Stress Management For Correctional Officers And Their Families:

Stress Management for Correctional Officers and Their Families Frances Cheek,1984-01-01 Police, Firefighter, and Paramedic Stress John J. Miletich,1990-01-16 Public safety professionals work together in life and death situations During natural or transportation disasters industrial accidents shootings suicides or dozens of other instances police officers firefighters and paramedics are called upon to assist both injured and uninjured people Although often romanticized in television series and in films the real life tasks of public safety professionals are usually unpleasant restraining violent individuals and removing accident homicide and suicide victims from death scenes and always highly stressful They are frequently subjected to additional stress when their efforts are criticized by family members of the injured or deceased Although stress can be harmful even fatal police officers firefighters and paramedics can have more productive and satisfying lives when they learn to positively control stress rather than be controlled by it This English language bibliography consisting of more than 700 references covering the time period 1945 to early 1989 can help these and other professionals manage stress more effectively Source publications all of which are annotated include books articles conference proceedings theses government publications and dissertations The bibliography section is composed of six chapters addressing psychological and physiological factors the family substance abuse accidents and suicide with references arranged alphabetically by author surname A list of acronyms and author and subject indexes complete the work Of paramount importance to police officers firefighters and paramedics as well as their families this bibliography will provide legislators physicians nurses social workers psychiatrists psychologists and sociologists with extensive and substantial documentation on the stress filled work lives of these public safety professionals Correctional Organization and Management Robert M. Freeman,1999 Bridges the gap between critical elements of organisational theory and psychosocial issues Explains the evolution of corrections related public policy and corrections organisational behaviour and structure over the past 200 years Also leads to an understanding of the ethical change management and 21st century challenges correctional managers and leaders must be prepared to address Promoting Wellness and Resiliency in Correctional Officers Hayden P. Smith,2022-12-26 Correctional officers face considerable stress risk and danger that lead to poor physical and mental health outcomes In fact their life expectancy is 15 years shorter than the national average Public perception and media portrayals of correctional officers tend to reinforce stereotypes of brutish improper and uncontrolled behavior Yet the reality is that correctional officers are operating a default public and mental health system for a sizeable portion of our society a responsibility that exposes them to considerable risk These negative effects have been compounded by an international staffing crisis that has made our jails and prisons far less safe for working officers To address this situation this book features an examination of a combined 11 313 correctional officers and 42 of their family members in the United States Canada and Europe It explores proactive strategies that can reduce rates of posttraumatic stress disorder

PTSD in correctional officers which currently surpasses those found in returning military veterans who experienced combat. It then delves into the dynamics of correctional officer suicide featuring the perspectives of their families. This book highlights innovative approaches that can build on existing strengths including the role of international exchange programs. It presents universal themes that impact the safety, wellbeing, and resiliency of correctional officers along with positive outcomes related to evidence-based programs that maximize health in the correctional workplace. This book will be of interest to researchers and advanced students of criminology, mental health, public policy, social work, and sociology. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the journal Criminal Justice Studies. Stress, Trauma, and Wellbeing in the Legal System Monica K. Miller, Brian H. Bornstein, 2013-01-17. Stress, Trauma and Wellbeing in the Legal System presents theory, research, and scholarship from a variety of social scientific disciplines and offers suggestions for those interested in exploring and improving the wellbeing of those who are voluntarily or involuntarily drawn into the legal system.

Correctional psychology is an area of specialization that has recently enjoyed explosive growth along with the burgeoning United States prison population and the renewed interest in providing correctional rehabilitation programs that reduce inmate recidivism. The Practice of Correctional Psychology Marguerite Ternes, Philip R. Magaletta, Marc W. Patry, 2018-11-24. This highly accessible volume tours the competencies and challenges relating to contemporary mental health service delivery in correctional settings. Balancing the general and specific knowledge needed for conducting effective therapy in jails and prisons, leading experts present eclectic theoretical models, current statistics, diagnostic information, and frontline wisdom. Evidence-based practices are detailed for mental health assessment, treatment, and management of inmates, including specialized populations: women, youth, and offenders with specific pathologies, sexual offenders, psychopaths. And readers are reminded that correctional psychology is in an evolutionary state, adapting to the diverse needs of populations and practitioners in the context of reducing further offending. Included in the coverage: Assessing and treating offenders with mental illness; Substance use disorders in correctional populations; Assessing and treating offenders with intellectual disabilities; Assessing and treating those who have committed sexual offenses; Self-harm, suicidality in corrections; Correctional staff; The issue of job stress. The Practice of Correctional Psychology will be of major interest to psychologists, social workers, and master's level clinicians and students who work in correctional institutions and settings with offenders on parole or probation, as well as other professionals within the correctional system who work directly with offenders, such as probation officers, parole officers, program officers, and corrections officers.
