Spectacular Past Popular History And The Novel In Nineteenth Century France:

The Spectacular Past Maurice Samuels, 2018-08-06 Struggling to make sense of the Revolution of 1789 the French in the nineteenth century increasingly turned to visual forms of historical representation in a variety of media Maurice Samuels shows how new kinds of popular entertainment introduced during and after the Revolution transformed the past into a spectacle The wax display in which visitors circulated amid life size statues of historical figures the phantasmagoria show in which images of historical personages were projected onto smoke or invisible screens and the panorama in which spectators viewed giant circular canvases depicting historical scenes employed new optical technologies to entice crowds of spectators Such entertainments Samuels asserts provided bourgeois audiences with an illusion of mastery over the past allowing them to picture their new role as historical agents Samuels demonstrates how the spectacular mode of historical representation pervaded historiography drama and the novel during the Romantic period He then argues that the early Realist fiction of Balzac and Stendhal emerged as a critique of the spectacular historical imagination By investigating how postrevolutionary France envisioned the past Samuels illuminates a vital moment in the cultural history of modernity

Fictions of the Press in Nineteenth-Century France Edmund Birch, 2018-05-04 This book explores how writers responded to the rise of the newspaper over the course of the nineteenth century Taking as its subject the ceaseless intertwining of fiction and journalism at this time it tracks the representation of newspapers and journalists in works by Honor de Balzac Edmond and Jules de Goncourt and Guy de Maupassant This was an era in which novels were published in newspapers and novelists worked as journalists In France fiction was to prove an utterly crucial presence at the newspaper's heart with a gilded array of predominant literary figures active in journalism Today few in search of a novel would turn to the pages of a daily newspaper But what are usually cast as discrete realms fiction and journalism came in the nineteenth century to occupy the same space a point which complicates our sense of the cultural history of French literature

The Nineteenth-Century Novel and the Pre-Cinematic Imagination Alberto Gabriele, 2024-11-14 This book fills a gap in existing scholarship on the history of the novel in relation to visual culture by discussing the visual fascination that novelists such as Nathaniel Hawthorne Herman Melville Honor de Balzac and George Eliot show for several types of pre cinematic spectacle It also identifies a so far neglected aspect of novel theory that nineteenth century authors elaborated by incorporating suggestions from pre cinematic visual spectacles By shedding light on forms of visibility that were not entertained by the dominant aesthetic modes of painting and photography The Nineteenth Century Novel and the Pre Cinematic Imagination argues that the presence of nineteenth century pre cinematic optical illusions in works of fiction redefines the notion of mimesis as animated movement and points to a continuity between pre cinema the literary imagination and the structures of knowledge production of the modern episteme

Panoramas and Compilations in Nineteenth-Century Britain Helen Kingstone, 2023-01-06 This book shows how in nineteenth century Britain confronted with the newly industrialized and urbanized modern world writers artists journalists and impresarios tried to gain an overview of contemporary history. They drew on two successive but competing conceptual models of overview: the panorama and the compilation. Both models claimed to offer a holistic picture of the present moment but took very different approaches. This book shows that panoramas, 360° views previously associated with the Romantic period, and compilations, big data projects previously associated with the Victorian fin de siècle, are intertwined relevant across the entire century and often remediated, making them crucial lenses through which to view a broad range of genre and forms. It brings together interdisciplinary research materials belonging to different period silos to create new understandings of how nineteenth-century audiences dealt with information overload. It argues for a new politics of distance, one that recognizes the value of immersing oneself in a situation, event, or phenomenon but which also does not chastise us for trying to see the big picture. This book is essential reading for students and scholars of nineteenth-century literature, history, visual culture, and information studies.

Crusading in the Long Nineteenth Century, 1798-1928 Adam Knobler, 2025-01-14. Engaging the Crusades is a series of concise volumes, up to 50,000 words, that offer initial windows into the ways in which the crusades have been used in the last two centuries, demonstrating that the memory of the crusades is an important and emerging subject. Together, these studies suggest that the memory of the crusades in the modern period is a productive, exciting, and much-needed area of investigation. Crusading in the Long Nineteenth Century offers a trans-cultural examination of crusade medievalism, that is, the use of the symbolism and rhetoric of the crusades in the popular and political discourse of the long nineteenth century. Using a variety of sources, from missionary accounts to children's literature, this book includes an examination of crusade medievalism through the politics of a European-wide audience, from states which could claim some relationship to medieval crusading to those regions where crusading was not part of a national historical heritage. It also examines how the Islamic world looked upon the crusades in the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries. By looking at the phenomenon of crusade medievalism from a multi-national perspective, this volume is of interest to medievalists, modernists, and those interested in the crusades in general.

Paris and the Cliché of History Catherine E. Clark, 2018-07-19. Paris and the Cliché of History traces the changing historical meanings of photographs of this city during a century marked by urban renovation, war, occupation, liberation, and visual documentation. Challenging the idea that photographs merely document the past, it calls for new methods of reading photos as material objects with histories of their own and sheds insight on the capital's reduction to an image in the twentieth century.

The Visual Culture of Violence After the French Revolution Lela Graybill, 2017-07-05. The Visual Culture of Violence after the French Revolution traces four sites of spectatorship that exemplified the visual culture of violence in the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries, offering a new account of the significance of violent spectacle to the birth of modernity. Considerations of the execution scaffold, salon painting, print culture, and the fait divers and waxworks displays establish the centrality of spectatorial violence to experiences of selfhood in the wake of the French Revolution. Shedding critical light on previously neglected aspects of art and visual culture of the post Revolutionary period The Visual Culture of Violence after the French Revolution demonstrates how violent spectacle at this moment was profoundly shaped by shifting social attitudes contemporary political practices and rapidly accelerated technological developments By attending to the formal and historical specificity of violent spectacle after the Revolution Graybill affirms the historical contingency through which the visual culture of violence in the modern era has emerged The Visual Culture of Violence after the French Revolution will be broadly relevant to scholars of art media and visual studies and particularly to historians of the French Revolution and eighteenth and early nineteenth century Europe The book s concern with the representation of violence makes it of interest to scholars working in a variety of fields beyond its historical period especially in art literature history media and culture studies
