From the Trade Paperback edition The Greenfield Review, 1983 The Big Whatever Peter Doyle, 2015-07-14 When Billy Glasheen picks up a trashy paperback he finds in his cab, its plot seems weirdly familiar. One of the main characters is based on him. Only one person knows enough about his past to have written it: Max, his double crossing ex-partner in crime. But Max is dead. He famously went up in flames along with a fortune in cash after a bank heist. If Max is somehow still alive, Billy has a score to settle. And if he didn't get fried to a crisp, maybe the money didn't either. To find out, Billy has to follow the clues in the strange little book and rapidly discovers he's not the only one on Max's trail. The Big Whatever is the fourth instalment of Peter Doyle's acclaimed series which has grown into an epic underground history of postwar Australia where crooks, entertainers, scammers, corrupt cops and politicians all rub shoulders chasing their big paydays.

Confronting Scale in Archaeology Gary Lock, Brian Molyneaux, 2007-11-15 Without realizing it, most archaeologists shift within a scale of interpretation of material culture. Material data is interpreted from the scale of an individual in a specific place and time, then shifted to the complex dynamics of cultural groups spread over time and place. This book discusses the cultural, social and spatial aspects of scale and its impact on archaeology and shows how an improved awareness of scale offers new and exciting interpretations.
