Sojourners And Settlers Histories Of Southeast China And The Chinese:

Sojourners and Settlers Anthony Reid, 2001-04-01 Only recently has the role of Chinese minorities at the forefront of Southeast Asia's rapid economic growth attracted world attention. Yet interactions between Chinese and Southeast Asians are longstanding and intense, reaching back a thousand years and making it difficult if not specious to attempt to disentangle what is Chinese and what is indigenous in much of Southeast Asian culture. Sojourners and Settlers now back in print, written by some of the most distinguished specialists in the field, demonstrates the depth of that relationship. Contributors: Leonard Blussé, Mary Somers Heidhues, Jamie C. Mackie, Anthony Reid, Craig Reynolds, Claudine Salmon, G. William Skinner, Wang Gungwu, O. W. Wolters. Sojourners and Settlers Anthony Reid, 1996. Sojourners and Settlers Asian Studies Association of Australia, 1996-01-01 Only recently has the role of Chinese and Sino Southeast Asian minorities in leading Southeast Asia's rapid economic growth attracted world attention. Yet the interaction of Chinese and Southeast Asians reaches back a thousand years at a level of intensity which makes it difficult if not specious to attempt to disentangle what is Chinese and what is indigenous in much of Southeast Asian culture. This book demonstrates the depth of that relationship. Ten of the most distinguished specialists in the field pool their expertise in considering the multiple ways in which Chinese have interacted with the region. Jamie Mackie sets the scene in a survey of the Southeast Asian Chinese particularly during the last fifty years. Wang Gungwu considers their history in terms of the concept of sojourning while Anthony Reid considers the oscillating pattern of interaction from the thirteenth century to the twentieth, giving rise to new Sino Southeast Asian elites in times of mutual isolation and to a more Chinese character at times of close contact. G. William Skinner provides a new explanation of why stable Sino Southeast Asian creole societies were able to exist throughout the nineteenth century in Malaya, the Philippines, and Java. Claudine Salmon shows how one of these groups, the peranakan of Java, coped with pressures to become more Chinese in the second half of the nineteenth century. Oliver Wolters and Craig Reynolds reflect upon the difficulty of disentangling the two cultures in Vietnam and Thailand respectively. Leonard Blussé reveals new Chinese sources on the junk trade with Java while Mary Somers Heidhues surveys the neglected but numerous Chinese rural settlers in the arc around Singapore. BOOK JACKET Title Summary field provided by Blackwell North America Inc. Transtopia in the Sinophone Pacific Howard Chiang, 2021-04-06 As a broad category of identity, transgender has given life to a vibrant field of academic research since the 1990s. Yet the Western origins of the field have tended to limit its cross-cultural scope. Howard Chiang proposes a new paradigm for doing transgender history in which geopolitics assumes central importance. Defined as the antidote to transphobia, transtopia challenges a minoritarian view of transgender experience and makes room for the variability of transness on a historical continuum. Against the backdrop of the Sinophone Pacific, Chiang argues that the concept of transgender identity must be rethought beyond a purely Western frame. At the same time, he challenges China centrism in the study of East Asian gender and sexual configurations. Chiang brings

Sinophone studies to bear on trans theory to deconstruct the ways in which sexual normativity and Chinese imperialism have been produced through one another Grounded in an eclectic range of sources from the archives of sexology to press reports of intersexuality films about castration and records of social activism this book reorients anti transphobic inquiry at the crossroads of area studies medical humanities and queer theory Timely and provocative Transtopia in the Sinophone Pacific highlights the urgency of interdisciplinary knowledge in debates over the promise and future of human diversity Reading Asia Frans Huskin,Dick van der Meij,2013-10-11 This volume presents a wide variety of articles in the broad field of Asian Studies covering the latest results of research within the social sciences and the humanities reflecting the rich diversity within these areas of research The contributions stem from research carried out by scholars who are or have been affiliated with the International Institute for Asian Studies Leiden Amsterdam Globalizing South China Carolyn Cartier,2011-07-26 This insightful account demonstrates that capitalism in China has a history and a geography and combines perspectives from both to demonstrate that regional economic restructuring in South China is far from an economic miracle s Find out more information about the RGS IBG journals by following the links below AREA <http://www.blackwellpublishing.com/journal.asp?ref=0004-0894> The Geographical Journal <http://www.blackwellpublishing.com/journal.asp?ref=0016-7398> Transactions of the Insitute of British Geographers <http://www.blackwellpublishing.com/journal.asp?ref=0020-2754> The Qiaopi Trade and Transnational Networks in the Chinese Diaspora Gregor Benton,Hong Liu,Huimei Zhang,2018-05-03 Originating in the 1820s and used for 150 years thereafter qiaopi is the name given in Chinese to letters written home by Chinese emigrants to accompany remittances Their key function was to preserve family ties Although such correspondence focused principally on the provision of economic support the qiaopi also touched on cultural political educational and gender themes This book therefore seeks to examine the qiaopi from two interconnected perspectives One views qiaopi from a political and institutional angle the other from a financial and social angle Bringing together the extensive research of a group of international scholars this multi authored volume sheds light on the larger significance of the qiaopi for modern China Taking an empirical evidence driven approach the contributors employ a wide range of primary sources in both Chinese and English and relate their findings to scholarship in both the Chinese speaking world and in non Chinese interdisciplinary fields In so doing this book helps to bridge the gap between Chinese and English speaking researchers in the field of qiaopi studies As one of the first books in English on the qiaopi trade and its significance this book will appeal to students and scholars of Chinese history and Chinese migration as well in Migration Studies and Diaspora Studies more generally The Chinese Diaspora in the Pacific Anthony Reid,2017-05-15 The essays reprinted here trace the history of Chinese emigration into the Pacific region first as individuals traders or exiles moving into the Nanyang Southeast Asia then as a mass migration across the ocean after the mid 19th century The papers include discussions of what it meant to be Chinese the position of the migrants vis vis China itself and their relations with indigenous peoples as well as the European powers that came to dominate the region Together with the introduction they constitute an important aid to understanding one of the most widespread diasporas of the modern world

