Curry, Nicholas Jardine, James Andrew Secord, Emma C. Spary, 2018-11-22 Explores the development of natural history since the Renaissance and contextualizes current discussions of biodiversity Travel Narratives, the New Science, and Literary Discourse, 1569-1750 Judy A. Hayden, 2016-03-03 The focus of this volume is the intersection and the cross fertilization between the travel narrative literary discourse and the New Philosophy in the early modern to early eighteenth century historical periods Contributors examine how in an historical era which realized an emphasis on nation and during a time when exploration was laying the foundation for empire science and the literary discourse of the travel narrative become intrinsically linked Together the essays in this collection point out the way in which travel narratives reflect the anxiety from changes brought about through the discoveries of the new knowledge and the way this knowledge in turn provided a new and more complex understanding of the expanding world in which the writers lived The worlds in this text are many for no world is monomial from the antipodes to the New World from the heavens to the seas and from fictional worlds to the world which contains and or constructs one s nation and empire All of these essays demonstrate the manner in which the New Philosophy dramatically changed literary discourse Portrait of a Patron Susan Jenkins,2017-03-02 Once described as England s Apollo James Brydges first Duke of Chandos 1674 1744 was an outstanding patron of the arts during the first half of the eighteenth century Having acquired great wealth and influence as Paymaster General of Queen Anne s forces abroad Chandos commissioned work from leading artists architects poets and composers including Godfrey Kneller William Talman Sir John Vanbrugh Sir James Thornhill John Gay and George Frederick Handel Despite his associations with such renowned figures Chandos soon gained a reputation for tasteless extravagance This reputation was not helped by the publication in 1731 of Alexander Pope s poem Of Taste which was widely regarded as a satire upon Chandos and Cannons the new house he was building near Edgware The poem destroyed Chandos s reputation as a patron of the arts and ensured that he was remembered as a man lacking in taste Yet as this book shows such a judgement is plainly unfair when the Duke s patronage is considered in more depth and understood within the artistic context of his age By investigating the patronage and collections of the Duke through an examination of documentary sources and contemporary accounts it is possible to paint a very different picture of the man Rather than the epitome of bad taste described by his enemies it is clear that Chandos was an enlightened patron who embraced new ideas and strove to establish a taste for the Palladian in England which was to define the Georgian era Plants and Empire Londa Schiebinger,2009-07-01 In the 18th century bioprospectors sponsored by European imperial powers brought back medicines luxuries and staples from the New World to their king and country This book explores the movement triumph and extinction of knowledge in the course of encounters between Europeans and the Caribbean populations The Species Seekers: Heroes, Fools, and the Mad Pursuit of Life on Earth Richard Conniff,2011-10-25 Conniff tells the story of bold adventurers who risked death to discover strange life forms in the farthest corners of planet Earth The Oxford History of the British Empire: The eighteenth century Peter James Marshall,1998 Examines the history of British worldwide expansion from the Glorious Revolution of 1689 to the end of the Napoleonic Wars a crucial phase in the creation of the modern British Empire Making Histories in Museums Gaynor Kavanagh,2005-12-01 This exciting new series recognizes the tremendous potential of museum based histories and the ways in which they can engage people with ideas about the past People encounter and use museums on many different levels personal social and intellectual and access meanings that best fit their agendas Histories in museums can stimulate the imagination provoke discussion and increase our ability to question what we know From this it can be deduced that history in museums is as much about the present as it is about the past as much about how we feel as about what we know as much about who we are as about who we have been The first volume in the series Making Histories in Museums examines museological features but deals particularly with the historiographical issues that have previously been underplayed Each contributor looks at theoretical frameworks within a specific field of study using case studies and comparisons of practice Good practice is highlighted and potential ways forward explored The book establishes the themes that will be the subject of more detailed study in later volumes This series will prove an invaluable resource for all those concerned with or interested in museums museum professionals museum students historians and students of history as well as the general reader

Women Patrons and Collectors Andrea M. Gáldy, 2011-10-18 In looking at the history of collecting one may be excused for regarding it as an activity in which traditionally women have shown little interest or in which they have not been involved As the present volume shows women particularly aristocratic women not only resisted this discrimination through the ages but also built important collections and used them to their own advantage in order to make statements about their lineage power cultural heritage or religious preferences That is not to say that there was not an increasing number of middle class women who became draughtswomen painters and natural scientists and who found it equally beneficial for their chosen profession to collect In every case the female collector chose to collect and what to collect she chose how and where to present the collection and she also decided when to dispose of objects thereby occasionally taking on a curatorial role Women have been seen as gatherers of furnishings jewellery dress and objects of domestic life This third volume in the Collecting it thus seeks to give a voice to a group of important female collectors from the sixteenth to the early nineteenth century whose importance for the history of collecting has not yet or not sufficiently been acknowledged Consuming the Caribbean Mimi

Sheller, 2003-12-08 This fascinating book demonstrates how colonial exploitation of the Caribbean led directly to contemporary forms of consumption of the region and its products and calls for a global ethics of consumer responsibility

