Murphy,Eitan Y. Wilf,2021-11-01 The chapters in this captivating volume demonstrate the importance and power of design and the ubiquitous and forceful effects it has on human life within the study of anthropology The scholars explore the interactions between anthropology and design through a cross disciplinary approach and while their approaches vary in how they specifically consider design they are all centered around the design and anthropology relationship The chapters look at anthropology for design in which anthropological methods and concepts are mobilized in the design process anthropology of design in which design is positioned as an object of ethnographic inquiry and critique and design for anthropology in which anthropologists borrow concepts and practices from design to enhance traditional ethnographic forms Collectively the chapters argue that bringing design and anthropology together can transform both fields in more than one way and that to tease out the implications of using design to reimagine ethnography and of using ethnography to reimagine design we need to consider the historical specificity of their entanglements The Death of Authentic Primitive Art Shelly Errington,2023-09-01 In this lucid witty and forceful book Shelly Errington argues that Primitive Art was invented as a new type of art object at the beginning of the twentieth century but that now at the century s end it has died a double but contradictory death Authenticity and primitivism both attacked by cultural critics have died as concepts At the same time the penetration of nation states the tourist industry and transnational corporations into regions that formerly produced these artifacts has severely reduced supplies of primitive art bringing about a second death Errington argues that the construction of the primitive in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries and the kinds of objects chosen to exemplify it must be understood as a product of discourses of progress from the nineteenth century European narrative of technological progress to the twentieth century narrative of modernism to the late twentieth century narrative of the triumph of the free market In Part One she charts a provocative argument ranging through the worlds of museums art theorists mail order catalogs boutiques tourism and world events tracing a loosely historical account of the transformations of meanings of primitive art in this century In Part Two she explores an eclectic collection of public sites in Mexico and Indonesia a national museum of anthropology a cultural theme park an airport and a ninth century Buddhist monument newly refurbished to show how the idea of the primitive can be used in the interests of promoting nationalism and economic development Errington's dissection of discourses about progress and primitivism in the contemporary world is both a lively introduction to anthropological studies of art institutions and a dramatic new contribution to the growing field of cultural studies Words on Cassette, 2002 R R Bowker Publishing, 2002
