Nelson,2018-10-16 A taut fast paced thriller about the coming high tech arms race between the United States and China In the high mountains of Tibet rumors are spreading People whisper of an outbreak of thousands of dead of bodies pushed into mass graves It is some strange new disease a disease they say that can kill in minutes The Chinese government says the rumors aren't true but no one is allowed in or out of Tibet At the Pentagon Admiral James Curtiss is called to an emergency meeting Satellite images prove that a massive genocide is underway and an American spy has made a startling discovery This is no disease It's a weapons test Chinese scientists have developed a way to kill based on a person's genetic traits But that is only the tip of the iceberg The success of their new weapon proves that the Chinese are nearing Replication a revolutionary breakthrough that will tip the global balance of power and change the way wars are waged Now the US must scramble to catch up before it is too late Admiral Curtiss gathers the nation's top scientists including a promising young graduate student named Eric Hill who just might hold the missing piece to the replication puzzle Soon Hill and his colleague Jane Hunter are caught up in a deadly game of sabotage as the two nations strive to be the first to reach the coveted goal But in their headlong race they create something unexpected something the world has never seen and something more powerful than they had ever imagined The Last Sword Maker is an exciting globe trotting thriller with unforgettable characters that depicts a haunting vision of the future of warfare St. Nicholas Mary Mapes Dodge,1896 Bibliography of Jewish Life in the Fiction of American and England Rebecca Schneider,1916 Ancient Rome in the English novel: a study in English historical fiction Randolph Faries,2023-07-09 In Ancient Rome in the English Novel A Study in English Historical Fiction Randolph Faries meticulously examines the representation of ancient Rome within the framework of English literature tracing its evolution from early works to contemporary narratives This scholarly exploration reveals how historical fiction has shaped and mirrored societal values political contexts and cultural imaginings of Rome employing a narrative style that is both analytical and descriptive Faries offers insightful critiques of notable authors and their interpretations situating their works within the broader tradition of historical fiction while highlighting how these narratives contribute to and reflect English cultural identity Randolph Faries an esteemed scholar of English literature draws upon a rich academic background that spans classical studies and literary analysis His expertise is evident in his ability to weave intricate connections between historical facts and literary representation illustrating how the fascination with ancient Rome has influenced English writers This passion for the antiquity combined with a profound understanding of literary trends has informed his approach making this work a cornerstone in the field of historical fiction studies This book is highly recommended for scholars students and enthusiasts of literature and history who seek to understand the multifaceted relationship between ancient Rome and English novelists Faries insightful analysis not only enriches the reader's comprehension of historical fiction but also invites a deeper inquiry into how the past continues to shape contemporary narratives The Sword Maker Robert Barr,1910

Theopompus of Chios Michael Attyah Flower,Michael A. Flower,1997 Theopompus of Chios was one of the most important ancient Greek historians of the fourth century BC Although his work has survived only in fragments it is still a rich and vital source of information for Greek political social and intellectual history during the age of Philip of Macedon This book explores both Theopompus's historical method and the intellectual milieu in which he worked while placing the fragments themselves in context by examining where and why they are cited by later authors Flower's illuminating and original study leads up to some important new conclusions about historical writing in the fourth century BC that there was no so called Isocratean school of rhetorical history that Theopompus used moral explanations typical of Greek thought to account for historical changes and that oral tradition as opposed to rhetorical invention was still vibrant in the fourth century All Greek in the book is translated St. Nicholas ,1896
