Lewis Hamilton - The Biography Frank Worall, 2015-03-05 This is the story of the boy who proves fairytales do come true The boy who grew up on a council estate who at the tender age of 22 came through against all the odds to dominate and revolutionise the world of motor racing Thrown in at the deep end on a mighty whim by F1 team owner Ron Dennis Lewis Hamilton began his 2007 debut season with several podium finishes and is surely in the running for the BBC's Sports Personality of the Year 2007. He has done better than anyone could have predicted not only has he had to combat his own nerves and fears he has had to overcome a dissenter within his own camp. With behind the scenes insight into the intense rivalry between Hamilton and his team mate Fernando Alonso which threatened to derail the young Briton's dream bestselling sports author Frank Worrall describes how the rookie rose above his critics keeping his dignity and emerging triumphant as he racked up sensational wins around the world. But the boy wonder's stellar rise through the motor racing ranks from karting to the hotly contested F3 Superprix and onto the F1 podium was by no means straightforward. Lewis racing career began aged just six when his father holding down three jobs to support his son's blossoming career bought him his first go kart. Life was always a challenge against the backdrop of racial inequality. Lewis was faced with the heartache of his parents divorce and his anguish for half brother Nicholas who suffers from cerebral palsy but these setbacks only made Hamilton more determined to succeed. The breakthrough came when he was ten on meeting McLaren boss Ron Dennis at an awards ceremony. Lewis told him 'I'm going to race for you one day I'm going to race for McLaren'. Two years later he contacted Dennis and the big man signed him to McLaren's development programme. By 2007 he could hold him back no longer. This is the remarkable story of the boy who has been called 'The Tiger Woods of F1'. Hamilton's is a tale of glory against the odds which reads like the script of a Hollywood movie. But this is not fiction this is the real life story of a record breaking season and a legend in the making.

Reading Arab Women's Autobiographies

Nawar Al-Hassan Golley, 2010-01-01. Authors of autobiographies are always engaged in creating a self to present to their readers. This process of self creation raises a number of intriguing questions: why and how does anyone choose to present herself or himself in an autobiography? Do women and men represent themselves in different ways and if so why? How do differences in culture affect the writing of autobiography in various parts of the world? This book tackles these questions through a close examination of Arab women's autobiographical writings. Nawar Al-Hassan Golley applies a variety of western critical theories including Marxism, colonial discourse, feminism and narrative theory to the autobiographies of Huda Shaarawi, Fadwa Tuqan, Nawal el Saadawi and others to demonstrate what these critical methodologies can reveal about Arab women's writing. At the same time she also interrogates these theories against the chosen texts to see how adequate or appropriate these models are for analyzing texts from other cultures. This two fold investigation sheds important new light on how the writers or editors of Arab women's autobiographies have written, documented, presented and organized their texts.
