respected Artist's Materials series offers groundbreaking analysis of Sam Francis's working methods and materials. American artist Sam Francis, 1923-1994, brought vivid color and emotional intensity to Abstract Expressionism. He was described as the most sensuous and sensitive painter of his generation by former Guggenheim Museum director James Johnson Sweeney and curator Howard Fox. Called him one of the acknowledged masters of late modern art, Francis's works, whether intimate or monumental in scale, make indelible impressions. The intention of the artist was to make them felt as much as seen. At the age of twenty, Francis was hospitalized for spinal tuberculosis and spent three years virtually immobilized in a body cast. For physical therapy, he was given a set of watercolors and, as he described it, he painted his way back to life. The exuberant color and expression in his paintings celebrated his survival his five decade career was an energetic visual and theoretical exploration that took him around the world Francis's idiosyncratic painting practices have long been the subject of speculation and debate among conservators and art historians Presented here for the first time in this volume are the results of an in depth scientific study of more than forty paintings from the late 1940s to early 1990s which reveal new discoveries about his creative process inventive techniques and specially formulated paints and binders The data provides a key to the complicated evolution of the artist's work and informs original art historical interpretations

The Concrete Body Elise Archias, 2016-11-29 Offering an incisive rejoinder to traditional histories of modernism and postmodernism this original book examines the 1960s performance work of three New York artists who adapted modernist approaches to form for the medium of the human body Finding parallels between the tactility of a drip of paint and a body's reflexive movements Elise Archias argues convincingly that Yvonne Rainer b 1934 Carolee Schneemann b 1939 and Vito Acconci b 1940 forged a dialogue between modernist aesthetics and their own artistic community's embrace of all things ordinary through work that explored the abstraction born of the body's materiality Rainer's task like dances Schneemann's sensuous appropriations of popular entertainment and Acconci's behaviorist inflected tests highlight the body's unintended movements as vital reminders of embodied struggle amid the constraining structures in contemporary culture Archias also draws compelling comparisons between embodiment as performed in the work of these three artists and in the sit ins and other nonviolent protests of the era
