The Rise of Big Data Policing Andrew Guthrie Ferguson, 2017-12-26 PROSE Award Winner in Law Legal Studies Essential reading for anyone who wants to understand how technology is changing American policing Kirkus Reviews starred review In a command center in downtown Los Angeles a digital map lights up with 911 calls TV monitors track breaking news surveillance cameras sweep the streets and rows of computers link analysts and police officers to a wealth of intelligence This is just a glimpse into a future where software predicts crimes algorithms generate most wanted lists and databanks collect personal and biometric information The Rise of Big Data Policing introduces the cutting edge technology that is changing how the police do their jobs and shows why it is crucial that citizens understand the far reaching consequences of big data surveillance as a law enforcement tool Andrew Guthrie Ferguson reveals how these technologies viewed as race neutral and objective have been eagerly adopted by police departments hoping to distance themselves from claims of racial bias and unconstitutional practices After a series of high profile police shootings and federal investigations into systemic misconduct and in an era of law enforcement budget cutbacks data driven policing has been billed as a way to turn the page on racial bias But behind the data are real people and difficult questions remain This groundbreaking book examines how new technologies will alter who where when and how we police and how they also offer data driven methods to improve police accountability and remedy underlying socio economic risk factors that encourage crime It is a must read for understanding how technology will revolutionize law enforcement and its potential threat to the security privacy and constitutional rights of citizens Ferguson teaches us not only the fault lines in how police watch us but how we can turn the tables to use new algorithms to watch the police At stake is nothing less than individual liberty and the democratic control of policing Jeffrey Fagan Isidor and Seville Sulzbacher Professor of Law Columbia University Ferguson has an incredible command of the many subjects that fall under the big data umbrella Gizmodo Will be indispensable to anyone interested in the practice of policing Library Journal

The Routledge Handbook of Technology, Crime and Justice M. R. McGuire, Thomas Holt, 2017-02-24 Technology has become increasingly important to both the function and our understanding of the justice process Many forms of criminal behaviour are highly dependent upon technology and crime control has become a predominantly technologically driven process one where traditional technological aids such as fingerprinting or blood sample analysis are supplemented by a dizzying array of tools and techniques including surveillance devices and DNA profiling This book offers the first comprehensive and holistic overview of global research on technology crime and justice It is divided into five parts each corresponding with the key stages of the offending and justice process Part I addresses the current conceptual understanding of technology within academia and the criminal justice system Part II gives a comprehensive overview of the current relations between technology and criminal behaviour Part III explores the current technologies within crime control and the ways in which technology underpins contemporary formal and informal social control Part IV sets out some of the fundamental impacts technology is now having upon the judicial process Part V reveals the emerging technologies for crime control and justice and considers the extent to which new technology can be effectively regulated This landmark collection will be essential reading for academics students and theorists within criminology sociology law engineering and technology and computer science as well as practitioners and professionals working within and around the criminal justice system

Crime and Punishment in the Future Internet Sanja Milivojevic, 2021-04-21. Crime and Punishment in the Future Internet is an examination of the development and impact of digital frontier technologies DFTs such as Artificial Intelligence the Internet of things autonomous mobile robots and blockchain on offending crime control the criminal justice system and the discipline of criminology. It poses criminological legal ethical and policy questions linked to such development and anticipates the impact of DFTs on crime and offending. It forestalls their wide ranging consequences including the proliferation of new types of vulnerability policing and other mechanisms of social control and the threat of pervasive and intrusive surveillance. Two key concerns lie at the heart of this volume. First the book investigates the origins and development of emerging DFTs and their interactions with criminal behaviour crime prevention victimisation and crime control. It also investigates the future advances and likely impact of such processes on a range of social actors citizens non citizens offenders victims of crime judiciary and law enforcement media NGOs. This book does not adopt technological determinism that suggests technology alone drives social development. Yet while it is impossible to know where the emerging technologies are taking us there is no doubt that DFTs will shape the way we engage with and experience criminal behaviour in the twenty first century. As such this book starts the conversation about a range of essential topics that this expansion brings to social sciences and begins to decipher challenges we will be facing in the future. An accessible and compelling read this book will appeal to those engaged with criminology sociology politics policymaking and all those interested in the impact of DFTs on the criminal justice system.

Apocalyptic Chic Barbara Brodman, James E. Doan, 2017-10-10. This book deals with legends and images of the apocalypse and post apocalypse in film and graphic arts literature and lore from early to modern times and from peoples and cultures around the world. It reflects an increasingly popular leitmotif in literature and visual arts of the 21st century humanity s fear of extinction and its quest for survival in revenant supernatural or living human form. It is the logical continuation of a series of collected essays examining the origins and evolution of myths and legends of the supernatural in Western and non Western tradition and popular culture. The first two volumes of the series The Universal Vampire Origins and Evolution of a Legend Fairleigh Dickinson University Press 2013 and Images of the Modern Vampire The Hip and the Atavistic Fairleigh Dickinson University Press 2013 focused on the vampire legend The third The Supernatural Revamped From Timeworn Legends to Twenty First Century Chic 2016 focused on a range of supernatural beings in literature film and other forms of popular culture
