City-making, Space and Spirituality Stéphan de Beer, 2023-09-29 This book is about the soul of the city embodied in its spaces and people It traces dynamics in inner city neighbourhoods of South Africa's post apartheid capital Pretoria Viewing the city through its most vulnerable people and places it recognizes that urban space is never neutral and shaped by competing value frameworks The first part of the book invites planners city makers and ordinary urban citizens to consider a new self understanding reclaiming their agency in the city making process Through the metaphor of becoming like children planning practice is deconstructed and re imagined A praxis based methodology is presented cultivating four distinct moments of entering reading imagining and co constructing the city After deconstructing urban spaces and discourses the second part of the book explores a concrete spirituality and ethic of urban space It argues for a shift from planning as technocracy to planning as immersed participatory artistry opening up to the genius of space responsive to urban cries and joining to construct new soul full spaces Local communities and interconnected movements become embodiments of urban alternatives through resistance and reconstruction building on local assets animating local reclamations and weaving nets of hope that will span the entire city Providing a concrete methodology for city making that is rooted in a community based urban praxis this book will be of interest to urban planning researchers professional planners and designers and also grass root community developers or activists

Housing Displacement Guy Baeten, Carina Listerborn, Maria Persdotter, Emil Pull, 2020-10-14 This book examines reasons processes and consequences of housing displacement in different geographical contexts It explores displacement as a prime act of housing injustice a central issue in urban injustices With international case studies from the US the UK Australia Canada India Spain Denmark Sweden and Hungary this book explores how housing displacement processes are more diverse and mutate into more new forms than have been acknowledged in the literature It emphasizes a need to look beyond the existing rich gentrification literature to give primacy to researching processes of displacement to understand the socio spatial change in the city Although it is empirically and methodologically demanding for several reasons studying displacement highlights gentrification's unjust nature as well as the unjust housing policies in cities and neighborhoods that are simply not undergoing gentrification. The book also demonstrates how expulsion though under researched has become a vital component of contemporary advanced capitalism and how a focus on gentrification has hindered a potential focus on its flipside of displacement as well as the study of the occurrence of poor cleansing from a long term historical perspective. This book offers interdisciplinary perspectives on housing displacement to academics and researchers in the fields of urban studies housing citizenship and migration studies interested in housing policies and governance practices at the urban scale.

The 12 chapters written by renowned international scholars demonstrate the multiplicity of social and political struggles over the contested terrain of spatial policies. The book focuses on four key areas where the impact of planning is explored the community power gender relations ethnic tensions and social polarisation while comparing three societies Australia Israel and England. Planning for Population Change W. T. S. Gould, Richard Lawton, 1986-01-01 This collection of essays is concerned with the consequences of population change for present and future social and economic policy towards such questions as employment education and health care as well as the spatial and temporal variations in demand that arise from both demographic and geographical differences The book argues that there is a need for greater sensitivity about population change in policy making and service provision and suggests ways of achieving this goal It shows how population problems are only one part of a complex of factors associated with development that population policies cannot be focused solely on demographic factors and effective family planning must persuade individuals through education in the advantages and means of control
