Empire Families Elizabeth Buettner, 2004-07 What was life like for the British men women and children who lived in late imperial India while serving the Raj Empire Families treats the Raj as a family affair and examines how and why many remained linked with India over several generations Due to the fact that India was never meant for permanent European settlement many families developed deep rooted ties with India while never formally emigrating Their lives were dominated by long periods of residence abroad punctuated by repeated travels between Britain and India childhood overseas followed by separation from parents and education in Britain adult returns to India through careers or marriage furloughs and ultimately retirement in Britain As a result many Britons neither felt themselves to be rooted in India nor felt completely at home when back in Britain Their permanent impermanence led to the creation of distinct social realities and cultural identities Empire Families sets out to recreate this society by looking at a series of families their lives in India and their travels back to Britain Focusing for the first time on the experiences of parents and children alike and including the Beveridge Butler Orwell and Kipling families Elizabeth Buettner uncovers the meanings of growing up in the Raj and an itinerant imperial lifestyle

Merchants and Explorers Heather Dalton, 2016 In the early sixteenth century a young English sugar trader spent a night at what is now the port of Agadir in Morocco watching from the tenuous safety of the Portuguese fort as the local tribesmen attacked the Moors Having recently departed the familiar environs of London and the Essex marshes this was to be the first of several encounters Roger Barlow was to have with unfamiliar worlds Barlow's family was linked to networks where the exchange of goods and ideas merged and his contacts in Seville brought him into contact with the navigator Sebastian Cabot Merchants and Explorers follows Barlow and Cabot across the Atlantic to South America and back to Spain and Reformation England Heather Dalton uses their lives as an effective narrative thread to explore the entangled Atlantic world during the first half of the sixteenth century In doing so she makes a critical contribution to the fields of both Atlantic and global history Although it is generally accepted that the English were not significantly attracted to the Americas until the second half of the sixteenth century Dalton demonstrates that Barlow Cabot and their cohorts had a knowledge of the world and its opportunities that was extraordinary for this period She reveals how shared knowledge as well as the accumulation of capital in international trading networks prior to 1560 influenced emerging ideas of trade discovery settlement and race in Britain In doing so Dalton not only provides a substantial new body of facts about trade and exploration she explores the changing character of English commerce and society in the first half of the sixteenth century

Secondary Education in England 1870-1902 Prof John Roach, John Roach, 2012-10-12 In this comprehensive and extensively researched history John Roach argues for a reassessment of the relative importance of State regulation and private provision Although the public schools enjoyed their greatest prestige during this period in terms of educational reform and progress their importance has been exaggerated The role of the public school he suggests was social rather than academic and as such their power and influence is to be interpreted principally in relation to the growth of new social elites the concept of public service and the needs of the empire for a bureaucratic ruling class Only in the modern progressive movement launched by Cecil Reddie and the private provision for young women was lasting progress made Even before the 1902 Education Act however the State had spent much time and effort regulating and reforming the old educational endowments and it is in these initiatives that the foundations for the public provision of secondary educational reform are to be found
