Dail,Shelbie Witte,Steven T. Bickmore,2018-05-04 Technology and multimodal texts must be included as part of the literacies we teach in 21st century schools Implementing multiple modes of literacy requires that teachers shift their focus toward multiple genres and modes of text This shift to the visual requires that teachers consider how students read images in the classroom address visual literacy and engage students in constructing visual texts Students already live and communicate in a virtual world connected by expansive networks and many also read young adult literature Given this researchers and practitioners in the field examine ways texts written for students can be combined with digital tools to craft more critical conversations around literary response and digital media consumption and production This book explores ways adolescents read engage and construct meaning within the world around them and examines how teachers can leverage the use of young adult literature with digital practices within their classrooms Maker Literacy Lynn Pawloski,Cindy Wall,2016-11-07 This book takes the creativity and inventiveness of the maker movement and applies that energy in a new way to help children learn across all subject areas as well as broaden their world view Traditional library literacy programs have helped many children foster a love of reading but to prepare this next generation of learners this programming needs to be modified to include technology The inherent creativity and inventiveness of the Maker Movement embracing both classic and innovative technological activities provides the perfect bridge to invigorate expand and update these programs This alternative to conventional library literacy programming will help children learn throughout all subject areas see additional possibilities and make connections in the world around them With this guide readers can discover how to apply maker literacy to introduce connections that help children better understand that their experiences in life are interrelated that art can be made on a 3D printer and that science and technology are an essential part of design This holistic approach provides a myriad of creative opportunities for both teaching staff and the children they serve A great resource for

Designing Critical Literacy Education through Critical Discourse Analysis Rebecca Rogers,Melissa Mosley Wetzel,2013-06-26 Uniquely bringing together discourse analysis critical literacy and teacher research this book invites teacher educators literacy researchers and discourse analysts to consider how discourse analysis can be used to foster critical literacy education. It is both a guide for conducting critical discourse analysis and a look at how the authors alongside their teacher education students used the tools of discourse analysis to inquire into critique and design critical literacy practices. Through an intimate look at the workings of a university teacher education course and the discourse analysis tools that teacher researchers use to understand their classrooms, the book provides examples of both pre-service teachers and teacher educators becoming critically literate. The context-rich examples highlight the ways in which discourse analysis aids teachers' decision making in the moment and reflections on their practice over time. Readers learn to conduct discourse analysis as they read about critical literacy practices at the university level. Designed to be interactive, each chapter features step-by-step procedures for conducting each kind of discourse analysis, narrative critically oriented multimodal sample analyses, and additional readings and resources. By attending to the micro interactions as well as processes that unfold across time, the book illustrates the power and potential of discourse analysis as a pedagogical and research tool.
