The Older Population Of The United States:

The Older Population of the United States Henry Davidson Sheldon,1958 Current Population Reports United States. Bureau of the Census,Jacob S. Siegel,1976 Supersedes Social and economic characteristics of the older population 1973 Current population reports Series P 23 no 43 Demographic Aspects of Aging and the Older Population in the United States Jacob S. Siegel,1978 Older Population of the United States Sheldon Henry D.,1989-05-01 The Older Population in the United States Denise Smith,Hava Tillipman,2000 Demographics of the United States Samuel L. Shapner,2007

The United States the third most populous country globally accounts for about 4.6 per cent of the world's population. Within the next few years the U.S. population currently estimated at 299 million persons is expected to reach twice its 1950 level of 152 million. More than just being double in size the population has become qualitatively different from what it was. As noted by the Population Reference Bureau The U.S. is getting bigger older and more diverse. The objective of this book is to highlight some of the demographic changes that have already occurred and to illustrate how these and future trends will reshape the nation in decades to come.

The Older Population of the United States,1996 Estimates of Future Population of the United States, 1940-2000 Warren Simpson Thompson,Pascal Kidder Whelpton,1943 Housing Design for an Increasingly Older Population Victor Regnier,2018-09-12

Longer lifespans and the needs of the oldest old are challenging the senior living industry to find bold and compassionate solutions to combine programs and services with housing. Victor Regnier's latest research provides a thoughtful and insightful roadmap that arrays new ways of thinking from small scale settings to community based options. International case studies offer possible solutions with the best thinking from around the globe all with Victor's unique perspective of extracting themes and concepts that are broadly applicable and essential to addressing the needs of those that live on life's fragile edge. David Hoglund FAIA Supporting the independence of the oldest old is a tough problem Victor Regnier addresses in his latest book on aging and housing. Like previous work Victor relies on the best practices of northern Europeans to outline a three prong approach. First providing extremely comprehensive home care services in an apartment for life setting. Second reforming the conventional nursing home by exploring small group style accommodations. Third combining new technology with community based services to age in place. Case studies document the experiences of others in making these programs work here and abroad. The magnitude of the 90 and 100 population increases in the next 50 years make it clear how important it is to address this concern today. Edward Steinfeld Darch The movement of health care from the institution to the home is a theme that Regnier identifies as one of the most important lessons in rethinking the issue of how to support the ever growing and increasingly aged older population here and abroad. He examines simple but profound approaches we can take in making long term care a more humane proposition. Familiar themes like humanizing technology and optimizing the impact of the natural environment are brought together with clear policy thinking about what we need to do. The timing is good because the impact of this growing segment of society will have

major repercussions on health care for the next 50 70 years Stephan Verderber Ph D A comprehensive guide to designing housing for the world s aging population The dilemma of helping older people maintain their independence through better housing with services is growing This book presents innovative solutions for those who create and provide housing for the world s increasingly longer living population By focusing on three specific housing and service arrangements it offers alternatives that provide greater freedom of choice than the current living arrangements that exist today It presents selected examples of housing and service solutions from the US Sweden Denmark and the Netherlands to stimulate thinking about the possibilities of community based service models Housing Design for an Increasingly Older Population looks at a trio of options for housing the oldest old the Dutch Apartment Condo for Life Model AFL decentralized Small Green Houses and the provision of enhanced personal and health care for people who want to stay in their own home It offers unique and eye opening chapters covering what older people want what age changes affect independence demographics and living arrangements how long term care is defined concepts and objectives for housing the frail care giving and management practices that avoid an institutional lifestyle innovative case studies programs that encourage staying at home with service assistance therapeutic use of outdoor spaces how technology will help people stay independent and more Based on the author s numerous conversations with other experts as well as his examinations of high quality settings from Northern Europe and the US Building case study examples showcase innovative and compassionate solutions In depth coverage of three major systems that work Examines successful programs such as PACE Friendly Cities NORC and the Village to Village Network to demonstrate the progress made in helping older frail people stay in their own homes for as long as possible Housing Design for an Increasingly Older Population Redefining Assisted Living for the Mentally and Physically Frail is an important book for those who create design and manage assisted living and skilled nursing facilities as well as for those who set policies regarding health and personal care for our world s aging society Aging and Diversity Chandra M.

Mehrotra, Lisa S. Wagner, Chandra Mehrotra, 2013-03-07 This new edition has been completely rewritten and includes chapters that address key topics in diversity and aging research methods psychological aging health beliefs behaviors and services health disparities informal and formal care for older persons work and retirement religious affiliation and spirituality and death dying and bereavement Taking a broad view of diversity Mehrotra and Wagner discuss elements of diversity such as gender race or ethnicity religious affiliation social class rural urban community location and sexual orientation Including these elements allows them to convey some of the rich complexities of our diverse culture complexities that provide both challenges to meet the needs of diverse population and opportunities to learn how to live in a pluralistic society Throughout the book Mehrotra and Wagner present up to date knowledge and scholarship in a way that engages readers in active learning Rather than simply transmitting information the authors place ongoing emphasis on developing readers knowledge and skills fostering higher order thinking and encouraging exploration of personal values and attitudes Distinctive features of the book include Opening vignettes for each chapter that present a sampling of how the issues to be discussed apply to diverse elders Active learning experiences that invite readers to interview diverse elders conduct internet searches and give an analysis of a case study Quizzes at the end of the chapters help readers ascertain the extent to which they have learned the material the key for each quiz includes details about correct and incorrect responses so that additional learning can occur Aging and Diversity Online boxes interspersed throughout the book provide internet resources that readers may use to find new research and publications Suggested readings and audiovisual resources given at the end of each chapter serve as a guide to additional information on topics covered in the chapter This approach of presenting the material will help the readers understand and apply key concepts and principles in ways that will not only improve the lives of older people they serve but will also enhance their own aging experience

The next four decades Grayson K. Vincent, 2010 The purpose of this report is to present information on how the age structure of the overall population and the composition of the older population in terms of age sex race and Hispanic origin are expected to change over the next four decades Between 2010 and 2050 the United States is projected to experience rapid growth in its older population In 2050 the number of Americans aged 65 and older is projected to be 88.5 million more than double its projected population of 40.2 million in 2010 The baby boomers are largely responsible for this increase in the older population as they will begin crossing into this category in 2011 The aging of the population will have wide ranging implications for the country As the United States ages over the next several decades its older population will become more racially and ethnically diverse Projecting the size and structure in terms of age sex race and Hispanic origin of the older population is important to public and private interests both socially and economically The projected growth of the older population in the United States will present challenges to policy makers and programs such as Social Security and Medicare It will also affect families businesses and health care providers
