

An aerial map of London, England, illustrating the area affected by the Great Fire of 1666. The River Thames flows through the center of the city. A large, irregularly shaped area in the eastern part of the city is highlighted in bright orange and red, representing the fire's path. This area starts near the River Thames and extends eastwards, passing through the City of London. Several landmarks are labeled with white text and lines pointing to their locations: Tower of London, London Bridge, The Bank of London, The London Stock Exchange, The City of London, The Tower of London, and Tower Bridge. A compass rose is visible in the bottom left corner, indicating North. The map is a grayscale aerial photograph with the fire area overlaid in color.
