Textual Practice 11:

Textual Practice, 1997 Textual Practice Jean Howard, Alan Sinfield, Lindsay Smith, 1997-07-10 In this volume Textual Practice brings together some of its most pressing concerns by exploring the interaction of texts with language politics gender and history Textual Practice has a theoretical approach that crosses over into a range of other apparently disparate disciplines philosophy history law medicine science architecture gender and media studies Key Features Features the most exciting new voices and the most influential new scholars in the field Multidisciplinary Includes two articles on Ireland _ _ _

Textual Practice Terence Hawkes, 2005-08-03 First published in 1992 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an informa company

Shakespeare and the Problem of Adaptation Margaret Jane Kidnie, 2009 Kidnie's study presents original sophisticated and profoundly intelligent answers to important questions Lukas Erne University of Geneva This is a fine and productive book one that will surely draw significant attention and commentary well beyond the precincts of Shakespeare studies W B Worthen Columbia University Shakespeare's plays continue to be circulated on a massive scale in a variety of guises as editions performances and adaptations and it is by means of such mediation that we come to know his drama Shakespeare and the Problem of Adaptation addresses fundamental questions about this process of mediation making use of the fraught category of adaptation to explore how we currently understand the Shakespearean work To adapt implies there exists something to alter but what constitutes the category of the play and how does it relate to adaptation How do play and adaptation relate to drama's twin media text and performance What impact might answers to these questions have on current editorial performance and adaptation studies Margaret Jane Kidnie argues that play and adaptation are provisional categories mutually dependent processes that evolve over time in accordance with the needs of users This theoretical argument about the identity of works and the nature of text and performance is pursued in relation to diverse examples including theatrical productions by the Royal Shakespeare Company the BBC's ShakespeaRe Told the Reduced Shakespeare Company and recent print editions of the complete works These new readings build up a persuasive picture of the cultural and intellectual processes that determine how the authentically Shakespearean is distinguished from the fraudulent and adaptive Adaptation thus emerges as the conceptually necessary but culturally problematic category that results from partial or occasional failures to recognize a shifting work in its textual theatrical instance

Violence, Scripture, and Textual Practices in Early Judaism and Christianity Raanan Shaul Boustán, Alex P. Janssen, Calvin J. Roetzel, 2010 This volume analyzes the emergence of Jewish and Christian discourses of religious violence within their Roman imperial context with an emphasis on the shared textual practices through which authoritative scriptural traditions were redeployed to represent legitimate and indeed sacralize violence

East West Mimesis Kader Konuk, 2010-09-21 East West Mimesis follows the plight of German Jewish humanists who escaped Nazi persecution by seeking exile in a Muslim dominated society Kader Konuk asks why philologists like Erich Auerbach found humanism at home in Istanbul at the very moment it was banished from Europe She challenges the notion of exile as synonymous with intellectual isolation and shows the reciprocal effects of German migr s on Turkey s humanist reform movement By making literary critical concepts productive for our understanding of Turkish cultural history the book provides a new approach to the study of East West relations Central to the book is Erich Auerbach s Mimesis The Representation of Reality in Western Literature written in Istanbul after he fled Germany in 1936 Konuk draws on some of Auerbach s key concepts figura as a way of conceptualizing history and mimesis as a means of representing reality to show how Istanbul shaped Mimesis and to understand Turkey s humanist reform movement as a type of cultural mimesis

Embodying the Militia in Georgian England Matthew McCormack, 2015 The militia was a key institution in Georgian England and arguably one that was very characteristic of its age A militia is an informal military organisation made up of part time civilians rather than professionals As an island Britain had historically relied on forces of this type for home defence but threats of a French invasion during the Seven Years War 1756-63 highlighted that the militia had fallen into disrepair and prompted calls for its revival In this important new study Matthew McCormack re-examines the debates on the militia and argues that this military reform was informed and driven by concerns about politics nationalism and gender The militia tells us a great deal about the political culture of the eighteenth century which was suspicious of professional armies and executive power and which placed great emphasis on the liberties and masculine attributes of the ordinary citizen Its advocates even suggested that mass military service would prompt a reinvigoration of English masculinity The Militia Act passed into law in 1757 From this date until the New Militia s slow demise after the Napoleonic Wars Embodying the Militia in Georgian England considers civilian men s experience of military service How was the militia embodied both in the contemporary sense of assembling for service and also as a gendered bodily experience Chapters explore questions such as physical training masculine honour material culture self identity and citizenship As such the volume s interdisciplinary approaches offer new perspectives on the history of war

