Sociology Of Everyday Life In New Zealand:

Sociology of Everyday Life in New Zealand Claudia Bell, 2001 This book addresses individual and collective engagement in mainstream culture Examines the everyday social practices the ordinary in New Zealand life Sociologies of New Zealand Charles Crothers, 2018-04-13 This book provides the first comprehensive analysis of the various sociologies of New Zealand from the late 19th century to the present day Opening with previously undocumented insights into the history of proto sociology in New Zealand the book then explores the parallel stories of the discipline both as a mainstream subject in Sociology departments and as a more diffuse sociology within other university units The rise and fall of departments specialties and research networks is plotted and the ways in which external and internal factors have shaped these is explained Different generations of sociologists including many immigrants are each shown to have left their unique mark on New Zealand sociology The author demonstrates that the rising interest in topics specific to New Zealand has been accompanied by increasing capacities to contribute to world sociology This book will have inter disciplinary appeal across the social sciences and provides a valuable study of the development of sociology in a semi peripheral country Home

Improvement in Aotearoa New Zealand and the UK Rosie Cox, 2021-05-30 This book examines experiences of home improvement in the UK and Aotearoa New Zealand providing valuable insight into the ways in which people make and maintain home in social material and economic context Drawing on in depth interviews examining both DIY projects and projects carried out by professional handymen Rosie Cox explores how home improvement fits into wider social relationships and structures of inequality Consideration is given to the importance of such work for gender and national identities and how these identities are related to material contexts and the forms and fabric of homes The book also highlights how home improvement can be a rewarding and valuable form of work as well as an unrewarding and alienating endeavour It will be of interest to scholars from a range of disciplines including anthropology sociology and human geography Being Maori in the City Natacha Gagné, 2013-01-21 Indigenous peoples around the world have been involved in struggles for decolonization self determination and recognition of their rights and the M ori of Aotearoa New Zealand are no exception Now that nearly 85% of the M ori population have their main place of residence in urban centres cities have become important sites of affirmation and struggle Grounded in an ethnography of everyday life in the city of Auckland Being Maori in the City is an investigation of what being M ori means today One of the first ethnographic studies of M ori urbanization since the 1970s this book is based on almost two years of fieldwork living with M ori families and more than 250 hours of interviews In contrast with studies that have focused on indigenous elites and official groups and organizations Being M ori in the City shines a light on the lives of ordinary individuals and families Using this approach Natacha Gagn adroitly underlines how indigenous ways of being are maintained and even strengthened through change and openness to the larger society
