If you like this book, write a review on Google Books: Spelling for Parents Jo Phenix, Doreen Scott-Dunne, 1994-01-01. This book will show parents how to help their children become better spellers as they explore the fun and structure of words. Parents learn to recognize a child's strengths and weaknesses and use games and puzzles with their children.

Spelling P.a.c.t. Lynne Ecenbarger, 2005-12. We know more about the teaching of spelling than we ever have, and we know it is not helpful for students to write a list of words several times over. It actually becomes a rote activity perceived as busy work and will not help any child remember to spell those particular words in the long term. That is why educators across the country myself included have embraced spelling instruction that reflects the interplay of sound, pattern, sight, and meaning relationships. By using effective methods and resources such as word sorts, building words with letter cards or tiles, word hunts, environmental print, and sentence dictation, teachers are assisting today's spellers to accurately, consistently, and independently produce words in writing. To provide additional practice time as homework, the word sorts and letters from building words are often sent home on those days when they are used in class. A set of instructions sometimes accompanies these words and letters In my early years of teaching I found that on those nights that I did not assign spelling homework parents would on their own resort to having their child do what was asked of them in their elementary school years the dreaded writing of each word three to five times Realizing how fortunate I was to have such strong parental support I couldn't tell the parents not to do that without providing them with alternative ideas that were engaging and had little to no cost The ideas in the Spelling P A C T book came from all the activities I used in my classroom to motivate students prior to using word sorts environmental print word hunts etc I hesitate to admit that in those days I did the fun activities at school while I assigned the five times each as homework Now that I've adopted the more meaningful approaches in my classroom which by the way students still consider fun I've turned over the former fun activities to the parents through this book Teachers simply need to send one Spelling for Parents Jo Phenix, Doreen Scott-Dunne, 1994 This book will show parents how to help their children become better spellers as they explore the fun and structure of words Parents learn to recognize a child's strengths and weaknesses and use games and puzzles with their children Parents Assuring Student Success John R. Topping, 2025-08-05 Modern practice in the 1980s was to involve parents increasingly in the education of their children and was supported by legislation Particularly when children had special needs parents required structured training and support to ensure they affectively sustained their vital role as educators at home Many large scale programmes to provide this had been developed throughout the world at the time for example Home Start Portage Home Visiting Projects and Paired Reading Projects However not all of these had been thoroughly evaluated and the existing literature was scattered and difficult to access Some projects demonstrated spectacular results and high cost effectiveness while others proved more disappointing Originally published in 1986 this book critically analyses over 600 international English language research reports on the effectiveness of parent training programmes In addition a detailed guide to the practicalities of planning projects is provided together with a comprehensive directory of useful resource materials After an introductory overview the evidence on the effects on child progress of parental involvement in school activities is reviewed as is research on the impact of schemes of regular structured communication between home and school Programmes designed to train parents to accelerate the development of their children at home are considered in the subsequent chapters starting with ordinary children Much of the book reviews projects targeted on children with some sort of special educational need from children whose special needs stem from a widespread difficulty such as poverty or second language learning systematically through to children whose needs stem from rarer and more severe issues Each chapter has its own summary for ease of reader use while an overall summary chapter points out best buys and directions for future developments This volume will be of major interest to teachers psychologists social workers community health personnel community educationalists researchers many others working with parents and children and to some parents themselves This book is a re issue originally published in 1986 The language used is a reflection of its era and no offence is meant by the Publishers to any reader by this re publication
