The Multi-Agent Transport Simulation MATSim Andreas Horni,Kai Nagel,Kay W. Axhausen,2016-08-10 The MATSim Multi Agent Transport Simulation software project was started around 2006 with the goal of generating traffic and congestion patterns by following individual synthetic travelers through their daily or weekly activity programme It has since then evolved from a collection of stand alone C programs to an integrated Java based framework which is publicly hosted open source available automatically regression tested It is currently used by about 40 groups throughout the world This book takes stock of the current status The first part of the book gives an introduction to the most important concepts with the intention of enabling a potential user to set up and run basic simulations The second part of the book describes how the basic functionality can be extended for example by adding schedule based public transit electric or autonomous cars paratransit or within day replanning For each extension the text provides pointers to the additional documentation and to the code base It is also discussed how people with appropriate Java programming skills can write their own extensions and plug them into the MATSim core The project has started from the basic idea that traffic is a consequence of human behavior and thus humans and their behavior should be the starting point of all modelling and with the intuition that when simulations with 100 million particles are possible in computational physics then behavior oriented simulations with 10 million travelers should be possible in travel behavior research The initial implementations thus combined concepts from computational physics and complex adaptive systems with concepts from travel behavior research The third part of the book looks at theoretical concepts that are able to describe important aspects of the simulation system for example under certain conditions the code becomes a Monte Carlo engine sampling from a discrete choice model Another important aspect is the interpretation of the MATSim score as utility in the microeconomic sense opening up a connection to benefit cost analysis Finally the book collects use cases as they have been undertaken with MATSim All current users of MATSim were invited to submit their work and many followed with sometimes crisp and short and sometimes longer contributions always with pointers to additional references We hope that the book will become an invitation to explore to build and to extend agent based modeling of travel behavior from the stable and well tested core of MATSim documented here

Engineering Environment-Mediated Multi-Agent Systems Danny Weyns, Sven A. Brueckner, Yves Demazeau, 2008-07-31 Software intensive systems are increasingly expected to deal with changing user needs and dynamic operating conditions at run time Examples are the need for life recon gurations management of resource variability and dealing with p ticular failure modes Endowing systems with these kinds of capabilities poses severe challenges to software engineers and necessitates the development of new techniques practices and tools that build upon sound engineering principles The eld of multi agent systems focuses on the foundations and engineering of systems that consists of a network of autonomous entities agents that int act to achieve the system goals One line of research in multi agent systems inspired by biological physical and other naturally occurring systems concerns multi agent systems in which agents share information and coordinate their havior through a shared medium called an agent environment Typical examples are gradient elds and digital pheromones that guide agents in their local c text and as such facilitate the coordination of a community of agents Since environment mediation in multi agent systems has shown to result in mana ble solutions with very adaptable qualities it is a promising paradigm to deal with the increasing complexity and dynamism of distributed applications Control in environment mediated multi agent systems is decentralized i e none of the components has full access or control over the system Self organization is an approach to engineer decentralized distributed and resource limited systems that are capable of dynamically adapting to changing conditions and requirements without external intervention This useful system property is often re ected in functions such as self con guration self optimization and self healing Engine ing approaches to self organizing systems often rely on global functionality to emerge from local and autonomous decisions of individual agents that commu cate through a shared agent environment
