Grenville,Kingston Historical Society (Ont.). Plaque Committee,2000 A History of Domestic Space Peter Ward,2007-11-01 This is a history of domestic space in Canada Peter Ward looks at how spaces in the Canadian home have changed over the last three centuries and how family and social relationships have shaped and been shaped by these changing spaces A fundamental element of daily life for individuals and families is domestic privacy that of individuals and that of the family or household There are also two facets of privacy privacy from and privacy to Personal privacy sets the individual apart from the group creating opportunities for seclusion Family privacy draws boundaries between the household and the community defending the solidarity of the home and providing a basis for family relationships In both ways privacy is intimately involved with the history of the house Over time the changing size shape and location of the home have created widely different opportunities for family and personal privacy Together with major shifts in household composition family size and domestic technology they have gradually altered the conditions of everyday domestic life But the pattern of change has been far from uniform for the nature meaning and experience of privacy in Canadian have varied widely over the past 300 years This book explores some of those experiences and meanings reflecting on their implications for family and social life historically as well as in the recent past Buildings of Empire Ashley Jackson, 2013-11-28 Buildings of Empire takes the reader on an exciting journey through thirteen territories of the British Empire From Dublin Castle to the glass and steel of Sir Norman Foster's Hong Kong and Shanghai Bank skyscraper these buildings capture the essence of the imperial experience painting an intimate portrait of the biggest empire the world has ever seen the people who made it and the people who resisted it as well as the legacy of the imperial project throughout the world Ashley Jackson visits classic examples of the buildings that the British governed from the forts they often brutally imposed their rule from the railway stations they travelled from the banks they traded from the educational establishments they spread their values from as well as the grand colonial hotels they stayed in the sporting clubs and botanical gardens where they took their leisure and the monumental exhibition spaces in which they celebrated the achievements of settlement and imperial endeavour The history of these buildings does not end with the empire that built them Their story in the aftermath of empire highlights the continuing legacy of many of the structures and institutions the British left behind as well as the sometimes unexpected role that these former symbols of alien rule have played in the establishment of new national identities in the years since independence Queen's University, Volume III, 1961-2004 Duncan McDowall, 2016-04-01 Founded in 1841 by a royal charter Queen's University evolved into a national institution steeped in tradition and an abiding sense of public service Propelled initially by its Presbyterian instincts and an attachment to Gaelic culture Queen's has prospered and adapted over the years to match Canada's ever changing dynamics In this third volume of Queen's University's official history Duncan McDowall demonstrates that the late twentieth century was a contest between expediency and tradition waged through crisis and careful evolution Testing Tradition calibrates the durability of Queen's vaunted traditions in the face of shifts in the broader Canadian society During this time of massive postsecondary expansion Queen's grew sevenfold from a small collegial campus of 3 100 students to a sprawling cosmopolitan place of more than 20 000 students from over 120 countries engaged in undergraduate graduate and professional programs Measuring Queen's University's responses to concerns over social diversity human rights and gender equity through the eyes of its trustees administrators students faculty and the Kingston community this volume pays particular attention to the experiences of women and visible minorities at the university Copiously illustrated with photographs of important people events and aspects of campus life this volume shows how Queen's in having its traditions tested has worked to retain the best of its past while accepting the inevitability of change Vernacular architecture in the Codroy Valley Richard MacKinnon, 2002-01-01 This book relates the story of a small Newfoundland community as told through its buildings From the addition of a kitchen to the construction of a new house the way people build and change their homes says a great deal about their histories and daily lives and the author's insights on the stories told in the architecture of the Codroy Valley are
