Australian National Cinema Tom O'Regan, 2005-08-10 Tom O'Regan's book is the first of its kind on Australian post war cinema It takes as its starting point

Bazin's question 'What is cinema?' and asks what the construct of a national cinema means. It looks at the broader concept from a different angle, taking film beyond the confines of art into the broader cultural world. O'Regan's analysis situates Australian cinema in its historical and cultural perspective, producing a valuable insight into the issues that have been raised by film policy, the cinema market place and public discourse on film production strategies. Since 1970, Australian film has enjoyed a revival. This book contains detailed critiques of the key films of this period and uses them to illustrate the recent theories on the international and Australian cinema industries. Its conclusions on the nature of the nation's cinema and the discourses within it are relevant within a far wider context: film as a global phenomenon.

Australian Cinema in the 1990s Ian Craven, 2012-10-12. This study is a collection of critical and scholarly analyses of the organisation of the Australian Film Industry since 1990. Particular emphasis is put on globalisation, authorship, national narrative and film aesthetics.

Adaptation and the New Art Film William H. Mooney, 2021-04-21. Since the 1990s, the expropriation of canonical works of cinema has been a fundamental dimension of art film exploration. Rainer Werner Fassbinder provides an early model of open adaptation of film classics, followed ever more boldly by the Coen Brothers, Chantal Akerman, Alex Carax, Todd Haynes, Florian Henckel von Donnersmarck, Baz Luhrmann, and Olivier Assayas. This book devotes chapters to each of these directors to examine how their films redeploy landmark precursors such as City Lights (1931), Citizen Kane (1941), Rome, Open City (1945), All About Eve (1950), and Vertigo (1958) in order to probe our psychological, philosophical, and historical situations in a postmodern société du spectacle. In broadly diverse ways, each of these directors complicates received notions of the past and its representation while probing the transformative media evolution and dislocation of the present in film art and in society.
