United States. National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration,1974 Duquesne and the Rise of Steel Unionism James Douglas Rose,2001 Not all workers needs were served by the union Focusing on the steel works at Duquesne Pennsylvania a linchpin of the old Carnegie Steel Company empire and then of U S Steel James D Rose demonstrates the pivotal role played by a nonunion form of employee representation usually dismissed as a flimsy front for management interests The early New Deal set in motion two versions of workplace representation that battled for supremacy company sponsored employee representation plans ERPs and independent trade unionism At Duquesne the cause of the unskilled hourly workers mostly eastern and southern Europeans as well as blacks was taken up by the union the Fort Dukane Lodge of the Amalgamated Association of Iron Steel and Tin

Workers For skilled tonnage workers and skilled tradesmen mainly U S born and of northern and western European extraction ERPs offered a better solution Initially little more than a crude antiunion device ERPs matured from tools of the company into semi independent worker led organizations Isolated from the union movement through the mid 1930s ERP representatives and management nonetheless created a sophisticated bargaining structure that represented the shop floor interests of the mill s skilled workforce Meanwhile the Amalgamated gave way to the Steel Workers Organizing Committee a professionalized and tightly organized affiliate of John L Lewis s CIO that expended huge resources trying to gain companywide unionization Even when the SWOC secured a collective bargaining agreement with U S Steel in 1937 however the Union was still unable to sign up a majority of the workforce at Duquesne A sophisticated study of the forces that shaped and responded to workers interests Duquesne and the Rise of Steel Unionism confirms that what people did on the shop floor was as critical to the course of steel unionism as were corporate decision making and shifts in government policy

Racing for America James C. Nicholson, 2021-04-06 On October 20 1923 at Belmont Park in New York Kentucky Derby champion Zev toed the starting line alongside Epsom Derby winner Papyrus the top colt from England to compete for a 100 000 purse Years of Progressive reform efforts had nearly eliminated horse racing in the United States only a decade earlier But for weeks leading up to the match race that would be officially dubbed the International unprecedented levels of newspaper coverage helped accelerate American horse racing s return from the brink of extinction In this book James C Nicholson explores the convergent professional lives of the major players involved in the Horse Race of the Century including Zev s oil tycoon owner Harry Sinclair and exposes the central role of politics money and ballyhoo in the Jazz Age resurgence of the sport of kings Zev was an apt national mascot in an era marked by a humming industrial economy great coziness between government and business interests and reliance on national mythology as a bulwark against what seemed to be rapid social cultural and economic changes Reflecting some of the contradiction and incongruity of the Roaring Twenties Americans rallied around the horse that was in the words of his owner racing for America even as that owner was reported to have been engaged in a scheme to defraud the United States of millions of barrels of publicly owned oil Racing for America provides a parabolic account of a nation struggling to reconcile its traditional values with the complexity of a new era in which the US had become a global superpower trending toward oligarchy and the world s greatest consumer of commercialized spectacle
