The Fires Of Culture Energy Yesterday And Tomorrow:

The Fires of Culture Carol E. Steinhart, John S. Steinhart, 1974 Energy Joseph Russell Rudolph, 1995 A road map for the novice researcher contemplating the broad field affected by and concerned with energy The Predicament of the Prosperous Bruce C. Birch, Larry L. Rasmussen, 1978-01-01 How can a church in the richest and most powerful nation on earth respond to the needs of the poor the hungry and the oppressed The authors of this book describe this issue with clarity and power and explore the biblical perspectives that offer guidance toward a viable and more equitable future for both church and society The authors call for a radical change in life style based on a revolution in perspective and basic values

1975 University Center Conference Proceedings United States. Economic Development Administration, 1975

Routledge Revivals: Energy II (1977) Denton Morrison, 2018-01-12 Originally published in 1977 Energy II provides a comprehensive and updated bibliography of energy in the context of the social sciences Following on from the first bibliography published in 1975 this book offers a fully updated bibliography and argues that energy problems are best seen in the context of social phenomena such as social attitudes social behaviours social institutions and structures and populations The book provides a unique list of references that examine energy problems outside of the context of social factors The Energy Crisis and Proposed Solutions United States. Congress. House. Committee on Ways and Means, 1975 Belief-based Energy Technology Development in the United States Chi-Jen Yang, 2009 This book is a comparative study of two energy policies that illustrates how and why technical fixes in energy policy failed in the United States In the post WWII era the U S government forcefully and consistently endorsed the development of civilian nuclear power It adopted policies to establish the competitiveness of civilian nuclear power far beyond what would have occurred under free market conditions Even though synthetic fuel was characterized by a similar level of economic potential and technical feasibility the policy approach toward synthetic fuel was sporadic and indeterminate The contrast between the unfaltering faith in nuclear power and the indeterminate attitude toward synthetic fuel raises many important questions The answers to these questions reveal provocative yet compelling insights into the policy making process The author argues that these diverging paths of development can be explained by exploring the dominant government ideology of the time or ideology of the state as the sociology literature describes it The forceful support for nuclear power was a result of a government preoccupied with fighting the Cold War The U S national security planners intentionally idealized and deified nuclear power to serve its Cold War psychological strategy These psychological maneuverings attached important symbolic meaning to nuclear power This symbolism in turn explains the society wide enthusiasm The fabricated myth of the Atomic Age became a self fulfilling prophecy and ushered in a bandwagon market On the other hand a confused indeterminate and relatively powerless welfare state stood behind synthetic fuel The different ideologies of the state explain the government's different attitudes toward nuclear and synfuel endeavors The overarching discovery is a mode of belief based decision making in long term energy planning This discovery goes against the prevalent assumption of rational choice in social sciences The author argues that rational choice assumption is inapplicable because of the extreme long term nature of energy planning It is not usually possible to predict the sociopolitical and economic conditions in the distant future Rational decisions require supporting information which often includes impossible long term foresights One cannot rationally choose between one unknown and another unknown Pivotal decisions in long term energy planning must inevitably be belief based and beliefs are subject to political manipulation and distortions by social mechanisms Understanding these peculiar but pervasive characteristics of energy business bears important lessons for today s decision making about energy technologies and the stakes if anything are even higher than before Energy policy communities historians of the Cold War American history and technology and sociologists would find this book an invaluable resource Overshoot William R.

Catton,1980-10-01 Our day to day experiences over the past decade have taught us that there must be limits to our tremendous appetite for energy natural resources and consumer goods Even utility and oil companies now promote conservation in the face of demands for dwindling energy reserves And for years some biologists have warned us of the direct correlation between scarcity and population growth These scientists see an appalling future riding the tidal wave of a worldwide growth of population and technology A calm but unflinching realist Catton suggests that we cannot stop this wave for we have already overshoot the Earth s capacity to support so huge a load He contradicts those scientists engineers and technocrats who continue to write optimistically about energy alternatives Catton asserts that the technological panaceas proposed by those who would harvest from the seas harness the winds and farm the deserts are ignoring the fundamental premise that the principals of ecology apply to all living things These principles tell us that within a finite system economic expansion is not irreversible and population growth cannot continue indefinitely If we disregard these facts our sagging American Dream will soon shatter completely Improving Energy Efficiency United States Air Force Academy.

Library,Suzanne Lincoln,1979 This bibliography was prepared to assist participants in the 21st Air Force Academy Assembly to be held at the Academy on 16 21 April 1979 It represents a selected portion of the Air Force Academy Library s holdings on the topic indicated Special Bibliography Series ,1957