The Chinese Question Caroline S. Hau,2014-02-28 The rising strength of mainland China has spurred a revival of Chineseness in the Philippines

Perceived during the Cold War era as economically dominant political disloyal and culturally different the Chinese presented themselves as an integral part of the Filipino imagined community Today as Filipinos seek associations with China many of them see the local Chinese community as key players in East Asian regional economic development With the revaluing of Chineseness has come a repositioning of Chinese racial and cultural identity Philippine mestizos people of mixed ancestry form an important sub group of the Filipino elite but their Chineseness was occluded as they disappeared into the emergent Filipino nation In the twentieth century mestizos defined themselves and based claims to privilege on white ancestry but mestizos are now actively reclaiming their Chinese heritage At the same time so called pure Chinese are parlaying their connections into cultural social symbolic or economic capital and leaders of mainland Chinese state companies have entered into politico business alliances with the Filipino national elite As the meanings of Chinese and Filipino evolve intractable contradictions are appearing in the concepts of citizenship and national belonging Through an examination of cinematic and literary works The Chinese Question shows how race class ideology nationality territory sovereignty and mobility are shaping the discourses of national integration regional identification and global cosmopolitanism Histories, Cultures, Identities Sharon A. Carstens, 2005 Histories Cultures Identities deals with two central questions relating to the Chinese community in Malaysia First how has being Chinese shaped the responses of this community to political economic and social developments in the country And second how have their experiences in Malaysia affected the way in which immigrants from China and their descendants identify themselves as Chinese Maritime China in Transition 1750-1850 Gungwu Wang, Chin-Keong Ng, 2004 This collection contains an introductory essay by Wang Gungwu and 22 studies originally read to an international conference organized by the Department of History National University of Singapore The contributions investigate diverse aspects of coastal Chinas commercial demographic and other ties with the Nanyang region and other maritime areas such as Japan mainly in the period circa 1750 1850 This includes themes related to the microlevel of local changes such as Chinese migration to Taiwan and various Southeast Asian destinations as well as broader approaches to regional institutional and other trends combining philological and theoretical knowledge In most cases both Asian and colonial sources were used to illustrate the dynamics of Chinas maritime orientation under the Qing the growth of its overseas communities and the impact of Chinese traders and sojourners on Europes outposts in the Malay world and around the South China Sea Lineage Society on the Southeastern Coast of China , Rebuilding the Ancestral Village Kung Eng Kuah, 2019-08-22 This title was first published in 2000 This is a discussion of the relationship between one group of Singapore Chinese and their ancestral village in Fujian in China It explores the various reasons why the Singapore Chinese continue to want to maintain ties with their ancestral village and how they go about reproducing Chinese culture in the form of ancestor worship and religion in the village milieu in China It further explores the reasons why the Singapore Chinese feel morally obliged to assist their ancestral village in village reconstruction providing financial contributions to infrastructure development such as the buildings of roads bridges schools hospitals and to help with small scale industrial and retail activities Related to this is how the village cadres and teenagers through various strategies managed to encourage the Singapore Chinese to revisit their ancestral village and help with village reconstruction thereby creating a moral economy The main argument here concerns the desire of the Singapore Chinese to maintain a cultural identity and lineage continuity with their ancestral home Ethnographically this anthropological study examines two groups of Chinese separated by historical and geographical space and their coming together to re establish their cultural identity through various cultural and economic activities At the theoretical level it seeks to add a new dimension to the study of Chinese transnationalism and diaspora studies Dreaming of Gold, Dreaming of Home Madeline Y. Hsu, 2000-11-23 This book is a highly original study of transnationalism among immigrants from Taishan a populous coastal county in south China from which until 1965 the majority of Chinese in the United States originated Drawing creatively on Chinese language sources such as gazetteers newspapers and magazines supplemented by fieldwork and interviews as well as recent scholarship in Chinese social history the author presents a much richer depiction than we have had heretofore of the continuing ties between Taishanese remaining in China and their kinsmen seeking their fortune in Gold Mountain Long after the gold in California ran out and prejudice confined them to dismal Chinatowns generations of Chinese mostly men from rural areas of southern China continued to migrate to the United States in hopes of bettering the family's lot by remitting much of the meager sums they earned as laundrymen cooks domestic workers and Chinatown merchants Economic hardships and U S Exclusion laws extended the immigrants separation from their families for decades sojourns that in many cases ended only in death Men lived as bachelors and their wives as widows parents passed away and children grew up without ever seeing their fathers faces Families and village communities had to adapt to survive the stress of long term long distance separation from their primary wage earners At the same time men raised in the rural communities of a faltering imperial China had to negotiate encounters with an industrializing Western dominated often hostile world This history explores the resiliency and flexibility of rural Chinese qualities that enabled them to preserve their families by living apart from them and to survive the intertwining of their rural world with global systems of race labor and capital The author demonstrates that through migration to dank and narrow enclaves they came to live and even to flourish in a transnational community that persisted despite decades of separation and an ocean's width of distance The Chinese in Vancouver, 1945-80 Wing Chung Ng, 2011-11-01 In The Chinese in Vancouver Wing Chung Ng captures the fascinating story of the city's Chinese in their search for identity He juxtaposes the cultural positions of different generations of Chinese immigrants and their Canadian born descendants and unveils the ongoing struggle over the definition of being Chinese It is an engrossing story about cultural identity in the context of migration and settlement where the influence of the native land and the appeal of the host city continued to impinge on the consciousness of the ethnic Chinese The Chinese in Canada is long overdue in view of the many previous studies that tend to describe Chinese people as victims of racial prejudice and discrimination and Chinese identity a matter of Western cultural hegemony Ng's account gives the Chinese people their own voice and shows that the Chinese in Vancouver had much to say and often disagreed about the meaning of being Chinese In his concluding chapter Ng looks beyond the Canadian context by engaging in a comparative discussion of the experiences of ethnic Chinese elsewhere in the diaspora References to the Chinese in various Southeast Asian countries and the U S force a rethinking of Chineseness He ends with reflections about Vancouver's Chinese community since 1980

