The First European Agriculture:

Europe's First Farmers T. Douglas Price, 2000-09-14 Essays by leading specialists on a central issue of European history the transition to farming Early European Agriculture British Academy. Major Research Project in the Early History of Agriculture, 1982-10-28 First printed in 1982 this is the third and final volume to be published as a result of the British Academy Major Research Project on the Early History of Agriculture carried out in the Department of Archaeology in Cambridge under the direction of the late Eric Higgs After his death in 1976 the Project was drawn to its conclusion by his associates and this book is effectively a summary of the results of the Project The first two volumes Papers in Economic Prehistory and Palaeoeconomy argued that the development of agriculture was a much more gradual and widespread phenomenon than had been thought previously This book now discusses the origins and early development of prehistoric agriculture within the framework of prehistoric subsistence economies in general Early human economies are viewed in their adaptation to three crucial resource zones the uplands the lowlands and the littorals The First European Agriculture Jacqueline Murray, 1970 European Agriculture Brian Gardner, 2006-04-10 The Common Agricultural Policy CAP is central to both economic and environmental developments in Europe But with the advent of new environmental legislation and political change in Europe the CAP faces increasing pressure to reform European Agriculture provides a comprehensive breakdown of the workings of the CAP and its impact on farming in Europe The author discusses every aspect of European agricultural policy production and trade from environmental constraints and the impact of biotechnology to the role of European farming in the world food supply system Posing direct questions about the recent 1992 agricultural reform the 1994 GATT agreement and the reasons for the expensive continuation of the CAP European Agriculture analyses the economic political and environmental implications of pursuing present farming policy and provides a provocative commentary on the agricultural future of Europe The Economics of European Agriculture Bernadette Andreosso-O'Callaghan, 2003-09-08 The Economics of European Agriculture explains the demand and supply characteristics of agricultural markets as well as government intervention in agriculture with an emphasis on the Common Agricultural Policy CAP Bernadette Andreosso O Callaghan also analyses the fifth enlargement and its implications for agriculture in Europe technology and innovation and agricultural trade liberalization The 1965 Western Europe Agricultural Situation, 1965 Production Rights in European Agriculture D. Barthelemy, J. David, 2001-05-21 Rather than simply cataloging the various interpretations of European regulations by Member States this international team examines the economic priorities the legal bases the social norms and cultural patterns which come into play presenting an analytical approach to the study of production rights in European agriculture This work traces the emergence and the economic and legal content of the different income support tools for agricultural producers collectively termed production rights and it looks at the foundations of the specific national conceptions underlying the methods of organising agricultural activity The book is intended for a varied readership farmers themselves of course but also economic legal and tax consultants experts lawyers notaries as well as students teachers and researchers It has been set out in such a way as to allow readers to move freely from one subject to another depending on whether their interest lies in economic aspects or legal developments or whether they are more concerned by certain production rights or by certain features of their own organisation The goal of the book is to enable the reader to grasp the special features and the significance of the forces which have shaped the current income support instruments for producers in the various Member States of the EU and which will unquestionably continue to influence the measures which flow from reforms to the Common Agricultural Policy in the years to come

Prehistoric Farming in Europe Graeme Barker,1985-07-11 Drawing upon his own extensive knowledge of European archaeology Graeme Barker has impressively integrated the full range of archaeological data to produce in this book a masterly account of prehistoric farming in Europe on a unique scale He makes use of modern archaeological techniques to reconstruct the lives of prehistoric farmers in remarkable detail Not only do we now have a vivid picture of the prehistoric farmyard but we know what animals were kept how they were fed and why they were bred Evidence for crops grown and techniques of cultivation and husbandry helps recreate the prehistoric landscape Even the social organisation that determined the use of resources and provided the crucial stimulus for agricultural change can be relived Graeme Barker develops his argument through analogies with the agricultural history of classical and medieval Europe and concludes that today s industrial farmers can learn much from the successes and failures of early European farming

Central and Eastern European Agriculture in an Expanding European Union Stefan Tangermann,M. Banse,2000-01-01 The problems caused by the proposed enlargement of the EU to include the associated Central and Eastern European countries CEEC are discussed in this book The two main agricultural issues raised by this are the relative competitiveness of CEEC agricultural policies
