Strengthening Research In Academic Ob Gyn Departments:

Strengthening Research in Academic OB/GYN Departments Institute of Medicine, Committee on Research Capabilities of Academic Departments of Obstetrics and Gynecology, 1992-02-01 Research conducted in academic departments of obstetrics and gynecology could result in substantial improvements in the health of women and the outcomes of pregnancy Strengthening Research in Academic OB GYN Departments determines whether such departments are capable of fulfilling this promise The committee finds that these departments have a poor track record in their ability to compete for research funds and in the extent to which their faculty contribute to research Adding to the problem are factors that deter OB GYNs from a research career and a dearth of dynamic research leaders in the profession The volume explores reasons for this situation and makes recommendations to counteract them Also included is an agenda of needed research Current Progress in Perinatal Medicine E.V. Cosmi, Gian Carlo Di Renzo, 1994-04-15 Strategies for improving material and perinatal health have been pursued by many institutions and workers worldwide and this volume brings together many of their significant research findings which have an important bearing on these issues Changing Landscape of Academic Women's Health Care in the United States William F. Rayburn, Jay Schulkin, 2011-03-31 Since 2005 a dozen states and more than 15 specialties have reported a physician shortage or anticipate one in the next few years This anticipated shortage and a worsening of physician distribution are compounded by a projected increased demand for women s healthcare services Women s healthcare is particularly vulnerable because the obstetrician gynecologist workforce is aging and is among the least satisfied medical specialists Furthermore fellowship training in women s healthcare in internal medicine and in maternal child health in family and community medicine involves only a small portion of general internists and family physicians In response to this challenge the Association of American Medical Colleges called for an expansion of medical schools and graduate medical education enrollments As we cope with significant and rapid changes in organizations and reimbursement academic departments of obstetrics and gynecology family and community medicine and internal medicine have opportunities to create a unified women s health curriculum for undergraduate students share preventive health and well woman expertise in training programs provide improved continuity of care instill concepts of lifelong learning to our graduates and better develop our research programs This volume s chapters focus on strategic planning on behalf of academic faculty who will train the anticipated additional load of students residents and fellows in women s healthcare changing demographics of faculty expanding roles of clinician educators physician investigators and their future the hidden value of part time faculty faculty salaries required skillsets of academic leaders the meaning of tenure and faculty satisfaction and retention Recommendations presented here from authors with distinguished leadership skills indicate a consensus but not unanimity In furthering these goals we summarize in the final chapter our collective expertise and offer ways to implement recommendations to better prepare for tomorrow s needs in academic women s healthcare Progress Report
