Charlotte Mason was a late nineteenth century British educator whose ideas were far ahead of her time. She believed that children are born persons worthy of respect rather than blank slates and that it was better to feed their growing minds with living literature and vital ideas and knowledge rather than dry facts and knowledge filtered and pre digested by the teacher. Her method of education still used by some private schools and many homeschooling families is gentle and flexible especially with younger children and includes first hand exposure to great and noble ideas through books in each school subject conveying wonder and arousing curiosity and through reflection upon great art, music and poetry, nature observation as the primary means of early science teaching, use of manipulatives and real life application to understand mathematical concepts and learning to reason rather than rote memorization and working endless sums and an emphasis on character and on cultivating and maintaining good personal habits. Schooling is teacher directed not child led but school time should be short enough to allow students free time to play and to pursue their own worthy interests such as handicrafts.
