Summary

In 2012, the Government of Tanzania secured funding from the Adaptation Fund and the Global Environment Facility's Least Developed Country Fund to reduce the negative impacts of climate change on vulnerable communities in coastal areas. The country is facing the impacts of climate change on the coasts through rain-induced flooding and sea-level rise.

A major approach of the projects was to build the resilience of coastal communities by restoring and building concrete infrastructure, such as seawalls and urban drainage systems, which are expected to withstand climate change and protect communities and assets. To complement the grey infrastructure, the projects restored mangrove and coral habitats, both of which act as natural barriers and buffers against wave surges. The use of nature-based solutions for adapting to climate change is known as ecosystem-based adaptation (EbA).

Both projects have reduced climate vulnerability in critical coastal areas, assisted the country to implement its National Action Programme for Adaptation (NAPA), restored key ecosystems, and are estimated to have directly benefitted a total of at least 58,000 people, in addition to the economic benefits to the local economies in the coastal areas covered in the project.

In all components of the project, key lessons were learned for best practices for monitoring and evaluation, sustainability and upscaling, EbA implementation and project design.

The Absentment Of Vulnerability And Adaptation To Climate Change Impacts In Tanzania:

The Assessment of Vulnerability and Adaptation to Climate Change Impacts in Tanzania M. J. Mwandosya, Buruhani Salum Nyenzi, Matthew Laban Luhanga, 1998 Experiences of Climate Change Adaptation in Africa Walter Leal Filho, 2011-08-08 It is widely acknowledged that in addition to global and regional efforts to cope with climate change by means of mitigation measures adaptation initiatives can and perhaps should play a key role in enabling communities from across Africa to better handle the problems related to it Due to the fact that experiences in climate change adaptation in Africa are poorly documented this book provides an attempt to address the perceived need for better documentation and dissemination of African experiences on climate change adaptation Climate Variability and Change in Africa Jonathan I. Matondo, Berhanu F. Alemaw, Wennegouda Jean Pierre Sandwidi, 2020-01-01 This book presents a comprehensive overview of climate variability and change in Africa and includes impact assessments and case studies from integration frameworks with a particular focus on climate agriculture and water resources Richly illustrated the book highlights case studies from western eastern and southern African region and explores related development policies Climate change adaptation research prediction and reanalysis are also addressed Climate Change Impacts and Sustainability Pius Z. Yanda, Claude G. Mung'ong'o, Edmund B. Mabhuye, 2020-06-02 This book provides a detailed analysis of the economic and environmental impacts of climate change on the tropical ecosystems in Tanzania Topics covered include agriculture marine resources wildlife and weather forecasting The analyses concentrate on real and potential impacts of climate change focusing on changes in temperature and precipitation Adaptive capacity and strategies for enhancing resilience such as changing crop types and crop patterns in farming are described Sustainable Intensification to Advance Food Security and Enhance Climate Resilience in Africa Rattan Lal, Bal Ram Singh, Dismas L. Mwaseba, David Kraybill, David O. Hansen, Lars Olav Eik, 2014-10-10 This 32 chapter volume represents the core of several oral and poster presentations made at the conference In addition to Introduction and Conclusion sections the book is thematically divided into 7 sections namely 1 Land Use and Farming Systems 2 Effects of Climate Change on Crop Yield 3 Soil Nutrient and Water Management for Carbon Sequestration 4 Rehabilitation of Degraded Lands through Forestry and Agroforestry 5 Management of Animal Production for Greenhouse Gas Emissions 6 Smallholder Adaptation to Climate Change and 7 Economic Social and Policy Issues It addresses these themes in the context of sustainable intensification SI It implies increasing agronomic production from the existing land while improving restoring its quality and decreasing the C or environmental footprint Simply put SI means producing more from less Sustainable Tourism Development in Tanzania Wineaster Anderson, Lena Mossberg, Tommy D. Andersson, 2020-12-11 Tanzania is rivalled by few countries if any in terms of its bountiful natural and cultural tourist attractions Given that tourism development if sustainable is an outstanding policy for distributing welfare even to less developed parts of a country this field is of particular importance to Tanzania In this edited volume prominent scholars focus on the practises and policies of tourism development with a particular eye on the case of Tanzania They explore the demand for sustainability from international tourists the need for local food and linkages between the tourism and agricultural sectors and the production of tourism services in a responsible and inclusive way The book will be a valuable source of knowledge for the tourism industry as well as policymakers scholars and students who are concerned about the development of a form of tourism which benefits a country inclusively and responsibly

