controlled parastatals the regional distribution of manufacturing industries and income inequality The rapid growth in production and employment and the changing structure of the manufacturing industry he concludes is due to high rates of investment in a small number of relatively large establishments primarily in the parastatal sector Technological Transformation in the Third World: Volume 2 Surendra J. Patel, 2018-03-26 Originally published in 1993 this book contains 3 studies on Africa Algeria Tanzania and Zimbabwe The studies underline the difficulties which Africa has faced in initiating its technological transformation During the post WW2 period liberation from colonialism came relatively late and therefore many African countries did not have the possibility of participating in the rapid growth of global output and trade Debt drought and famine have put additional burdens on the economic conditions of the continent Adverse conditions and poor infrastructure have made the continent much more vulnerable to both external and internal disturbances and as a result many countries have not had the opportunity to make a real beginning towards their transformation Turbulence and Order in Economic Development Hazel Gray, 2018-02-08 The terms of debate on the role of institutions in economic development are changing Stable market institutions in particular secure private property rights and democratically accountable governments that uphold the rule of law are widely seen to be a pre requisite for economic transformation in low income countries yet over the last thirty years economic growth and structural transformation has surged forward in a range of countries where market and state institutions have differed these ideals as well as from each other Turbulence and Order in Economic Development studies the role of the state in two such countries examining the interplay between market liberalization institutions and the distribution of power in Tanzania and Vietnam Tanzania and Vietnam were two of the poorest countries in the world in the early 1980s but over the last thirty years both have experienced significant changes in the pace and character of economic development While both countries experienced faster rates of GDP growth their paths of economic transformation were very different as Vietnam experienced rapid poverty reduction associated with the expansion of manufacturing while Tanzania s path of industrialization was characterized by the rise of mining and a much slower pace of poverty reduction Employing a political settlements approach this book considers the comparative role of the state in driving economic transformation In both countries the experiences of socialism continued to shape the role of the state in the economy even after extensive market liberalization however the distribution of political and economic power was very different This had important consequences for the overlapping role of the state in generating political order and in driving economic transformation Turbulence and Order in Economic Development studies the formal and informal ways that the state influenced economic transformation through its role in public financial management land and industrial policy

African Economic History, 1988 The African Union and New Strategies for Development in Africa Said Adejumo, Adebayo O. Olukoshi, 2008

The early twenty first century witnessed remarkable attempts by Africa's political leadership to promote regional integration as a means of fast tracking economic progress facilitating peace and security consolidating democratic gains and promoting the general welfare of the African people The transition of the Organization of Unity OAU to the African Union AU as well as the foisting of a new economic blueprint for the continent the New Partnership for Africa's Development NEPAD combined with the growing role of the regional economic communities RECs in harmonizing and creating subregional norms and standards in the political and economic arena suggests a new trend towards regionalism in Africa Indeed in the new regional integration architecture the RECs are considered to be the building blocks of the integration process led by the African Union This new impetus of a regional development strategy was largely prompted by the slow pace of economic progress on the continent the increasing marginalization of Africa in the global economy and the need to create regional resources and standards that would benefit the continent in all spheres of social life A painful realization became obvious that small micro states in Africa sticking to their political independence and sovereignty would hardly make much progress in an increasingly globalised world A macro states approach of regional integration has assumed Africa's new strategy to intervene in and integrate with a globalizing world The current regional trend in Africa has received very little scholarly attention especially in a systematic and comprehensive way This is due partly to the fact that the processes are currently unfolding and there is still uncertainty in the outcomes Poor documentation and the dearth of primary materials especially from the regional institutions also contribute to the lack of scholarly work in this area This study assembles the voices of some of the most seasoned African and Africanist scholars who have constantly in one way or another interacted with the integration process in Africa and kept abreast of the developments therein and seeks to capture those developments in a nuanced manner in the economic political and social spheres The essence of this book is to analyze those processes teasing out the issues problems challenges and major policy recommendations with tentative conclusions on Africa's regional development trajectory The book therefore fills major knowledge and policy gaps in Africa's regional development agenda This book is a landmark contribution in a systematic attempt to comprehend Africa's regional development strategy led by the African Union It examines the background nuances and dimensions of the process which include the basis and historiography of pan Africanism the transition of the OAU to the AU the issue of popular participation in development the NEPAD and APRM initiatives the evolving regional peace and security architecture and the efforts of regional institutions to facilitate democracy human rights rule of law and good governance on the continent The book underscores the fact that formidable obstacles and challenges abound in the trajectory politics and processes of this regional development paradigm especially as Africa navigates an uncertain future in a deeply divided and unequal yet globalised World The book constitutes a major reference material and compendium for a wide range of readers students and scholars of African affairs and African development policy makers both in Africa and the western countries regional and international institutions and organizations and all those interested in the past present and future of Africa's development process technical 2005 introduction to development studies explores the dynamics of socio economic development and stagnation in developing countries Taking a quantitative and comparative approach to contemporary debates within their broader context Szirmai examines historical institutional demographic sociological political and cultural factors Key chapters focus on economic growth technological change industrialisation agricultural development and consider social dimensions such as population growth health and education Each chapter contains comparative statistics on trends from a sample of twenty nine developing countries This rich statistical database allows students to strengthen their understanding of comparative development experiences Assuming no prior knowledge of economics the book is suited for use in inter disciplinary development studies programmes as well as economics courses and will also interest practitioners pursuing careers in developing countries

The Development of Capitalism in Africa John Sender, Sheila Smith, 2013-05-13 First published in 1986 this work challenges underdevelopment analyses of Africa s past experiences and future prospects and builds upon a very wide range of recent historical research to argue that the impact of Capitalism has resulted in economic progress and significant improvements in living standards In marked contrast to the dependency approach they propose that the important political and economic differences between the experiences of developing countries should be stressed and analysed The argument is supported by a detailed look at the emergence since 1900 of capitalist social relations of production in nine different countries
