Social Development And Absolute Poverty In Asia And Latin America:

Social Development and Absolute Poverty in Asia and Latin America Willy De Geyndt,1996-01-01 Using econometric techniques analyzes causes of widespread poverty in Latin America and the 10 largest East and South Asian countries Concludes that slow economic growth is not the only explanatory variable and cites importance of schools and health care Handbook of Latin American Studies v 57 Urban Air Quality Management Strategy in Asia Jitendra J. Shah,Tanvi Nagpal,1997-01-01 World Bank Technical Paper No 381 Swelling urban populations and increased concentration of industry and automotive traffic in Asia s cities has resulted in severe air pollution The goal of the Urban Air Quality Management Strategy is to assist in designing and implementing policies and monitoring and managing tools to improve air quality in the major Asian metropolitan areas This report focuses on the development of an air quality management system for Greater Mumbai Bombay India Measures to reduce air pollution in this area focus on a traffic and action plan for air pollution abatement that takes into account the economic costs and benefits of abatement measures Urban Air Quality Management Strategy in Asia Jitendra J. Shah,Tanvi Nagpal,1997 Review of Early Childhood Policy and Programs in Sub-Saharan Africa Amy Jo Reinhold,1997-01-01 The collaborative efforts of ColombiaA s Department of National Planning DNP and the World Bank has produced the National Evaluation System of Public Sector Performance SYNERGY Put in place by the Special Division for Evaluation in DNP this system has been designed and implemented to change the public sector from an inward looking process oriented body which sometimes restrains economic and social progress into a more dynamic results oriented partner of the community and private sector in development This report explores the critical factors in making SYNERGY a successful evaluation system Such factors include ways of making it an effective management tool promoting civil society participation by focusing on results for people and leveraging on their energy and resource defining a constructive learning process for implementation and providing an enabling environment for a results oriented public sector

Social Sciences Katherine D. McCann,2000-12-01 Beginning with volume 41 1979 the University of Texas Press became the publisher of the Handbook of Latin American Studies the most comprehensive annual bibliography in the field Compiled by the Hispanic Division of the Library of Congress and annotated by a corps of more than 130 specialists in various disciplines the Handbook alternates from year to year between social sciences and humanities The Handbook annotates works on Mexico Central America the Caribbean and the Guianas Spanish South America and Brazil as well as materials covering Latin America as a whole Most of the subsections are preceded by introductory essays that serve as biannual evaluations of the literature and research under way in specialized areas The Handbook of Latin American Studies is the oldest continuing reference work in the field Katherine D McCann is acting editor for this volume The subject categories for Volume 57 are as follows Electronic Resources for the Social Sciences Anthropology Economics Geography Government and Politics International Relations Sociology Measuring the Impact of Climate Change on Indian Agriculture Ariel

Dinar, 1998-01-01 Using the Ricardian approach a cross sectional analysis of farm performance across different climate zones this report examines the impact of climate change on the agriculture sector and the sector's adaptation to that change Studies in the report measure the climate sensitivity of low capital agriculture test whether actual farm performance is as sensitive to climate as agronomic models predict and compare the climate sensitivity of low capital farms with the results already calibrated for U S agriculture The goal of the study is to examine farm behavior and test whether there is any evidence that farmers in developing countries currently adjust to their local climates Setting Priorities for Environmental Management Wendy S. Ayres, Kathleen A. Anderson, David Hanrahan, 1998 Mining and industrial activities if poorly managed can damage the environment and leave behind contaminated soils polluted groundwater and waste material The two papers in this volume illustrate the methodologies developed for selecting priority sites for remediating environmental problems due to mining It also describes the high priority investments that would provide the greatest benefits for the available resources The methodologies have broad application and could be used to identify priority remediation investments in other sectors where past activities have led to environmental problems Clean Fuels for Asia Michael Walsh, Jitendra J. Shah, 1997-01-01 Gasoline alternative fuels International Competitiveness in Latin America and East Asia Klaus Esser, Wolfgang Hillebrand, Dirk Messner, Jörg Meyer-Stamer, 2012-10-12 First published in 1993 Latin America is undergoing a process of profound economic and social change The industrial import substitution that continued for several decades was quantitatively successful in terms of industrialization but like inward oriented industrialization in the socialist countries failed to raise the economies of the region to international productivity levels The attempt at catch up industrialization outside the reference frame of the world market led to economic stagnation social crises serious environmental degradation and the obstruction of social development The following papers included in this book show that the development of competitive advantages is initially determined by the new macro policy and by modernization at enterprise level Privatization and Labor Sunita Kikeri, 1998 Despite its importance labor is one of the least addressed issues in privatization The lack of information on the employment impact of privatization has exacerbated the fears and concerns of governments and workers alike This paper examines the effects of privatization on labor and analyzes the mechanisms that governments can use to minimize the political and social costs of labor restructuring in privatization by drawing on the experience of mixed economies Technology Institutions and Policies Melvin Goldman, 1997-01-01 World Bank Technical Paper No 383 This paper summarizes the findings of a multisector study designed to examine the efficacy and importance of various technology policies technology support institutions incentive measures and other sources of technological know how It examines how various firms in different sectors and countries improve their technology to increase productivity and product quality and develop new products and processes Economies studied in this report included Canada China Hungary India Japan Republic of Korea Mexico and Taiwan China A Survey of Health Reform in Central Asia Jeni Klugman, George

