Victims as Offenders Susan Miller, 2005-09-22 Arrests of women for assault increased more than 40 percent over the past decade while male arrests for this offense have fallen by about one percent Some studies report that for the first time ever the rate of reported intimate partner abuse among men and women is nearly equal Susan L Miller s timely book explores the important questions raised by these startling statistics Are women finally closing the gender gap on violence Or does this phenomenon reflect a backlash shaped by men who batter How do abusive men use the criminal justice system to increase control over their wives Do police courts and treatment providers support aggressive arrest policies for women Are these women victims or offenders In answering these questions Miller draws on extensive data from a study of police behavior in the field interviews with criminal justice professionals and social service providers and participant observation of female offender programs She offers a critical analysis of the theoretical assumptions framing the study of violence and provides insight into the often contradictory implications of the mandatory and pro arrest policies enacted in the 1980s and 1990s Miller argues that these enforcement strategies designed to protect women have often victimized women in different ways Without sensationalizing Miller unveils a reality that looks very different from what current statistics on domestic violence imply

Meta-Emotion John Mordechai Gottman, Lynn Fainsilber Katz, Carole Hooven, 2013-02-01. This book describes research on the emotional communication between parents and children and its effect on the children's emotional development. Inspired by the work and dedicated to the memory of Dr. Haim Ginott, it presents the results of initial exploratory work with meta-emotion feelings about feelings. The initial study of meta-emotion generated some theory and made it possible to propose a research agenda. Clearly, replication is necessary, and experiments are needed to test the path-analytic models which have been developed from the authors' correlational data. The authors hope that other researchers will find these ideas interesting and stimulating and will inspire investigation in this exciting new area of a family's emotional life.

Creating Compassionate Kids: Essential Conversations to Have with Young Children Shauna Tominey, 2019-01-08. Selected as a Favorite Book for Parents in 2019 by Greater Good. Young children can surprise us with tough questions. Tominey's essential guide teaches us how to answer them and foster compassion along the way. If you had to choose one word to describe the world you want children to grow up in, what would it be? Safe. Understanding. Resilient. Compassionate. As parents and caregivers of young children, we know what we want for our children, but not always how to get there. Many children today are stressed by academic demands, anxious about relationships at school, confused by messages they hear in the media, and overwhelmed by challenges at home. Young children look to the adults in their lives for everything. Sometimes we're prepared, sometimes we're not. In this book, Shauna Tominey guides parents and caregivers through how to have conversations with young children about a range of topics, from what makes us who we are (e.g., race, gender) to tackling challenges (e.g., peer pressure, divorce, stress) to showing compassion (e.g., making friends, recognizing privilege, being a helper). Talking through these topics in an age-appropriate manner, rather than telling children they are too young to understand, helps children recognize how they feel and how they fit in with the world around them. This book provides sample conversations, discussion prompts, storybook recommendations, and family activities. Dr. Tominey's research-based strategies and practical advice create dialogues that teach self-esteem, resilience, and empathy, the building blocks for a more compassionate world.
