Strategic Survey 1997 98

Lawrence W. Prabhakar, Joshua Ho, Walter Samuel Grono Bateman

Strategic Survey 1997 98:

Strategic Survey 1997/98 International Institute for Strategic Studies, 1998 Strategic Survey 1997 98 reviews and analyzes the key political economic and foreign policy developments and trends of 1997 and the first quarter of 1998 Articles covering regional security proliferation and military conflict form an accessible commentary invaluable for interpreting world wide strategic events Strategic Survey, 1998 NATO and Peace Support Operations, 1991-1999 Henning Frantzen, 2004-12-17 This new book addresses the key question of how NATO and three of its member states are configuring their policies and military doctrines in order to handle the new strategic environment This environment is increasingly dominated by new wars more precisely civil wars within states and peacekeeping as the strategy devised by outside actors for dealing with them The book seeks to explain how this new strategic environment has been interpreted and how the new conflicts and peacekeeping have been fitted into defence and war key concepts in the field of security studies China Review 1999 Chong Chor Lau, Xiao Geng, 1999 China has made great success in improving its foreign relations with other countries in 1998 Jiang Zemin's visit to the United States and Japan clearly showed that China would continually uphold its open door policy and economic reform It is significant to most economic analysts that China has still recorded 7.8% economic growth under the Asian financial crisis China Review 1999 the ninth volume of this series is an expert survey of China's major sectors of interest which critically summarizes the development of the previous year in core chapters covering politics the economy and social change This volume has several in depth presentations on political and social economic issues such as the Sino U S relations Mainland Taiwan relations the economic performance of 1998 all major concerns to those interested in the development of the People's Republic Additional studies describe rarely featured areas of Chinese society

Demography and National Security Myron Weiner, Sharon Stanton Russell, 2001-08-01 Political scientists demographers legal scholars and historians have come together in this volume under the direction of the late Myron Weiner one of the leading scholars in this field to address three of the major sets of questions in the field of political demography How changes in demographic variables population size growth distribution and composition influence threats real or perceived to a country's political stability and security how governments respond to demographic trends and how governments attempt to change demographic variables in order to enhance national security The Revolution in Strategic Affairs Lawrence Freedman, 2020-10-28 Rapid developments in information technology and precision weaponry are said to herald a revolution in military affairs RMA making possible quick and decisive victories with minimal casualties and collateral damage But has such a revolution taken place The issues that drive conflict will persist and many of the technical advances associated with the RMA will not necessarily produce a transformation in the nature of warfare The end of the Cold War has highlighted another revolution one in political affairs Major powers appear less likely to go to war with one another than they are to intervene in conflicts involving weak states with potential opponents including militia groups

drug cartels and terrorists RMA technology may be less suited to conflicts such as these If the cumulative effect of these changes has produced a revolution it is a revolution in strategic as much as military affairs This paper argues that the RMA is the practical expression of a Western Way of Warfare the key features of which are professional armed forces intolerance of casualties and intolerance of collateral damage the key technological and conceptual components of the RMA were in place by the early 1970s The trend has therefore been evolutionary rather than revolutionary The significant difference is in the new political setting of the end of the Cold War and the revolution in perceptions of Western particularly US conventional military strength brought about by the Gulf War of 1991 the Gulf conflict could mark the start of a true revolution if future battles offer similar opportunities to exploit the RMA s technology However since the US and its allies appear unbeatable when fighting on their own terms future opponents will fight differently the West will therefore face opponents who will follow strategies that contradict the Western Way of Warfare They will avoid pitched battles will exploit the West s reluctance to inflict civilian suffering and will target their opponent s domestic political base as much as its forward troops The problem for the West is not how to prevail but how to do so in an acceptable manner The more warfare becomes entwined with civilian activity the more difficult it is to respond with the type of decisive and overwhelming military means embodied in the RMA The RMA does not create a situation in which information is the only commodity at stake and so does not offer the prospect of a virtual war The new circumstances and capabilities do not prescribe one strategy but extend the range of strategies available The issue underlying the RMA is the ability of Western countries in particular the US to follow a line geared to their own interests and capabilities