Migrating Fujianese Guotong Li, 2016-11-07 With the Fujian coast at its center this book reveals the intellectual migratory and gendered relationships that tied Fujian to the Chinese imperial domain and to its overseas networks This Fujian study also offers ways to analyze local histories of late imperial China from a more global perspective Based on a wide range of sources such as business contracts legal documents women's writings and folksongs Migrating Fujianese elucidates China's southeast coast and its migration patterns Examining this multi ethnic migrant community through the lens of ethnicity shows the complex operation of linked chain migration overseas male emigration and overland family migration by the ethnic She people and its impact on the gender relations and family strategies of the coastal people The study argues that examination of Fujianese migration through the lenses of gender and ethnicity is crucial to understanding the relationship between the flow of people and the society nourishing that flow

Studies in Colloquial Chinese and Its History Richard VanNess Simmons, 2022-05-18 Studies in Colloquial Chinese and Its History Dialect and Text presents cutting edge research into issues regarding prestige colloquial languages in China in their spoken forms and as well as their relationship to written forms and the colloquial literary language These include the standard regional languages and prestige dialects of the past the influence of historical forms of spoken Chinese on written Chinese the history of gǔn and the history of bì *h*u proto dialects and supra regional common languages koines and their relationship to spoken dialects The various studies in this collection focus on the dialect groups with the most substantial written tradition including Mandarin Wu Min and Cantonese in north central and eastern coastal and southern China respectively The contributors explore the histories of these dialects in their written and spoken forms presenting a variegated view of the history and development of the regional forms including their evolution and influence This edited volume expands our understanding of the underlying factors in the formation of supra regional common languages in China and the written forms to which they gave rise It broadens our understanding of the evolution of written and spoken forms of Chinese from a comparative perspective revealing the interrelationships of various areal forms of Chinese and historical koines in China This is a rigorous and cohesive collection of articles important to our understanding of the development of the current modern varieties and also to our understanding of the creation and interpretation of the texts themselves Anyone interested in empirical work on Chinese dialects would find this of interest Randy J LaPolla Fellow of the Australian Academy of the Humanities FAHA The history of Chinese dialects and Mandarin is a source of interest for many scholars It is rare however to meet a collection that addresses the history and appearance of writing in such a detailed and unconventional way This unique volume deepens our understanding and offers new insights into established scholarship A highly recommended publication