Masculinity and the Other Heather Ellis, Jessica Meyer, 2009-01-14 Histories of masculinity have generally examined both social ideologies of masculinity and subjective male identities within frameworks that define them against the feminine Yet historians and sociologists have increasingly argued that men have been and continue to be defined both socially and subjectively as much by their relations to other men as in relation to women This collection brings together the work of scholars of masculinities working in a variety of fields including literature history and art history to examine some of the forms of otherness against which ideas of masculinity have been defined throughout history The collection reflects the current breadth of scholarship relating to the study of masculine alterity While the subjects addressed are largely historical the time span covered is broad and the disciplinary approaches to the subject matter are equally wide ranging A huge variety of men masculine behaviours and definitions of masculinity are considered in an exciting and invigorating collection that showcases both established academics and emerging scholars in the field

Sex, Money and Personal Character in

Eighteenth-Century British Politics Marilyn Morris, 2015-01-28 How and why did the Anglo American world become so obsessed with the private lives and public character of its political leaders Marilyn Morris finds answers in eighteenth century Britain when a long tradition of court intrigue and gossip spread into a much broader and more public political arena with the growth of political parties extra parliamentary political activities and a partisan print culture The public s preoccupation with the personal character of the ruling elite paralleled a growing interest in the interior lives of individuals in histories novels and the theater Newspaper reports of the royal family intensified in intimacy and its members became moral exemplars most often paradoxically when they misbehaved Ad hominem attacks on political leaders became commonplace politicians of all affiliations continued to assess one another s characters based on their success and daring with women and money And newly popular human interest journalism promoted the illusion that the personal characters of public figures could be read by appearances

Gender, War and Politics K. Hagemann, G. Mettelle, J. Rendall, 2010-09-08 This volume addresses war developing political and national identities and the changing gender regimes of Europe and the Americas between 1775 and 1830 Military and civilian experiences of war and revolution in free and slave societies both reflected and shaped gender concepts and practices in relation to class ethnicity race and religion

The Victorian Eighteenth Century B.W. Young, 2007-10-18 Exploring the Victorian fascination with the generation of their grandparents and great grandparents Brian Young illuminates Victorian intellectual religious and cultural history Examining the work of men such as Thomas Carlyle the book reveals how the Victorians were haunted by the eighteenth century both metaphorically and literally

On Sexuality and Power Alan Sinfield, 2004 This book argues that hierarchies in interpersonal relations are inextricably linked to the main power differentials of our social and political life gender class age and race therefore it is not surprising that they govern our psychic lives Recent writing enables an exploration of their positive potential especially in fantasy as well as their danger The book focuses on the writing of the last thirty years revisiting also Whitman Wilde Mann Forster and Genet and reassessing the very idea of a gay canon

Breastwork Alison Bartlett, 2005 Breastwork delivers an original and personal approach to a near universal practice and doesn t shy from controversy or controversial topics such as sexual desire and breastfeeding It features a broad range of illustrations from Renaissance paintings of mother and child Madonna del Latte to Jerry Hall breastfeeding on the cover of Vanity Fair and Kate Langbroek breastfeeding on The Panel to a banned New Zealand health poster of a man breastfeeding at work

Money/Space Andrew Leyshon, Nigel Thrift, 2005-06-28 Bringing together in one volume the most important writings of Andrew Leyshon and Nigel Thrift on money and finance including the unpublished classic Sexy Greedy this collection examines the economic social and cultural manifestations that go to make up the multiple vision of money Money it seems is the great God of our age It is also an economy a sociology an anthropology and a geography Linking money with the emergent patterns of global spatial order Money Space analyses the restructuring of financial markets in a range of spatial scales global national and local and Fictions of the "War on Terror" Sarah O'Brien, 2021-05-18 This book explores the ways in which transnational fiction in the post 9 11 era can intervene in discourse surrounding the war on terror to advocate for marginalised perspectives Trauma and Fictions of the War on Terror conceptualises global political discourse about the war on terror as incongruous with transnational memory frames instituted in Western nations centralising 9 11 as uniquely traumatic excluding the historical and present day experiences of Afghans under Western specifically American hegemonic violence Recent developments in trauma studies explain how dominant Western trauma theory participates in this exclusion failing to account for the ongoing suffering common to non Western colonial and postcolonial contexts O'Brien explores how Khaled Hosseini The Kite Runner Nadeem Aslam The Wasted Vigil The Blind Man's Garden and Kamila Shamsie Burnt Shadows represent marginalised perspectives in the context of the war on terror

