Dual-language Anthology Of Twentieth-century Family Letters Gregor Benton, Huimei Zhang, Hong Liu, 2019-12-10 Qiaopi is the name given in Chinese to letters written home by Chinese migrants to accompany remittances in the 150 years starting in the 1820s Qiaopi had numerous functions and dimensions ranging from economic and social to cultural and political In June 2013 the Qiaopi Project was officially registered under UNESCO's Memory of the World programme set up in 1992 because of a growing awareness of the parlous state of preservation of documentary heritage in the world This book presents around one hundred letters from Singapore China Malaysia Thailand the USA and Canada including photographic reproductions of the original letters transcriptions in Chinese characters and English translations where necessary with explanatory notes Most of the letters collected in Chinese and non Chinese archives and in this sourcebook were products of the Qiaopi system as traditionally defined A few especially some to and from North America especially in the second half of the twentieth century went through the Post Office and were not handled by Chinese remittance companies Not all the letters accompanied remittances 2013 100 Writing in the Devil's Tongue Xiaoye You, 2010-01-29 Winner CCCC Outstanding Book Award Until recently American composition scholars have studied writing instruction mainly within the borders of their own nation rarely considering English composition in the global context in which writing in English is increasingly taught Writing in the Devil's Tongue challenges this anachronistic approach by examining the history of English composition instruction in an East Asian country Author Xiaoye You offers scholars a chance to observe how a nation changed from monolingual writing practices to bilingual writing instruction in a school setting You makes extensive use of archival sources to help trace bilingual writing instruction in China back to 1862 when English was first taught in government schools Treating the Chinese pursuit of modernity as the overarching theme he explores how the entry of Anglo American rhetoric and composition challenged and altered the traditional monolithic practice of teaching Chinese writing in the Confucian spirit The author focuses on four aspects of this history the Chinese negotiation with Anglo American rhetoric their search for innovative approaches to instruction students situated use of English writing and local scholarship in English composition Unlike previous composition histories which have tended to focus on institutional disciplinary and pedagogical issues Writing in the Devil's Tongue brings students back to center stage by featuring several passages written by them in each chapter These passages not only showcase rhetorical and linguistic features of their writings but also serve as representative anecdotes that reveal the complex ways in which students responding to their situations performed multivalent intercultural discourses In addition You moves out of the classroom and into the historical cultural and political contexts that shaped both Chinese writing and composing practices and the pedagogies that were adopted to teach English to Chinese in China Teachers students and scholars reading this book will learn a great deal about the political and cultural impact that teaching English composition has had in China and about the ways in which Chinese writing and composition continues to be shaped by rich and diverse cultural traditions and political discourses In showcasing the Chinese struggle with teaching and practicing bilingual composition Writing in the Devil s Tongue alerts American writing scholars and teachers to an outdated English monolingual mentality and urges them to modify their rhetorical assumptions pedagogical approaches and writing practices in the age of globalization

Space and Place as Human Coordinates Arianna

Maiorani,C. Bruna Mancini,2021-10-19 This truly multidisciplinary book explores how culture founding terms like space and place have been reconsidered re elaborated and how they have acquired new meanings through academic research that crosses the traditional borderline between the humanities and social sciences All chapters explore from different perspectives how the notions of space and place are still modelling our sense of reality by investigating social and cultural phenomena of various types that evolved between the 20th and 21st centuries The essays collected here provide evidence of the growing necessity of building bridges across disciplines to allow knowledge in general and academic work in particular to work towards new forms of epistemology The book will be of particular interest to scholars and students in the areas of cultural studies discourse analysis multimodality communication and media linguistics literary and film studies anthropology and ethnography
