centre of sociolinguistic inquiry drawing on a range of academic fields including New Literacy Studies semiotics genre studies stylistics and new rhetoric The key question the book explores is what do we mean by writing in the 21 century Using examples from across a range of contexts the book argues that writing involving both old and new technologies is a pervasive and complex communicative feature of contemporary life The book is organised around the following areas The multimodal nature of writing The verbal dimension to writing Writing as everyday practice Writing as a differentiated semiotic and social resource Writing as the inscription of identity A range of analytic tools for analysing writing as text and practice are illustrated including genre register discourse and metaphor as well as notions which emphasise the mobile potential of writing such as genre chains networks literacy brokers and text trajectories This book seeks to redress the neglect of writing in the field of sociolinguistics by introducing readers to the nature and consequences of what it means to do writing in a globalised world      Aging in a Second Language Steven L. Arxer, Maria del Puy Ciriza, Marco Shappeck, 2017-05-30 This unique account of English language acquisition by Latino elders shines intimate light on the increasingly complex concerns of aging immigrant minority populations Rich qualitative findings detail sociocultural barriers to and social and emotive factors that promote second language acquisition in older age The book's case study highlights diverse cognitive and social processes as elders establish a sense of self as learners and as part of a learning community and a sense of place as newcomers navigating a challenging environment And first person comments from the group members deftly illustrate the intricacies of being an immigrant in a rapidly changing America as well as the myriad intersections of race ethnicity gender culture and country that shape immigrant life Included in the coverage Minority aging in an immigrant context Late life second language acquisition cognitive and psycholinguistic changes challenges and opportunities Building emotions for self identity and learning Practicing safe language socialization in private and public spaces Language resocialization and gender allies Aging second language acquisition and health Aging in a Second Language gives clinical social workers gerontologists health and cross cultural psychologists sociologists educators and other professionals deep insights into the lives of an emerging active elder population It also pinpoints challenges and opportunities in research literacy program design pedagogy clinical outreach education policy and service delivery to immigrant elders

Local Literacies David Barton, Mary Hamilton, 2012-03-12 Local Literacies is a unique detailed study of the role of reading and writing in people's everyday lives By concentrating on a selection of people in a particular community in Lancaster England the authors analyse how they use literacy in their day to day lives It follows four people in detail examining how they use local media their participation in public life the role of literacy in family activities and in leisure pursuits Links are made between everyday learning and education The study is based on an ethnographic approach to studying everyday activities and is framed in the theory of literacy as a social practice This Routledge Linguistics Classic includes a new foreword by Deborah Brandt and a new framing chapter in which David Barton and Mary Hamilton look at the connections between local and global activities interfaces with institutional literacies and the growing significance of digital literacies in everyday life A seminal text Local Literacies provides an explicit usable methodology for both teachers and researchers and clear theorising around a set of six propositions Clearly written and engaging this is a deeply absorbing study and is essential reading for all those involved in literacy and literacy education

Managing to Care Ann E. P. Dill, The point of departure for Managing to Care is widespread concern that the present delivery of health and social welfare services is fragmented uncoordinated inefficient costly wasteful and ultimately detrimental to clients health and wellbeing Dill traces the evolution of case management from its start as a tool for integrating services on the level of the individual client to its current role as a force behind the most significant trends in health care Those trends include the entrenchment of bureaucracy the challenges of once dominant professions and the rise of corporate control The author's purpose in adopting this analysis is to invite further scrutiny of the case management profession and at the same time to identify new possibilities for its application This volume brings together thoughts developed over many years of observing and participating in case management programs It provides a multilayered perspective of case management showing linkages among its social and historical contexts and the ways it is practiced today in diverse service settings The author emerged convinced about the essential need for care coordination and that present ways of providing care can work against our highest objectives in doing so The paradoxes and contraindications embedded in case management practice became a major theme of the book Managing to Care is highly critical of the ways case management has come to absorb and reflect the organizational flaws of the very service systems it was intended to reform Too often management of the case comes to dominate care The author does not call for a rejection of professional systems in favor of a resurrected informal community While much can and should be done to strengthen our ties to one another there will always be people whose problems require more expert help Dill argues here that case management can provide such help and provide it well but only if it is grounded in the human dimension of a caring relationship Ann E P Dill associate professor of sociology and gender studies at Brown University is a medical sociologist and social gerontologist Her research examines issues affecting the long term provision of health care and social services both in the United States and in countries formerly part of Yugoslavia      Researching Language and Literacy in Social Context David Graddol, Janet Maybin, Barry Stierer, 1994 This volume shows how experienced researchers have approached investigations of talk or reading and writing behaviour and what they have discovered about the social and cultural embeddedness of language and literacy practices
