The Music Trade in Georgian England Michael Kassler,2017-07-05 In contrast to today s music industry whose principal products are recorded songs sold to customers round the world the music trade in Georgian England was based upon London firms that published and sold printed music and manufactured and sold instruments on which this music could be played The destruction of business records and other primary sources has hampered investigation of this trade but recent research into legal proceedings apprenticeship registers surviving correspondence and other archived documentation has enabled aspects of its workings to be reconstructed The first part of the book deals with Longman Broderip arguably the foremost English music seller in the late eighteenth century and the firm s two successors Broderip Wilkinson and Muzio Clementi s variously styled partnerships who carried on after Longman Broderip s assets were divided in 1798 The next part shows how a rival music seller John Bland and his successors used textual and thematic catalogues to advertise their publications This is followed by a comprehensive review of the development of musical copyright in this period a report of efforts by a leading inventor Charles 3rd Earl Stanhope to transform the ways in which music was printed and recorded and a study of Georg Jacob Vollweiler s endeavour to introduce music lithography into England The book should appeal not only to music historians but also to readers interested in English business history publishing history and legal history between 1714 and 1830 Concert Life in Eighteenth-Century Britain Susan Wollenberg,2017-07-05 In recent years there has been a considerable revival of interest in music in eighteenth century Britain This interest has now expanded beyond the consideration of composers and their music to include the performing institutions of the period and their relationship to the wider social scene The collection of essays presented here offers a portrayal of concert life in Britain that contributes greatly to the wider understanding of social and cultural life in the eighteenth century Music was not merely a pastime but was irrevocably linked with its social political and literary contexts The perspectives of performers organisers patrons audiences publishers copyists and consumers are considered here in relation to the concert experience All of the essays taken together construct an understanding of musical communities and the origins of the modern concert system This is achieved by focusing on the development of music societies the promotion of musical events the mobility and advancement of musicians systems of patronage the social status of musicians the repertoire performed and published the role of women pianists and the topography of concerts In this way the book will not only appeal to music specialists but also to social and cultural historians Beethoven's Symphonies Arranged for the Chamber Nancy November,2021-06-10 Reveals the importance of arrangements of Beethoven s works for nineteenth century domestic music making to the history of the classical symphony

Chamber Arrangements of Beethoven's Symphonies, Part 3 Ludwig van Beethoven, 2020-01-01 This volume represents two important aspects of early nineteenth century taste in chamber music a predilection for mixed groupings including winds and strings and a preference for larger groupings including nonets The sheer number of such works composed along with data from publishing catalogs and concert programs is evidence of the contemporary taste for varied chamber music The present volume gives a selection of three large scale chamber arrangements of Beethoven's symphonies Michael Gotthard Fischer's arrangement of the sixth symphony for string sextet provides an example of this less common format The nonet arrangement of the second symphony for flute two horns two violins two violas cello and bass by Ferdinand Ries shows the flexibility of performance forces in this repertoire as well as the publishers and composers' desires to capitalize on their popularity given that this arrangement can be performed with or without the addition of winds The arrangement of the fourth symphony by William Watts stands between the sextet and nonet arrangements noted above in its combination of one flute with six strings
