Gottschalk,H.P. Müller,2012-12-06 Investigations on seed proteins have been intensively carried out during the past two decades This is valid with regard to both their chemical composition as well as their nutritive value The development of new biochemical and physical methods has resulted in obtaining deep insights into the structures of seed proteins and their mutual interactions Intensive exchange of information between the scientists participating in national and international research programmes has given strong impulses for intensifying the research in this field For the quantitative and qualitative investigations of seed proteins not only some model plants were used on the contrary they were carried out on a large number of different crops important for different regions of the earth In this way a level of knowledge has been reached
