Speaking The Lower Frequencies Students And Media Literacy:

Speaking the Lower Frequencies Walter R. Jacobs,2005-03-24 Shows how using texts from popular culture in the classroom can help young people to become critical consumers of media without losing the pleasure they derive from it

Speaking the Lower Frequencies Walter R. Jacobs,2012-02-01 Speaking the Lower Frequencies demonstrates how students can be critical consumers of media while retaining the pleasure they derive from it In Walter R Jacobs s classes on media and society students use the instructor s experiences as a model for investigating their own histories By creating new social contexts and meanings the students learn to speak the lower frequencies Jacobs looks at the students reception and critique of pop culture texts like the movie I Like It Like That and the television show The X Files to provide evidence for the effects of alternative pedagogy on critical literacy He shows that when students are encouraged to be more than just passive receptors of the media they learn to develop active critical voices that they use both inside and outside the classroom Jacobs also explains how students can become more aware and active in attempts to create democratic possibilities for themselves and others

We've Scene it All Before Brian C. Johnson,2009-01-01 A revolutionary tool for corporate and academic trainers We ve Scene It All Before harnesses the power of mainstream Hollywood film to enhance educational sessions about diversity and social justice This resource manual offers practical guidance on how to effectively use the concept of difference as a starting point towards true inclusion Seasoned and novice trainers will appreciate the suggested strategies and best practices on facilitating diversity dialogues which are coupled with a set of twenty five definitions that introduce and raise awareness of the personal and systemic nature of difference discrimination and power Workshops on human relations and workplace diversity must move beyond the superficial celebration of diversity to the dismantling of systems of privilege and oppression that create environments where members of the organization are disenfranchised and disempowered Using clips from a variety of genres of mainstream film allows the trainer to make intercultural concepts visible and offers a way for us to challenge our own values and assumptions Participants will enjoy the presentations more as they view some of their favorite films in a whole new way using this familiar medium creates a common basis for entering the discussions all the while giving us the permission to talk about serious and often controversial subjects We ve Scene It All Before Using Film Clips in Diversity Awareness Training is a learning tool which will be tremendously useful in reducing resistance and increasing thoughtful cross cultural dialogue

Neoliberalism, Gender and Education Work Sarah A. Robert,Heidi Pitzer,Ana Luisa Muñoz García,2019-12-18 How does neoliberalism in the education field shape who teachers are and what they can be What are the effects of neoliberal logic on students How is gender at the core of what it means to teach and learn in neoliberal educational institutions Neoliberalism Gender and Education Work examines the everyday labour of educating in a variety of contexts in order to answer these questions in new and productive ways Neoliberal ideals of standardisation accountability and entrepreneurialism are having undeniable effects on how we define teaching and learning Gender is central to these definitions with care work and other forms of affective labour simultaneously implicated in standards of teacher quality and undervalued in metrics of assessment. Gathering research from across four continents and education settings ranging from elementary school to higher education to popular social movements, the methodologically diverse case studies in this book offer insight into how teachers and students negotiate the intertwined logics of neoliberalism and gender. Beyond an indictment of contemporary institutions, Neoliberalism, Gender and Education Work provides inspiration with its documentation of the creative practices and selfhoods emerging in the cracks of the neoliberal ideological apparatus. It was originally published as a special issue of Gender and Education. Meta-Ethnographic Synthesis in Education Michalis Kakos, Bettina Fritzsche, 2020-04-22. Calls for deparochialization of educational research. Lingard 2006 have directed educational ethnography from the conventional research designs and from the study of single sites and local situations to the study of the circulation of cultural meanings, objects and identities in diffuse time spaces. Marcus 1995-96. In response to this call and following the already established tradition of use of meta-ethnography in health studies, this volume explores the potentials of this method. Noblit & Hare 1988 to unpick the interconnectedness of different educational sites which have been and are being studied ethnographically. Besides meta-ethnographic analyses may also offer a credible response to the lessening of opportunities for original educational ethnographic research at times of limited resources. The volume examines the forms of translocal and transtemporal ethnographic synthesis currently in use by educational ethnographers as well as the challenges and the possibilities that the method offers. It also addresses and attempts to respond to the question if meta-ethnography might be a means to sharpen ethnographers' sensitivity for each other's work and achievements in the past. This book was originally published as a special issue of Ethnography and Education. Ghostbox Walter R. Jacobs, 2007. Two years after Walter R. Jacobs was forced to call his new stepmother Mom, she cancelled what would have been his 13th Christmas. In the memoir Ghostbox, Jacobs explores a life where family problems are blamed on disrespectful children who refused to accept Mom's authority. His stepmother is a sociological ghost, a force that limited his thoughts and decisions until he filled a special shoebox with objects that evoke significant memories, good, bad, and ugly. This ghostbox has rendered his stepmother's seething presence benign. Jacobs investigates how just a relatively short stay in his stepmother's house, seven years with his stepmother, father, and younger brother, led to almost twenty years of questions about multiple facets of his identity, such as the proper rules and rhythms of life as an African American college professor. In the end, he finds the key to finally and completely breaking away from the dysfunctions that threatened his self-esteem and ability to interact normally with others. Jacobs includes an appendix of guidelines readers may use to create their own ghostboxes. He invites readers into a world where they can reflect on troubling aspects of their lives and create strategies for making empowering changes.
