Studies in Russian Literature Charles Edward Turner, 1971 Studies in Russian Literature (Classic Reprint) Charles Edward Turner, 2018-01-08 Excerpt from Studies in Russian Literature To the difficulties inseparably attached to all literary criticism must in the present case be added the circumstance that the writers here reviewed belong to a nation whose history and civilization differ in many essential points from the history and civilization of Western Europe I dare not utter myself that in all cases I have succeeded in understanding aright the form and spirit of mind which have given to the Russian people a literature of their own I can only trust that an honest desire to comprehend and appreciate the character and aims of a people among whom I have lived for many years and a warm sympathy with the progress they have made and despite recent ominous events are still making may have proved sufficient safeguards against glaring errors and that justice has been done in these pages to the more illustrious writers and thinkers of modern Russia About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works Studies in Russian Literature C. E. Turner, 1974 Studies in Russian Literature Charles Edward Turner, 1882 Studies in Russian Literature Charles E. Turner, 1973 Stockholm Studies in Russian Literature , 1974 Studies in Russian Literature and Theory , 19?? Studies in Russian Literature , 1980 Northwestern University press studies in Russian literature and theory , A History of Russian Literature Andrew Kahn, Mark Lipovetsky, Irina Reyfman, Stephanie Sandler, 2018-04-13 Russia possesses one of the richest and most admired literatures of Europe reaching back to the eleventh century A History of Russian Literature provides a comprehensive account of Russian writing from its earliest origins in the monastic works of Kiev up to the present day still rife with the creative experiments of post Soviet literary life The volume proceeds chronologically in five parts extending from Kievan Rus in the 11th century to the present day The coverage strikes a balance between extensive overview and in depth thematic focus Parts are organized thematically in chapters which a number of keywords that are important literary concepts that can serve as connecting motifs and case studies in depth discussions of writers institutions and texts that take the reader up close and personal Visual material also underscores the interrelation of the word and image at a number of points particularly significant in the medieval period and twentieth century The History addresses major continuities and discontinuities in the history of Russian literature across all periods and in particular brings out trans historical features that contribute to the notion of a national literature The volume's time range has the merit of identifying from the early modern period a vital set of national stereotypes and popular folklore about boundaries space Holy Russia and the charismatic king that offers culturally relevant material to later writers This volume delivers a fresh view on a series of key questions about Russia's literary history by providing new mappings of literary history and a narrative that pursues key concepts rather more than individual authorial careers This holistic narrative underscores the ways in which context and text are densely woven in Russian literature and demonstrates that the most exciting way to understand the canon and the development of tradition is through a discussion of the interrelation of major and minor figures historical events and literary politics literary theory and literary innovation
