Johnson shares his lessons and exercises from the classroom, starting with word choice, sentence structure, and narrative voice, and delving into the mechanics of scene, dialogue, plot, and storytelling, before exploring the larger questions at stake for the serious writer: What separates literature from industrial fiction? What lies at the heart of the creative impulse? How does one navigate the literary world? And how are philosophy and fiction concomitant? Publisher information. The New Yorker, 1997 Killing Cassidy Jeanne M. Dams, 2013-04-01 Dorothy Martin is fitting in comfortably in her new English home, and now that her policeman husband Alan has retired, she's looking forward to some quiet time with him. But then the letter arrives: an old acquaintance in Indiana has died and left her a small inheritance. It seems an excuse to travel back to the States and take a well-deserved vacation. Dorothy should have known better. As well as the money, Kevin Cassidy has left a note predicting his own murder. It seems absurd: the beloved professor was ninety-six when he died, apparently from pneumonia. But Alan and Dorothy know about innocent facades. As Dorothy begins to investigate, Alan discovers that his wife's sleuthing is hard work, and that here Dorothy is very much in charge. Bowker's Guide to Characters in Fiction 2007, 2008-02 Snow Falling on Cedars Jane Curran, 1998 The Arbutus/Madrone Files Laurence Ricou, 2002 This lively and perceptive look at the literature of the U.S. and Canadian Pacific Northwest explores the dynamics of the cross-border region using resonant quotations, poetry, song,
