John R. Miron

Some Detached Houses:

Housing in Postwar Canada John R. Miron, 1988 Between 1945 and 1981 the Canadian population doubled while the number of dwellings more than tripled John Miron shows how changes in demographic structure and housing affordability affected postwar household formation and housing demand He argues that no single explanation adequately reflects the extent of the impact of the demographic trends and the economic changes Report of the United States Housing Corporation United States. Bureau of Industrial Housing and Transportation, 1919 Routledge Library Editions: Urban History Various Authors, 2021-02-25 The volumes in this set originally published between 1940 and 1994 draw together research by leading academics in the area of welfare and the welfare state and provide a rigorous examination of related key issues The volumes examine welfare policy equality poverty class government social policy unemployment and social services whilst also exploring the general principles and practices of welfare and the welfare state in various countries This set will be of particular interest to students of sociology health and political studies respectively District of Columbia Investigations United States. Military Construction Appropriations for 1966 United States. Congress. House Appropriations,1965 Military Construction Appropriations United States. Congress. House. Committee on Appropriations. Subcommittee on Military Construction Appropriations,1966 Village Housing in the Tropics Jane Drew,Maxwell Fry,Harry L Ford,2013-11-26 Tropical Architecture although now a highly contested and debated term is the name given to European modern architecture that has been modified to suit the climatic and sometimes cultural context of hot countries These hot countries were labelled the tropics and were often European colonies or countries that had recently won their independence Fry Drew s book written on the threshold of the end of the British Empire was one of the first publications to offer practical advice to architects working in the tropics based on the empirical studies they conducted whilst based in British West Africa during the Second World War. The book with its numerous illustrations, plans and easy to follow explanations became a key manual for all architects working in hot climates and in particular those tasked with designing dwellings and small town plans. Although the Royal Engineers and Schools of Tropical Medicine had long been designing and campaigning for better planning, improved sanitation and had for example developed methods of cross ventilation, this book became an instant hit. Tropical Architecture suddenly bloomed into its own distinct canon and by 1955 the Architectural Association had set up a course specialising in tropical architecture led for a short time by Fry. Village Housing in the Tropics had a significant impact when it was written on a profession that had had little guidance on working in hot climates and on architecture students and universities who began to modify their courses to accommodate different conditions. Although from a post colonial perspective many scholars now associate this architecture as being a continuation of the Imperial mission, this does not reduce the significance of the publication. Indeed Tropical Architecture is regarded as being the forerunner to green architecture, developing passive low energy buildings that are tailored to suit their climate and built with local materials. Passive and Low Energy