Schieber, Timothy E. Heleniak, 1996-01-01 World Bank Technical Paper No 352 Six years into the transition from planned to market economies in Central and Eastern Europe high unemployment rates including a growing proportion of the long term unemployed represent a serious challenge to social welfare systems and policymakers This paper analyzes labor market development in nine transition countries of the region by focusing on the dynamics of labor force behavior employment and unemployment The countries include Bulgaria Croatia the Czech Republic the Former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia Hungary Poland Romania the Slovak Republic and Slovenia Trends in Health Status, Services, and Finance: Statistical annex Ellen Goldstein, 1996-01-01 Education systems in more than 50 countries most of them in the industrial world have in recent years shown an interest in obtaining information on what their students have actually learned as a result of their educational experiences This interest has been manifested either by developing national procedures to assess students achievements or by participating in international studies of student achievement This book provides introductory information on ways of assessing the learning outcomes of education systems It considers the nature choice and use of indicators and describes numerous approaches to assessing learning outcomes in selected industrial countries the United States and the United Kingdom and developing countries Chile Colombia Mauritius Namibia and Thailand The authors also review systems of comparative international assessment and debate whether developing countries should participate in them The book contains boxes and tables an appendix features a national assessment checklist Concessions for Infrastructure Michel Kerf, 1998-01-01 This paper examines the increased role of the private sector in developing and maintaining critical infrastructure It identifies governments quest to shift part of the burden of new infrastructure investments to the private sector for the economic development of firms and industry and the improvement of quality of life and given the constraints on public budgets to finance growing infrastructure needs Adequate infrastructure services include power telecommunications transport water supply and sanitation The paper also emphasizes the private sector involvement in bringing increased efficiency to investment and management and operation Trends in Education Access and Financing During the Transition in Central and Eastern Europe Dena Ringold, 1997-01-01 IFC Results on the Ground No 1 The International Finance Corporation IFC whose primary mission is to encourage economic development in its member countries by supporting the private sector measures its development effectiveness through an annual project review This report the first in a series that examines the IFC s development impact presents five case studies of projects carried out during 1995 96 The projects involved were chosen for their geographic diversity and because they represent a number of sectors in which the IFC has traditionally done business banks in Africa and Latin America an agribusiness project in Madagascar a textile operation in Indonesia and an infrastructure project in Argentina Each of these studies illustrates in detail the various aspects of project contributions of projects to development and some of the residual problems that will be the subject of future work Sector Investment Programs in Africa Stephen P. Jones, 1997-01-01 South Asia has made much progress in deregulation and liberalization in the 1990s but it still remains one of the least integrated regions in the world. However, this general trend masks wide disparities among South Asian nations: the larger economies tend to be more highly protected with low import penetration rates while the smaller economies are relatively more open. If the current reform program continues, the benefits of liberalization will translate into higher growth. This report reviews the region's economic performance from an international perspective and the steps taken to increase integration, especially in terms of financial integration, increased foreign direct investment portfolio and capital flows, and regional integration, intra-regional trade, regional arrangements. Chapters also discuss the economic outlook for the region and prospects for South Asian exports such as textiles and clothing.

Financial Market Fragmentation and Reforms in Sub-Saharan Africa Ernest Aryeetey, 1997-01-01 FIAS Occasional Paper No. 9. Many developing countries have made dramatic progress in promoting private sector participation in their infrastructure sectors, especially with the help of foreign investors. However, this has not been the case in Southern and Eastern Africa, which have been perceived as relatively unattractive locations for investment. This paper describes the state of infrastructure in the region, takes stock of actual and potential projects in the various sectors, and analyzes the main impediments to private investment in the region's infrastructure services.

The Impact of Drought on Sub-Saharan African Economies Charlotte Benson, Edward J. Clay, 1998-01-01. Little effort has been made to research the nonagricultural or economywide macroeconomic impact of droughts in Sub-Saharan Africa. In an effort to fill the gap, this paper reports the findings of an exploratory study of the subject. It provides insights into the impact of drought in Sub-Saharan Africa in the past and suggests policy options for dealing with future droughts.

Satisfying Urban Thirst R. Maria Saleh, Ariel Dinar, 1997. Vietnam's educational record is impressive: 91 percent of children between the ages of 5 and 10 are enrolled in school, and 88 percent of the country's working age population is literate. However, emerging market forces within Vietnam, as well as examples and competition from its economically vibrant neighbors, raise important new challenges for the country's education and training system. The government of Vietnam has set ambitious targets for increasing enrollments in E-T institutions, but one question remains unanswered: What policies are required to ensure that an expanded E-T system will give its graduates the knowledge, skills, and attitudes demanded by private sector employers and critical to the smooth functioning of a leaner public sector in the future? This study attempts to answer the question and thereby assist education policymakers in Vietnam in making equitable and efficient choices. The report is divided into six chapters. The first two chapters set the general context for a consideration of E-T costs and financing in Vietnam and explain how the system is presently organized and managed. The third and fourth chapters assess the current financing system, including the state budget and other sources of public funding, and calculate the cost per student year and the cost per graduate at each level. Chapter 5 examines the social rates of return and the cost burdens for different groups within the country. The final chapter looks ahead to the next decade and draws lessons from other countries.
