Prevention and the Social Sciences Günter Albrecht,Hans-Uwe Otto,2010-10-06 No detailed description available for Social Prevention and the Social Sciences Handbook of Work-Family Integration Karen Korabik,Donna S. Lero,Denise L. Whitehead,2011-04-28 In today s industrialized societies the majority of parents work full time while caring for and raising their children and managing household upkeep trying to keep a precarious balance of fulfilling multiple roles as parent worker friend child Increasingly demands of the workplace such as early or late hours travel commute relocation etc conflict with the needs of being a parent At the same time it is through work that people increasingly define their identity and self worth and which provides the opportunity for personal growth interaction with friends and colleagues and which provides the income and benefits on which the family subsists The interface between work and family is an area of increasing research in terms of understanding stress job burn out self esteem gender roles parenting behaviors and how each facet affects the others The research in this area has been widely scattered in journals in psychology family studies business sociology health and economics and presented in diverse conferences e g APA SIOP Academy of Management It is difficult for experts in the field to keep up with everything they need to know with the information dispersed This Handbook will fill this gap by synthesizing theory research policy and workplace practice organizational policy issues in one place The book will be useful as a reference for researchers in the area as a guide to practitioners and policy makers and as a resource for teaching in both undergraduate and graduate courses

Evaluating Family-Based Services Peter J. Pecora, 2018-02-06 Family based service FBS programs have been developing rapidly across the country at a time of increasingly scarce human resources and in a politically volatile climate Such a context has made evaluation of such programs imperative The present volume reviews basic elements of evaluation in the light of current knowledge and then highlights the most useful research instruments for measuring changes in child and family functioning Chapters focus on evaluation methods that can be employed to determine the success of existing policy and to influence the development of new policy The authors assume that their readers will have a basic familiarity with research methods and program evaluation They discuss the challenges they have encountered in conducting extensive research on family preservation family support and other related programs and pose practical solutions for administrators practitioners and evaluators confronted with similar difficult issues Each chapter presents a brief conceptual framework for understanding issues related to assessment Essential elements are reviewed while research design measurement variables and qualitative and quantitative analyses are discussed in turn The book concludes with a review of the limitations of evaluations
