The Heat Steelworker Lives Legends:

The Heat Jimmy Santiago Baca, Stacy James, 2001 A collection of short stories written by steelworkers under the guidance of award winning poet Jimmy Santiago Baca These voices of the working class describe what it s like to spend a lifetime in the shadow of America s steel mills The Heat offers a rare last glimpse inside the huge old abandoned plants that now litter the rust belt landscape

Wives of Steel Karen Olson, 2005 Wives of Steel is based on more than eighty formal interviews conducted over a fifteen year period with women and some men both white and black all of whom were part of Sparrows Point as workers spouses or longtime residents of the local communities Through the stories they tell we see how a male dominated industry has influenced personal family and social experiences over several generations We also see the distinct differences and surprising similarities among the lives of black and white women which often reflect the complicated relationships among black and white steelworkers in the plant

Literature, Writing, and the Natural World James Guignard, T. P. Murphy, 2020-06-12 The English Association of Pennsylvania State Universities held its annual meeting in 2006 at Mansfield University in Pennsylvania The conference theme was Literature Writing and the Natural World This collection grows out of the conference and indicates the desire to understand all aspects of our relationship with the natural world the function of literature in clarifying that relationship in ways science and politics cannot and the role of the literature teacher scholar wanting to respond to pressures of environmental change In these times interpretation is a vital task not only for the way it educates us about our attitudes toward nature but because it develops the crucial skills of looking closely engaging reflecting and responding One could argue that as a culture Americans are behind the curve in understanding the ways we depend upon a healthy relationship with nature and one way among many depends upon examining it through texts and textual representation When the writers here dig into The Main Woods Jayber Crow the poetry of Pablo Guevara or the movie Crash they are contributing to our understanding of the ways in which we view nature and how that view plays a role in the way we relate to nature These days many disciplines engage global warming and other environmental issues routinely and the literature classroom should be no different Just as we read a book and address fundamental themes such as What does it mean to love or How do we develop identity we should also be asking What is my responsibility when I decide what resources to use If we understand literature as equipment for living in a warming world we may be able to help students make some sense out of their world and some decisions about how to act

Bridging the Divide Jack Metzgar, 2021-11-15 In Bridging the Divide Jack Metzgar attempts to determine the differences between working class and middle class cultures in the United States Drawing on a wide range of multidisciplinary sources Metzgar writes as a now middle class professional with a working class upbringing explaining the various ways the two cultures conflict and complement each other illustrated by his own lived experiences Set in a historical framework that reflects on how both class cultures developed adapted and survived through decades of historical circumstances Metzgar challenges professional middle class views of both the working class and themselves In the end he argues for the creation of a cross class coalition of what he calls standard issue professionals with both hard living and settled living working people and outlines some policies that could help promote such a unification if the two groups had a better understanding of their differences and how to use those differences to their advantage Bridging the Divide mixes personal stories and theoretical