Visions of Sodom H.G. Cocks, 2017-03-29 The book of Genesis records the fiery fate of Sodom and Gomorrah a storm of fire and brimstone was sent from heaven and for the wickedness of the people God destroyed the cities and all the plains and all the inhabitants of the cities and that which grew upon the ground According to many Protestant theologians and commentators one of the Sodomites many crimes was homoerotic excess In Visions of Sodom H.G. Cocks examines the many different ways in which the story of Sodom's destruction provided a template for understanding homoerotic desire and behaviour in Britain between the Reformation and the nineteenth century Sodom was not only a marker of sexual sins but also the epitome of false usually Catholic religion an exemplar of the iniquitous city a foreshadowing of the world's fiery end an epitome of divine and earthly punishment and an actual place that could be searched for and discovered Visions of Sodom investigates each of these ways of reading Sodom's annihilation in the three hundred years after the Reformation The centrality of scripture to Protestant faith meant that Sodom's demise provided a powerful origin myth of homoerotic desire and sexual excess one that persisted across centuries and retains an apocalyptic echo in the religious fundamentalism of our own time

The Ends of Life Keith Thomas, 2010-02-25 How should we live That question was no less urgent for English men and women who lived between the early sixteenth and late eighteenth centuries than for this book's readers Keith Thomas's masterly exploration of the ways in which people sought to lead fulfilling lives in those centuries between the beginning of the Reformation and the heyday of the Enlightenment illuminates the central values of the period while casting incidental light on some of the perennial problems of human existence Consideration of the origins of the modern ideal of human fulfilment and of obstacles to its realization in the early modern period frames an investigation that ranges from work wealth and possessions to the pleasures of friendship family and sociability The cult of military prowess the pursuit of honour and reputation the nature of religious belief and scepticism and the desire to be posthumously remembered are all drawn into the discussion and the views and practices of ordinary people are measured against the opinions of the leading philosophers and theologians of the time The Ends of Life offers a fresh approach to the history of early modern England by one of the foremost historians of our time It also provides modern readers with much food for thought on the problem of how we should live and what goals in life we should pursue Smell in Eighteenth-century England William Tullett, 2019 In England from the 1670s to the 1820s a transformation took place in how smell and the senses were viewed The role of smell in developing medical and scientific knowledge came under intense scrutiny and the equation of smell with disease was actively questioned Yet a new interest in smell's emotive and idiosyncratic dimensions offered odour a new power in the sociable spaces of eighteenth century England Using a wide range of sources from diaries letters and sanitary records to satirical prints consumer objects and magazines William Tullett traces how individuals and communities perceived the smells around them from paint and perfume to onions and farts In doing so the study challenges a popular influential and often cited narrative Smell in Eighteenth Century England is not a tale of the medicalization and deodorization of English olfactory culture Instead Tullett demonstrates that it was a new recognition of smell's asocial sociability and its capacity to create atmospheres of uncomfortable intimacy that transformed the relationship between the senses and society Literacy in the Digital University Robin Goodfellow, Mary R. Lea, 2013-10-08 Literacy in the Digital University is an innovative volume bringing together perspectives from two fields of enquiry and practice literacies and learning and learning technologies With their own histories and trajectories these fields have seldom overlapped either in practice theory or research In tackling this divide head on the volume breaks new ground It illustrates how complementary and contrasting approaches to literacy and technology can be brought together in productive ways and considers the implications of this for practitioners working across a wide range of contexts The book showcases work from well respected authorities in the two fields in order to provide the foundations for new conversations about learning and practice in the digital university It will be of particular relevance to university teachers and researchers educational developers and learning technologists library staff university managers and policy makers and not least learners themselves particularly those studying at post graduate level Angela Carter and the Fairy Tale Danielle Marie Roemer, Cristina Bacchilega, 2001 A diverse collection of essays artwork interviews and fiction on Angela Carter
