Slave Of The Passion:

Not Passion's Slave Robert C. Solomon, 2003-01-30 The idea that we are in some significant sense responsible for our emotions is an idea that Robert Solomon has developed for almost three decades Here in a single volume he traces the development of this theory of emotions and elaborate it in detail Two themes run through his work the first presents a cognitive theory of emotions in which emotions are construed primarily as evaluative judgments The second proposes an existentialist perspective in which he defends the idea that as we are responsible for our emotions Indeed sometimes it even makes sense to say that we choose them While the first claim has gained increasing currency in the literature his claim about responsibility for emotions has continued to meet with considerable resistance and misinterpretation The new emphasis on evolutionary biology and neurology has mistakenly reinforced the popular prejudice that emotions happen to us and are entirely beyond our control This volume is also a kind of intellectual memoir of Solomon's own development as a thinker The essays written in the 1980s elaborate the themes of the intentionality of emotion and the claim that emotions are judgments in this period he is also increasingly preoccupied with how emotions vary and are identified in a variety of cultures In the 1990s his interests evolve to consider the social and political role of emotions and theories about emotion The final section presents his current philosophical position on the seeming passivity of the passions Despite his own critical assessment of his earlier work he continues to argue that in the final analysis we are responsible for our emotions and existential quality of our lives

PASSION'S SLAVE ALEXIS HILL, 1979 The Passion for Happiness Adam Potkay, 2000 Although widely perceived as inhabiting different even opposed literary worlds Samuel Johnson 1709-1784 and David Hume 1711-1776 shared common ground as moralists Adam Potkay traces their central concerns to Hellenistic philosophy as conveyed by Cicero and to earlier moderns such as Addison and Mandeville Johnson's and Hume's large and diverse bodies of writings Potkay says are unified by several key questions What is happiness What is the role of virtue in the happy life What is the proper relationship between passion and reflection in the happy or flourishing individual In their writings Johnson and Hume largely agree upon what flourishing means for both human beings and the communities they inhabit They also tell a common story about the history that led up to the enlightened age of eighteenth century Europe On the divisive topic of religion these two great men of letters wrote with a decorum that characterizes the Enlightenment in Britain as compared to its French counterpart In The Passion for Happiness Adam Potkay illuminates much that philosophers and historians do not ordinarily appreciate about Hume and that literary scholars might not recognize about Johnson

The Politics of Passion Gloria Wekker, 2006-04-25 Gloria Wekker analyzes the phenomenon of mati work an old practice among Afro-Surinamese working class women in which marriage is rejected in favor of male and female sexual partners Wekker vividly describes the lives of these women who prefer to create alternative families of kin lovers and children and gives a fascinating account of women's sexuality that is not limited to either heterosexuality or same sex sexuality She offers new perspectives on the lives of Caribbean women transnational gay and lesbian movements and an Afro Surinamese tradition that challenges conventional Western notions of marriage gender identity and desire Bringing these women s voices to the forefront she offers an extensive and groundbreaking analysis of the unique historical religious psychological economic linguistic cultural and political forces that have shaped their lives Bulletin University of South Carolina,1907 The Way of Passion Andrew Harvey,2013-07-23

Parish Passion Play Kevin Carey, 2014-02-01 This play

brings the Passion narrative to life in a production suitable for anyone with little or no acting experience Literary Passion, Ideological Commitment Dawn Duke, 2008 This study examines Afro Cuban and Afro Brazilian women writers as well as analysing the roles of women of African descent in Cuban and Brazilian literature Initially literary imagination locked women into circumscribed roles a result of hierarchies embedded in slavery and colonialism and sustained by hierarchical theories on race and gender The discussion illustrates how these negative aspects have influenced the mainstream literary imagination that contrasts with the self portrayals created by women writers themselves Even as there continues to be disadvantageous constructions there is no doubt that a modification has occurred over time in images representation and articulation It is a change directly associated with the instances when women themselves are the writers The historiographic image of the Afro Cuban and Afro Brazilian woman as a written object is ideologically replaced by a vision of her as a writing subject It is here that the vision of a creative multifaceted and diversified literature becomes important From Preparation to Passion Eleanor Cooper Brown, 2010-10 There are many devotional books written to help communities of faith and individuals to observe the season of Lent in a devout manner Here within is another resource that is intended to allow you to truly engage yourself in the preparation and propel you into a Holy passion for Christ by the time you reach Easter