Climate Change and Sustainable Urban Development in Africa and Asia Belinda Yuen,Asfaw Kumssa,2010-11-22 This book is about African and Asian cities Illustrated through selected case cities the book brings together a rich collection of papers by leading scholars and practitioners in Africa and Asia to offer empirical analysis and up to date discussions and assessments of the urban challenges and solutions for their cities A number of key topics concerning housing sustainable urban development and climate change in Africa and Asia are explored along with how policy interventions and partnerships deliver specific forms of urban development It is intended for all who are interested in the state of the cities and urban development in Africa and Asia Africa and Asia present in many ways useful lessons in dealing with the burgeoning urban population and the problems surrounding this influx of people and climate change in the developing word

Azeiteiro,Sam Illingworth,Fátima Alves,2016-06-13 This book analyzes how climate change adaptation can be implemented at the community regional and national level Featuring a variety of case studies it illustrates strategies initiatives and projects currently being implemented across the world In addition to the challenges faced by communities cities and regions seeking to cope with climate change phenomena like floods droughts and other extreme events the respective chapters cover topics such as the adaptive capacities of water management organizations biodiversity conservation and indigenous and climate change adaptation strategies The book will appeal to a broad readership from scholars to policymakers interested in developing strategies for effectively addressing the impacts of climate change

Climate Change and Disaster Risk Management Walter Leal Filho,2012-08-10 There has been some degree of reluctance in the past to consider disaster risk management within the mainstream of adaptation to climate variability and climate change However there is now wide recognition of the need to incorporate disaster risk management concerns in dealing with such phenomena There is also a growing awareness of the necessity for a multi sectoral approach in managing the effects of climate variability and climate change since this can lead to a significant reduction of risk This book presents the latest findings from scientific research on climate variation climate change and their links with disaster risk management It showcases projects and other initiatives in this field that are being undertaken in both industrialised and developing countries by universities and scientific institutions government bodies national and international agencies NGOs and other stakeholders Finally it discusses current and future challenges identifying opportunities and highlighting the still unrealised potential for promoting better understanding of the connections between climate variation climate change and disaster risk management worldwide

The Fabric of Peace in Africa Pamela Aall, Chester A. Crocker, 2017-06-05 Africa has experienced dozens of conflicts over a variety of issues during the past two decades Responding to these conflicts requires concerted action to manage the crises the violence the political discord and the humanitarian consequences of prolonged fighting It is also necessary to address the long term social and economic impacts of conflict to rebuild communities societies and states that have been torn apart To accomplish this requires the involvement of institutions and groups rarely considered in formal official African conflict management activities schools universities religious institutions media commercial enterprises legal institutions civil society groups youth women and migrants These groups and organizations have an important role to play in building a sense of identity fairness shared norms and cohesion between state and society all critical components of the fabric of peace and security in Africa This volume brings together leading experts from Africa Europe and North America to examine these critical social institutions and groups and consider how they can either improve or impede peaceful conflict resolution The overarching questions that are explored by the authors are What constitutes social cohesion and resilience in the face of conflict What are the threats to cohesion and resilience And how can the positive elements be fostered and by whom The second of two volumes on African conflict management capacity by the editors The Fabric of Peace in Africa Looking beyond the State opens new doors of understanding for students scholars and practitioners focused on strengthening peace in Africa the first volume Minding the Gap African Conflict Management in a Time of change focused on the role of mediation and peacekeeping in managing violence and political crises
