Cities of the World, 1993

Bulgarian Voices Philip Ward, 1992

Who Ran the Cities? Ralf Roth, 2017-03-02 The question of who actually ran cities in the eighteenth nineteenth and twentieth centuries has been increasingly debated in recent years As well as trying to understand the distribution of political power and the rise of broad political participation urban historians have questioned how and whether elites retained influence in municipal government The essays in this collection provide a detailed examination of the relationship between urban elites and the exercise of power bringing together economic social and cultural history with the political history of power resources and decision making The volume challenges common perceptions of a monolithic urban elite by looking at specific case studies Collectively these essays provide a more sophisticated view of the exercise of urban power as the negotiation of various elite groups defined by their economic social political or cultural privilege To contribute to this complex account of the history of cities elites and their influence the collection applies a range of methodological approaches to studying European and American cities as well as the wider world

Approaches to Byzantine Architecture and its Decoration Mark J. Johnson, Amy Papalexandrou, 2016-12-05 The fourteen essays in this collection demonstrate a wide variety of approaches to the study of Byzantine architecture and its decoration a reflection of both newer trends and traditional scholarship in the field The variety is also a reflection of Professor Curcic's wide interests which he shares with his students These include the analysis of recent archaeological discoveries recovery of lost monuments through archival research and onsite examination of material remains reconsidering traditional typological approaches often ignored in current scholarship fresh interpretations of architectural features and designs contextualization of monuments within the landscape tracing historiographic trends and mining neglected written sources for motives of patronage The papers also range broadly in terms of chronology and geography from the Early Christian through the post Byzantine period and from Italy to Armenia Three papers examine Early Christian monuments and of these two expand the inquiry into their architectural afterlives Others discuss later monuments in Byzantine territory and monuments in territories related to Byzantium such as Serbia Armenia and Norman Italy No Orthodox church being complete without interior decoration two papers discuss issues connected to frescoes in late medieval Balkan churches Finally one study investigates the continued influence of Byzantine palace architecture long after the fall of Constantinople

Portrait of the Regions

The Mysterious Sofía Stephen J. C. Andes, 2019-12-01 Who was the Mysterious Sof a whose letter in November 1934 was sent from Washington DC to Mexico City and intercepted by the Mexican Secret Service In The Mysterious Sof a Stephen J C Andes uses the remarkable story of Sof a del Valle to tell the history of Catholicism's global shift from north to south and the importance of women to Catholic survival and change over the course of the twentieth century As a devout Catholic single woman neither nun nor mother del Valle resisted religious persecution in an era of Mexican revolutionary upheaval became a labor activist in a time of class conflict founded an educational movement toured the United States as a public lecturer and raised money for Catholic ministries all in an age dominated by economic depression gender prejudice and racial discrimination The rise of the Global South marked a new power dynamic within the Church as Latin America moved from the margins of activism to the vanguard Del Valle's life and the stories of those she met along the way illustrate the shared pious practices gender norms and organizational networks that linked activists across national borders Told through the eyes of a little known laywoman from Mexico Andes shows how women journeyed from the pews into the heart of the modern world

An Obscure Portrait Mati Meyer, 2007-12-31 Recent discussions on Byzantine art have been dominated by the question of representing realia Among these however the way works of art reflect the daily life of women have not received much space or attention The present book studies various images representing women's status and her performative tasks and their significance from the fourth century to the fall of the Empire through analysis of archaeological evidence and works of art It addresses a wide range of questions some pertaining both to pictorial traditions and to their late antique antecedents others peculiar to changing and evolving Byzantine culture and mentality The first chapter deals with the imagery of childbearing starting with conception and concluding with the care given to the new born and the mother The second chapter investigates motherhood imagery breastfeeding child care and child mother intimacy and the portrayal of women as caretakers and managers of the household preparing food bringing water carding and weaving or working side by side with their husbands The third chapter is dedicated to representations of women holding positions outside the house midwives maidservants wet nurses and mourners Images of women engaged in disreputable occupations dancers musicians prostitutes and courtesans complete this chapter The fourth chapter discusses images of women portrayed in the metaphorical margins looking out from the gynaikeion the women's apartments or at their private toilette it also deals with representations of women who stray from the societal mainstream concubines adulteresses women consenting to sexual acts or being coerced into them considered symbolically as belonging to the margins of society The book concludes with a discussion of the degree to which the visual material reliably reflects reality and changing attitudes toward women between Late Antiquity and late Byzantium and further to what extent it reveals embedded perceptions and conceptions of women constructed by canon law regulations and imperial law popular beliefs and accepted customs The book aims to lift a veil from known and less known works of art and to present the rarely described picture of the daily life of women in Byzantine art over a very wide chronological span of time in an effort to expand our knowledge of women in Byzantium and their realia

The Portrait of Dr. Gachet Cynthia Saltzman, 1999-04-01 At a star studded auction in 1990 a painting was sold for the record breaking price of 82.5 million That painting Vincent van Gogh's Portrait of Dr Gachet has seemed to countless admirers to portray our times as something bright in spite of its inevitable griefs This fascinating book reconstructs the painting's journey and becomes a rich story of modernist art and the forces behind the art market Masterfully evoked are the lives of the thirteen extraordinary people who owned the painting and shaped its history avant garde European collectors pioneering dealers in Paris and Berlin a brilliant medievalist who acquired it for one of Germany's great museums and a member of the Nazi elite who sold it after it had been confiscated as a work of degenerate art
