Singing the Songs of My Ancestors

Linda Goodman, 2003 Ever since she was a small child Helma Swan the daughter of a Northwest Coast chief loved and learned the music of her people As an adult she began to sing even though traditionally Makah singers had been men How did such a situation develop In her own words Helma Swan tells the unusual story of her life her music and how she became a singer An excellent storyteller she speaks of both musical and non musical activities and events In addition to discussing song ownership and other Makah musical concepts she describes songs dances and potlatch ceremonies proper care of masks and costumes and changing views of Native music education More generally she speaks of cultural changes that have had profound effects on contemporary Makah life Drawing on more than twenty years of research and oral history interviews Linda J Goodman in Singing the Songs of My Ancestors presents a somewhat different point of view that of the anthropologist ethnomusicologist interested in Makah culture and history as well as the changing musical and ceremonial roles of Makah men and women Her information provides a context for Helma Swan s stories and songs Taken together the two perspectives allow the reader to embark on a vivid and absorbing journey through Makah life music and ceremony spanning most of the twentieth century Studies of American Indian women musicians are rare this is the first to focus on a Northwest Coast woman who is an outstanding singer and storyteller as well as a conservator of her tribe s cultural traditions      Opportunity Charles Spurgeon Johnson,1937
