The Forgetting Tree Rae Paris,2017-04-12 A personal narrative of past and present racial violence and resistance to terror in the United States Rae Paris began writing The Forgetting Tree A Rememory in 2010 while traveling the United States visiting sites of racial trauma horror and defiance The desire to do this work came from being a child of parents born and raised in New Orleans during segregation who ultimately left for California in the late 1950s After the death of her father in 2011 the fiction Paris had been writing gave way to poetry and short prose which were heavily influenced by the questions she d long been considering about narrative power memory and freedom The need to write this story became even more personal and pressing While Paris sometimes uses the genre of memoir or hybrid memoir when referring to her work in this case the term rememory born from Toni Morrison s Beloved feels most accurate Paris is driven by the familial and historical spaces and by what happens when we remember seemingly disparate images and moments The collection is not fully prose or poetry but rather an elegy for those who have passed through us A perfect blend of prose poetry and images The Forgetting Tree is a unique and thought provoking collection that argues for a deeper understanding of past and present so that we might imagine a more hopeful sustainable and loving future
