Tourism and Poverty Reduction Anna Spenceley, Dorothea Meyer, 2017-10-02 Over the past decade there have been an increasing number of publications that have analysed and critiqued the potential of tourism to be a mechanism for poverty reduction in less economically developed countries LEDCs This book showcases work by established and emerging researchers that provides new thinking and tests previously made assumptions providing an essential guide for students practitioners and academics This book advances our understanding of the changes and ways forward in the field of sustainable tourism development Five main themes are illustrated throughout the book 1 measuring impacts of tourism on poverty 2 the need to evaluate whether interventions that aim to reduce poverty are effective 3 how unbalanced power relations and weak governance can undermine efforts 4 the importance of the private sector's use of pro poor business practices and 5 the value of using multidisciplinary and multi method research approaches Furthermore the book shows that academic research findings can be used practically in destinations and how practitioners can benefit from sharing their experiences with academic scholars This book was based on a special issue and various articles from the Journal of Sustainable Tourism

Governance, Natural Resources and Post-Conflict Peacebuilding Carl Bruch, Carroll Muffett, Sandra Nichols, 2016-04-07 When the guns are silenced those who have survived armed conflict need food water shelter the means to earn a living and the promise of safety and a return to civil order Meeting these needs while sustaining peace requires more than simply having governmental structures in place it requires good governance Natural resources are essential to sustaining people and peace in post conflict countries but governance failures often jeopardize such efforts This book examines the theory practice and often surprising realities of post conflict governance natural resource management and peacebuilding in fifty conflict affected countries and territories It includes thirty nine chapters written by more than seventy researchers diplomats military personnel and practitioners from governmental intergovernmental and nongovernmental organizations The book highlights the mutually reinforcing relationship between natural resource management and good governance Natural resource management is crucial to rebuilding governance and the rule of law combating corruption improving transparency and accountability engaging disenfranchised populations and building confidence after conflict At the same time good governance is essential for ensuring that natural resource management can meet immediate needs for post conflict stability and development while simultaneously laying the foundation for a sustainable peace Drawing on analyses of the close relationship between governance and natural resource management the book explores lessons from past conflicts and ongoing reconstruction efforts illustrates how those lessons may be applied to the formulation and implementation of more effective governance initiatives and presents an emerging theoretical and practical framework for policy makers researchers practitioners and students Governance Natural Resources and Post Conflict Peacebuilding is part of a global initiative to identify and analyze lessons in post conflict peacebuilding and natural resource management The project has generated six books of case studies and analyses with contributions from practitioners policy makers and researchers Other books in this series address high value resources land water livelihoods and assessing and restoring natural resources Latin America Transformed Robert N Gwynne,Kay Cristobal,2014-04-23 Restructured to offer a more thematic approach Designed to be more student friendly with new features including chapter summaries a glossary of Spanish phrases and acronyms All the chapters have been substantially revised and a new chapter on livelihoods and place as well as a concluding chapter have been added All the chapters have been substantially revised and a new chapter on livelihoods and place as well as a concluding chapter have been added Encyclopedia of the Developing World Thomas M. Leonard,2013-10-18 A RUSA 2007 Outstanding Reference Title The Encyclopedia of the Developing World is a comprehensive work on the historical and current status of developing countries Containing more than 750 entries the Encyclopedia encompasses primarily the years since 1945 and defines development broadly addressing not only economics but also civil society and social progress Entries cover the most important theories and measurements of development relate historical events movements and concepts to development both internationally and regionally where applicable examine the contributions of the most important persons and organizations and detail the progress made within geographic regions and by individual countries In the Way of Development Mario Blaser,Harvey A. Feit,Glenn McRae,2004 Authored as a result of a remarkable collaboration between indigenous people s own leaders other social activists and scholars from a wide range of disciplines this volume explores what is happening today to indigenous peoples as they are enmeshed almost inevitably in the remorseless expansion of the modern economy and development at the behest of the pressures of the market place and government It is particularly timely given the rise in criticism of free market capitalism generally as well as of development The volume seeks to capture the complex power laden often contradictory features of indigenous agency and relationships It shows how peoples do not just resist or react to the pressures of market and state but also initiate and sustain life projects of their own which embody local history and incorporate plans to improve their social and economic ways of living

Human-Environment Interactions Eduardo S. Brondízio,Emilio F. Moran,2012-11-15 Drawing on research from eleven countries across four continents the 16 chapters in the volume bring perspectives from various specialties in anthropology and human ecology institutional analysis historical and political ecology geography archaeology and land change sciences The four sections of the volume reflect complementary approaches to HEI health and adaptation approaches land change and landscape management approaches institutional and political ecology approaches and historical and archaeological approaches Anthropology and Contemporary Human Problems John H. Bodley,2008 Using the cross cultural evolutionary and multi disciplinary perspectives that are unique to anthropology this text examines contemporary civilization s most pressing problems and generates ideas for solutions and hope for the future Better Land Husbandry Jon Hellin,2016-04-19 This book is a timely contribution towards the debate on the most effective way to bring about sustainable farming in marginal areas It offers a detailed analysis of the social economic and agro ecological characteristic of both Soil and Water Conservation SWC and Better Land Husbandry BLH and an analysis of case studies of BLH from Central

Environment and Infrastructure Giacomo Bonan, Katia Occhi, 2023-04-27 The material and energy flows that characterized the metabolism of preindustrial and industrial societies were organized through complex infrastructures based on interwoven social and natural elements Analyzing infrastructures from many methodological and thematic perspectives the present volume adopts an extensive periodization to identify the undeniable changes caused by industrialization and the persistence of pre existing features and dynamics The contributions range from the late Middle Ages to the 1990s and deepen historical characteristics of urban metabolism the study of energy systems and their transitions and the management and control of water resources These reveal the strategies societies and states adopted to transform and adapt their surrounding environment in a constant and challenging equilibrium of diverse interests whose impact over time has had environmental consequences on a global scale

Globalization and New Geographies of Conservation Karl S. Zimmerer, 2006-09-15 Examining the geographical dimensions of environmental management and conservation activities implemented on landscapes worldwide Globalization and New Geographies of Conservation creates a new framework and collects original case studies to explore recent developments in the interaction of humans and their environment Globalization and New Geographies of Conservation makes four important arguments about the recent coupling of conservation and globalization that is reshaping the place of nature in human environmental change First it has led to an unprecedented number of spatial arrangements whose environmental management goals and prescribed activities vary along a spectrum from strict biodiversity protection to sustainable utilization involving agriculture food production and extractive activities Conservation and globalization are also leading by necessity to new scales of management in these activities that rely on environmental science thus shifting the spatial patterning of humans and the environment This interaction results as well in the unprecedented importance of boundaries and borders transnational border issues pose both opportunities and threats to global conservation proposed by organizations and institutions that are themselves international Lastly Globalization and New Geographies of Conservation argues that the local level has been integral to globalization while the regional level is often eclipsed at the peril of the successful implementation of conservation and management programs Bridging the gap between geography and life science Globalization and New Geographies of Conservation will appeal to a broad range of students of the environment conservation planning biodiversity management and development and globalization studies
