Social Work with Groups Stanley Wenocur, 1993 Social Work With Groups describes continuity and change in group work. It revisits the theoretical ideas of group work and group work topics of the past decade focusing on the continuity of group work theory and practice. At the same time it emphasizes the need for change to more effectively work with people in new groups in need: people with AIDS, gangs, persons in grief and minorities as well as groups always in need but now with new and additional needs: families, children, adolescents. This book deals with how to meet the needs of existing and emerging populations. It shows a good combination of theory and practice of group work in a variety of settings and using traditional techniques with new groups. Chapters in this book revisit the theoretical ideas of group work such as stages of development and the question of self-determination in groups. The sections of theory are the basis for the more practical emphasis of what today's group worker is doing and how they are doing it. Social Work With Groups is very practice-oriented. As such, anybody who uses groups to help people will find much to read and reflect upon. With its across-the-board appeal, persons new to group work will delight in the practical information and experienced group workers will find the revisiting of the issues a helpful and refreshing approach. Clinical social workers and faculty with an interest in theory and theoretical approaches to group work will appreciate the theory addressed in the book. Social change-oriented practitioners searching for new methods of empowerment among the people will find helpful suggestions in this book for social, political, and grassroots activism.

Exploring Psychoanalytic Concepts through Culture, the Arts and Contemporary Life Margaret Lush, Kate Robertson, 2025-04-24 This book explores how psychoanalytic ideas and thinking enhance our understanding and engagement with the creative arts and contemporary life. Many of us love to read poetry and novels and enjoy the performing arts. All of us take part in contemporary life. But how might a psychoanalytic perspective deepen our understanding or enhance our experience in these areas? What might we discover when we explore the unconscious dimensions of particular cultural artefacts and activities? Based on the work of the longstanding Psychoanalytic Studies course at the Tavistock, contributing authors draw on their experience of infant observation and psychoanalytic theory and apply them to explorations of culturally diverse and wide-ranging topics such as social work literature, the act of littering, a Palestinian poem, and even a chart-topping Korean pop song. Blending a deep understanding of clinical work and a broad range of artistic endeavours, this book will be key reading for psychoanalysts, psychotherapists, and anyone interested in understanding how psychoanalysis can inform art and life.

Towards a New Social Work Howard Jones, 2023-07-21 In the 1970s social work in Britain was in crisis A process of self searching had begun stimulated by changes in the organization of social services departments by the growth of the radical movement in social work and by the emergence of new techniques in social work All this might have seemed a confusing and depressing prospect but Professor Howard Jones the editor of this collection of essays originally published in 1975 felt on the contrary that this new situation in social work presented an opportunity for a potentially rewarding debate He believed that the old unsatisfactory mould had been broken and that it was now possible for the first time for many years to look at the basic issues in social work without preconceptions The contributors to this book were all actively involved in the teaching and practice of social work at the time and they came together to initiate a debate on the leading issues of the day They were all concerned to find a right course for social work in this crucial period and among the topics they cover are social work training social workers and political action community participation and making use of research