Ferdinand Verbiest, S.J. (1623-1688) and the Chinese Heaven Noël Golvers, Ferdinand Verbiest, 2003 This book describes more than 220 copies of various astronomical publications by the missionary Ferdinand Verbiest S J 1623 1688 sent from Peking The Lives of George Frideric Handel David Hunter, 2015 This book aims not only to re examine the life of the great composer Handel but also to explore the very concepts of biography With an introduction bibliography and index Figures Tables Colonialism in Global Perspective Kris Manjapra, 2020-05-07 Kris Manjapra weaves together the study of colonialism over the past 500 years across the globe s continents and seas This captivating work vividly evokes living human histories introducing the reader to manifestations of colonialism as expressed through war militarization extractive economies migrations and diasporas racialization biopolitical management and unruly and creative responses and resistances by colonized peoples This book describes some of the most salient political social and cultural constellations of our present times across the Americas Africa Asia and Europe By exploring the dissimilar yet entwined histories of conquest settler colonialism racial slavery and empire Manjapra exposes the enduring role of colonial force and freedom struggle in the making of our modern world The Breathless Zoo Rachel Poliquin,2012-08-22 From sixteenth century cabinets of wonders to contemporary animal art The Breathless Zoo Taxidermy and the Cultures of Longing examines the cultural and poetic history of preserving animals in lively postures But why would anyone want to preserve an animal and what is this animal thing now Rachel Poliquin suggests that taxidermy is entwined with the enduring human longing to find meaning with and within the natural world Her study draws out the longings at the heart of taxidermy the longing for wonder beauty spectacle order narrative allegory and remembrance In so doing The Breathless Zoo explores the animal spectacles desired by particular communities human assumptions of superiority the yearnings for hidden truths within animal form and the loneliness and longing that haunt our strange human existence being both within and apart from nature Anatomical Dissection in Enlightenment England and Beyond Piers Mitchell,2016-04-15 Excavations of medical school and workhouse cemeteries undertaken in Britain in the last decade have unearthed fascinating new evidence for the way that bodies were dissected or autopsied in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries This book brings together the latest discoveries by these biological anthropologists alongside experts in the early history of pathology museums in British medical schools and the Royal College of Surgeons of England and medical historians studying the social context of dissection and autopsy in the Georgian and Victorian periods Together they reveal a previously unknown view of the practice of anatomical dissection and the role of museums in this period in parallel with the attitudes of the general population to the study of human anatomy in the Enlightenment Collectors, Collections and Museums Stacey Pierson,2007 This book presents the first comprehensive study of the collecting consumption and display of Chinese porcelain in Britain from the 16th to the 20th century as well as the impact of this activity on British culture Beginning with the early porcelains acquired as objects of exotica and vessels for the consumption of tea and coffee followed by porcelains for display in the country house interior the first part of this book reveals the role of porcelain in Britain s developing economic relations with China and the impact of this material on both daily life and interior design The subsequent diplomatic and political conflicts of the 18th and 19th centuries provide a framework for an examination of British consumption of Chinese porcelain as both spoils of war and iconic representations of China material which helped to shape and influence British perceptions of China The final section demonstrates how these perceptions of China and its porcelain began to change significantly in the 20th century with porcelains acquired as works of art and displayed publicly in museums Collectors in Britain began to specialise in this area and actively invented a field of Chinese ceramics that was promulgated by learned societies and culminated in the founding of a museum of Chinese ceramics in London by one of the foremost British collectors Sir Percival David who donated his world class collection to the University of London in 1950 The Dodo and the Solitaire Jolyon C. Parish,2012-12-03 This account of two extinct bird species offers an amazing amount of history references facts maps and illustrations Library

Journal The Dodo and the Solitaire is the most comprehensive book to date about these two famously extinct birds. It contains all the known contemporary accounts and illustrations of the dodo and solitaire covering their history after extinction and discussing their ecology, classification, phylogenetic placement and evolution. Both birds were large and flightless and lived on inhabited islands some five hundred miles east of Madagascar. The first recorded descriptions of the dodo were provided by Dutch sailors who encountered them in 1598 and within a century the dodo was extinct. So quickly did the bird disappear that there is insufficient evidence to form an entirely accurate picture of its appearance and ecology and the absence has led to much speculation. This extraordinary book pieces together the story of these two lost species from the fragments that have been left behind. An up to date and comprehensive review of everything we know about the dodo and solitaire. Journal of Vertebrate Paleontology

Reading the Skies Vladimir Jankovic, 2001-04-19 From the time of Aristotle until the late eighteenth century meteorology meant the study of meteors, spectacular objects in the skies beneath the moon which included everything from shooting stars to hailstorms. In Reading the Skies Vladimir Jankovic traces the history of this meteorological tradition in Enlightenment Britain, examining its scientific and cultural significance. Jankovic interweaves classical traditions, folk popular beliefs and practices and the increasingly quantitative approaches of urban university men to understanding the wonders of the skies. He places special emphasis on the role that detailed meteorological observations played in natural history and chorography or local geography in religious and political debates and in agriculture. Drawing on a number of archival sources including correspondence and weather diaries as well as contemporary pamphlets, tracts and other printed sources reporting prodigious phenomena in the skies, this book will interest historians of science, Britain and the environment.

Ottoman/Turkish Visions of the Nation, 1860-1950 D. Gürpınar, 2013-10-17 Seeing the critical phase in the construction of a Turkish historical imagination between 1860 to 1950, disregarding the political disruptions, this book demonstrates how history and historical imagery had been instrumental in the nation building process.