Oil and Geopolitics in the Caspian Sea Region Bülent Aras, Michael P. Croissant, 1999-12-30 The opening of the Caspian Sea basin to Western investment following the breakup of the Soviet Union produced a major contest for access to the region s vast energy reserves on the part of powers as close as Russia Turkey and Iran and as far away as Japan and the United States Indeed the struggle to exploit Caspian oil has been one of the most monumental geopolitical developments of the post Cold War era as external powers vie for political economic and military influence in a region brimming not only with oil but also with ethnic conflicts and historical animosities The coming decade of rapidly increasing demand for energy will ensure the continued interest and engagement of external powers with often competing geopolitical agendas Thus the geopolitical developments spawned by the opening of the Caspian Sea are likely to continue to far outweigh the actual impact of Caspian oil on world energy markets This collection of essays by prominent scholars and international experts offers several important and often conflicting interpretations of the events unfolding along the shores of the world s oldest oil producing region

Crossroads and Conflict Gary K. Bertsch, Cassidy B. Craft, Scott A. Jones, Michael D. Beck, 2013-10-08 The world s second largest reserves of petroleum lie beneath the land locked Caspian Sea making the Caucasus of vital importance to both regional and global economic and security interests This book brings together experts from the US Russia and the Caucasus to examine the issues of conflict foreign policy tradeoffs and security in the region It takes into account the geopolitical factors Western and Russian involvement and the interaction between domestic and external pressures Crossroads and Conflict looks at the challenges faced by these countries and examines the possibilities for future peace and prosperity in the region Strategic Survey ,1998 Oversight over aktuelle internationale forhold From Adversaries to Partners? Ming-Yen Tsai,2003-10-30 When China and Russia established a strategic partnership in 1996 both nations declared that they would further develop military cooperation in various fields Tsai examines the course of this military cooperation to reveal the nature of the military ties with the hopes of determining whether these two traditional adversaries have put aside historical legacies and mutual mistrust to create a full fledged military partnership After analyzing the motives and concerns of both powers Tsai concludes that while progress has been made in reducing military tensions in border regions the level of trust has not increased substantially The nature of these ties remains extremely fragile Among Western analysts there has been concern that a closer partnership might adversely affect U S interests in the region China and Russia have developed cooperation in certain areas such as arms transfers and military technical cooperation and these achievements have successfully reduced political tension However reciprocal threats against each other s territories and China s increasing ambitions and capacity to act as a great military power in the region could eventually become a major source of friction Based on research in both Chinese and Russian this study offers a comprehensive analysis on the development of and limits to this military cooperation Asian Islam in the 21st Century John L. Esposito,John Voll,Osman Bakar,2008 Asian Islam in the 21st century is divided into two sections religion politics and society in major Muslim majority countries and ethnic and religious politics in Muslim minority communities Muslims in Asia are affected by what is happening in the Arab Middle East and the Western part of the Islamic world The Evolving Maritime Balance of Power in the Asia-Pacific Lawrence W. Prabhakar,Joshua Ho,Walter Samuel Grono Bateman,2006 The Asia Pacific region has emerged as the hub of global geo political geo economic and geo strategic significance in the post Cold War period The rise of China and the resurgence of India will be the hallmark for the next 50 years How this surge in power is accommodated by the incumbent powers like the United States and Japan and how the new regional powers like China and India manage the power politics that emerge will be the key determinants of regional stability This volume examines the national maritime doctrines as well as the nuclear weapons developments at sea of the four major powers in the Asia Pacific namely China India Japan and the United States to see if the evolving dynamic is a cooperative or a competitive one In particular the volume looks at the evolving paradigms of maritime transformation in strategy and technology the emergent new maritime doctrines and evolving force postures in the naval orders of battle the role and operations of nuclear navies in the Asia Pacific and the implications and impact of nuclear weapons ballistic missiles and sea based missile defence responses in the region Sample Chapter s Chapter 1 Cooperation or Competition in Maritime Asia Pacific 544 KB Chapter 3 Maritime Strategic Trends in the Asia Pacific Issues and Challenges 1 534 KB Contents Issues Trends and Paradigms in

Weapons of Mass Destruction E. Spiers, 2000-02-24 The proliferation of weapons of mass destruction has continued to give cause for concern even after the end of the Cold War This book analyses how the prospects for proliferation have changed since the 1990s particularly in light of the Gulf War and the UN inspections of Iraq It will examine the new pattern of incentives and disincentives for proliferation the utility of these weapons at state and sub state levels and their implications for arms control and international security

Global Change T. Inoguchi, 2001-04-17 This book examines global change from a dialectical perspective Looking at global change in terms of unipolarisation in international security globalisation in the world economy and democratisation in global governance the volume provides a refreshingly Japanese angle on addressing complex interplays between the social forces underlying these themes The book is indispensable reading for undergraduate and graduate students or IR theory international security international political economy and global governance as well as American and Japanese foreign policy
