

SOUTHERN EXPOSURE

Southern Exposure A Solo Sea Kayaking Journey Around New Zealand's South Island:

Southern Exposure Chris Duff, 2003 In this epic tale of sea kayaking adventure award winning author Chris Duff places readers in the cockpit of his 18 foot kayak and lets them experience the full power and beauty of the South Pacific Ocean and the wild energy of the Tasman Sea as it thunders onto New Zealand's uninhabited west coast Not just an account of human physical endurance and determination to attempt what had only been accomplished once before this exquisitely written narrative reveals the philosophical and psychological life of a man who has chosen the sea as the master to sit before and to learn from The intense and often terrifying sea journey is balanced by serendipitous meetings along the way with friendly New Zealanders and with the diverse wildlife of this tiny and remote island country Southern Exposure is a force of writing that will captivate the armchair adventurer as well as the seasoned ocean traveler Sea Kayaking Philip

Woodhouse, 2013-12-16 In Sea Kayaking comprehensive guide for those who travel the open waters in the Southern Hemisphere Philip Woodhouse Australian paddler and Royal Australian Air Force veteran shares his years of experience technical training and military teaching skills What began as a personal reference was soon developed as a training manual recommended by the Victorian Sea Kayak Club to its members and East Coast Kayaking to their patrons and Australian Canoeing students Sea Kayaking covers boat design kit requirements paddling skills health and well being meteorology the ocean environment navigation communications conservation and minimal impact camping conservation seamanship electrical bilge pumps solar panels light sources boat repairs leadership risk management basic safety and survival strategies as well as a brief overview about the history and various types of canoeing There is also a comprehensive glossary to assist the reader in understanding the terms and concepts discussed in the main text Woodhouse's work differs from most manuals about sea kayaking in that it is written from the perspective of someone who paddles the Southern Hemisphere As such the major differences between the two hemispheres weather patterns navigation laws and terminology are discussed as well as compared to their Northern Hemisphere counterparts In the end paddling skills are paddling skills hypothermia is hypothermia and twenty five knot winds are twenty five knot winds A three metre tidal range can still produce a long haul across mud flats when the tide is out and landing through two metre surf is still scary though a lot of fun no matter where you paddle

Water Worlds: Human Geographies of the Ocean Dr Jon Anderson, Dr Kimberley Peters, 2014-02-28 Our world is a water world Seventy percent of our planet consists of ocean However geography has traditionally overlooked this vital component of the earth's composition The word geography directly translates as earth writing and in line with this definition the discipline has preoccupied itself with the study of terrestrial spaces of society and nature This book challenges human geography's preoccupation with the terrestrial investigating the terra incognita of the seas and oceans Linking to new theoretical debates shaping the geographic discipline such as affect assemblage emotion hybridity and the more than human this volume unlocks new knowledge concerning the human geographies of ocean space The book casts adrift stable bounded and fixed conceptions of space and advances geographical understanding based on the world as becoming changing mobile and processional This ontology supports the notion that the oceans are not simply fluid in a literal way but also in a conceptual sense suggesting that the seas have their own fluid natures their own capacities and agencies which are co-fabricated with social and cultural life This book features twelve chapters authored by key academics contributing to this growing field of research The book is divided into three sections including an Introduction by the editors and a foreword by Prof Philip E Steinberg the leading scholar in the field of maritime geographies The first section of the book considers the ways in which different watery spaces from the Atlantic Ocean to the Mediterranean Sea have been conceptualized theorized and known through metaphors voyages of discovery and scientific endeavour The second section examines how oceans are experienced through various activities including driving on water kayaking in water and diving under water The final section explores the relations between human life and the nature of the sea as a material mobile and more than human space examining the influences of the ocean on the migratory practices of fishermen in Senegal to the more than human geographies of the contemporary scallop industry the historical journeys of steam ship companies and the pirate radio enterprise Oceans are fundamental to the workings of the world as we know it Critical human activities take place at sea including trade tourism migration scientific exploration and resource exploitation The water world is therefore significantly entwined with our everyday lives This book offers a novel and important contribution to an ever emerging cross disciplinary subject matter
