The Ghost Ships of Archangel William Geroux, 2022-05-03 An extraordinary story of survival and alliance during World War II the icy journey of four Allied ships crossing the Arctic to deliver much needed supplies to the Soviet war effort On the fourth of July 1942 four Allied ships traversing the Arctic split from their decimated convoy to head further north into the ice field of the North Pole They were seeking safety from Nazi bombers and U boats in the perilous white maze of ice floes growlers and giant bergs Despite the many risks of their chosen route the four vessels had a better chance of reaching their destination than the rest of the remains of convoy PQ 17 The convoy had started as a fleet of thirty five cargo ships carrying 1 billion worth of war supplies to the Soviet port of Archangel the only help Roosevelt and Churchill had extended to Joseph Stalin to maintain their fragile alliance against Germany At the most dangerous point of the voyage the ships had received a startling order to scatter and had quickly become easy prey for the Nazis The crews of the four ships focused on their mission U S Navy Ensign Howard Carraway aboard the SS Troubadour was a farm boy from South Carolina and one of the many Americans for whom the convoy was a first taste of war from the Royal Navy Reserve Lt Leo Gradwell was given command of the HMT Ayrshire a British fishing trawler that had been converted into an antisubmarine vessel The twenty four hour Arctic daylight in midsummer gave them no respite from bombers or submarines and they all feared the giant German battleship Tirpitz nicknamed the Big Bad Wolf Icebergs were as dangerous as Nazis as the remnants of convoy PQ 17 tried to slip through the Arctic to deliver their cargo in one of the most dramatic escapes of World War II At Archangel they found a traumatized starving city and a disturbing preview of the Cold War ahead

Launched in 1941 the German battleship Tirpitz sister ship to the famous Bismarck quickly became the largest and fastest warship in Hitler's arsenal. She packed massive naval guns, armor plating that was nearly impenetrable and boasted a speed that made her very difficult to catch. But due to the increasing concern of the Allies that she might be used to attack the East, she only fired her guns in anger once and never set out to do what she was built for. Nevertheless the Tirpitz became such a threat to Britain's efforts to keep her supply lines and those of the Soviet Union open that destroying her was something that had to be done no matter what the cost in equipment or lives. This is the true story on how this massive steel fortress was brought to bay with the help of top secret technology such as midget submarines, human torpedoes, mammoth armor piercing bombs and the raw courage and determination of the men who risked everything to get the job done. The Tirpitz David Woodward, 1953 Coulez le Tirpitz! Léonce Peillard, 1969
