That Young Person:

Making Sense of Child Sexual Exploitation Sophie Hallett, 2017-03-29 Child sexual exploitation CSE is now high on the social care agenda but what is it How is it different from other forms of child sexual abuse This important book puts forward the rarely heard voices of children and young people who have experienced CSE and the professionals who have worked with them to answer these questions Taking a critical perspective Hallett also addresses the possibility that further problems might arise from the framing of child sexual exploitation which can have serious implications for the ways that society responds to CSE and to the children and young people caught up in it Central to the discussion are themes such as youth childhood care and power making for an important sociological contribution to this under researched field The book challenges the dominant way of thinking about CSE and with new and valuable practice and policy relevant insights is also essential reading for those working or training to work with children and young people Community-Based

Rodham, Emma Evans, 2006 The authors identify the risk and protective factors for self harm exploring why some adolescents with suicidal thoughts go on to harm themselves while others do not what motivates some young people to seek help and whether distressed teenagers feel they receive the support they need The Health and Social Needs of Young Adults with Physical Disabilities Andrew Thomas, Martin Bax, Diane Smyth, 1989 This book addresses a topic that has received surprisingly little attention to date the health and social needs of young adults with physical disabilities Following an extensive review of the contemporary literature on the subject the authors report an in depth study on a large sample of physically disabled 18 to 25 year olds living in two survey areas one urban and one semirural The study which included pediatric examinations and interviews by a social psychologist found that a large proportion of subjects face social and medical problems for instance They have serious health needs that are not being met by the statutory services they left school with less than adequate skills to enable them to lead an independent adult life they are without a daytime occupation or attend day centers that are described as unstimulating places they do not receive all the financial benefits to which they are entitled they are isolated from their peers and lack the social skills to interact with others in a positive and successful way Parents and guardians were also found to receive little physical or emotional support These findings underline the need for a better system of providing and coordinating services for this client group and the authors call for the formation within each local health authority area of an Adult Disability Service that would have a clinical and planning role in terms of health care and that would act as a linchpin in the coordination of health educational social and voluntary services Although this work relates specifically to service provision in the United Kingdom it is felt that the conclusions and recommendations are also broadly applicable to the situation in other countries
